No. 1

MAYOR ADDRESSES OPENING CITY COUNCIL SESSION OF 1961

Following is the text of the annual address of Mayor John F. Collins before the Boston City Council on Tuesday, January 3, 1961:

Honorable Members of the City Council, Distinguished Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen.

One year ago tomorrow, the people of Boston embarked on "Operation Revival."

In that year we have made a good beginning, an important beginning, certainly an encouraging beginning.

But it is only a beginning, only the first in a "decade of dedication" which the times demand.

While we can report progress, progress in many directions, and while we can now definitely see in the distance the vista of a new city, which previously was only a dream, we dare not pause or falter in our progress, however briefly, lest our objective recede once more beyond the municipal horizon.

Interest in City Grows

It is only fitting that, as their elected officials, the Mayor and Council make public acknowledgment to the people themselves, for the enthusiastic interest they have shown, and the active cooperation they have given, in city affairs, and which have made our progress possible.

On behalf of the people, I, as their Mayor, wish to acknowledge the fine public service rendered during the past year by you, the members of the City Council, service which has been statesmanlike and farsighted, and has enabled us to expedite action beneficial to Boston and her citizens.

Certainly I would be remiss if I did not here publicly express my thanks to the thousands of city employees whose fine services and great loyalty to the city have made my tasks that much easier and that much more satisfying to accomplish.

As we enter upon the new municipal year, somehow it becomes necessary to emphasize the word "responsibility," responsibility to the public on the part of elected officials.

The Public Trust

If public service is a public trust, then that trust must be carried out with the greatest care, with the greatest responsibility.

Last year, I pledged an administration which would be as economical and efficient as possible, consistent with good municipal service, in order to halt the further upward spiral of our confiscatory tax rate. I undertook to collect moneys owed the city, and to take all steps necessary to maintain her financial integrity. I undertook these responsibilities and I have tried to carry them out.

It therefore became necessary to advise our city employees that there could be no pay raises or increased fringe benefits for them until our financial house was in order, and until some overdue relief had been obtained for our home owners, rent payers, and property owners. Our city employees recognized the situation, and, being responsible persons themselves, cooperated magnificently, sacrificing or deferring what many of them believe to be their just due.

I believe it fair also to say that all city departments cooperated last year in trimming their budgets and acceding to budget reductions, all departments, that is, except one, the School Committee.

School Committee Remiss

In 1960, the School Committee submitted a budget which was obviously excessive. Aware of my duty to the taxpayers, including the parents of our school children, I exercised the power given me by the Legislature to reduce that budget to an amount which experienced advisers stated to be sufficient for the proper operation of a top-grade school system. As events turned out, that reduced budget was more than adequate, and the School Department would have ended up with a surplus in 1960 but for two events:

After midnight of September 2, 1960, the School Committee granted teachers a pay raise which cost $176,000 for the balance of 1960, and is calculated to cost $1,150,000 more in 1961.

Again, after midnight of December 20, 1960, the School Committee granted its non-teaching employees a pay raise which will cost us $269,000 in 1961 and every year thereafter.

Together, these pay raises will cost the citizens of Boston $1,419,000 in 1961, and, if permitted to stand, will result in an increase of about $1.00 in our tax rate.

The probabilities are that they cannot be allowed to stand.

Let us make one thing clear: The Mayor and Council are deeply interested as the School Committee may be in maintaining the highest educational standards in Boston and in providing adequate compensation for all of our employees, including, of course, our teachers. There is no difference of opinion between us in this regard. Our objectives are the same.

But the methods of attaining our objectives must be orderly, sensible, and responsible.

We cannot have most of the population pulling in one direction and the School Committee pulling in another.

Those members of the School Committee whose fiscal irresponsibility caused these unbudgeted pay increases fail, apparently, to understand the nature of their fiduciary obligation to the taxpaying public and their moral obligation to other city employees.

Surplus funds resulting from unexpended appropriations must be allowed to remain in the city treasury. It is the people's money, it is not to be divided in post-midnight raids on the public treasury.

No Preferred Class

Nor do we have preferred classes of city employees any more than we have preferred classes of citizens.

If and when the city has the money, it will provide additional employment benefits that may be merited, in an orderly and non-discriminatory manner.

In the meantime, I am bound to advise the School Committee that if these pay raises cannot be absorbed in the budget, without resulting in a tax rate increase, then they will not be allowed to stand for 1961; in such case, I will be bound to carry out my responsibility to the taxpayers, to the rent payers, to other city employees, and to all those conscientiously opposed to political shenanigans by eliminating any unnecessary increases from the 1961 School Department budget.

Must Control Police Spending

Such fiscal incidents emphasize not merely the need for legislation to prevent unbudgeted departmental pay increases, but also for legislation which will provide the Mayor and the City Council with budgetary control commensurate with their responsibility to provide departmental funds.

I refer in this connection to the Police Department, which has long maintained that it is independent of budgetary control by the city.

We dare not tolerate a situation where one city department has, in effect, a blank check on the city treasury, free from the slightest supervision or control by the Mayor and City Council.

The people have a right to hold their elected officials accountable for fiscal policies and practices. The people do not intend that the Mayor and Council shall not have fiscal authority commensurate with their accountability.

The city has therefore once again filed legislation, which if enacted, will transfer budgetary control over the Boston Police Department to the Mayor and Council, and we shall press for its passage.

Outside Burdens

Keeping Boston's financial household in order and reducing our oppressive tax rate are tasks made more complicated and difficult by the constant increases in annual financial burdens over which we have no control.

In 1961, as in 1960, among other matters, we are faced with increases in the MTA deficit, in MDC assessments, and in pension costs.

Hub on Treadmill

Boston's finances are therefore like a treadmill. If we merely hold the line, if we merely stand still, we move backward.

As a result, we are continuously faced with the problems of finding additional revenue and making budgetary cuts to offset the increased burdens which we are powerless to prevent.

Inasmuch as there are few immediate sources of additional revenue, the matter reduces itself to operating the city on the most economical basis possible, without sacrifice of essential services.

A tax rate can go so high as merely to be undesirable; if it goes any higher it can become dangerous; and if it goes still higher it can become fatal to our city. In my opinion our tax rate of the last few years has brought us at least to the brink of danger. Accordingly, since we are powerless to increase our revenues, we must perforce trim our expenses to meet the amount of revenues that are available this side of danger or disaster.

Tax Increase Almost Inevitable

Last year, by running a tight but sound ship we were able to overcome more than $12,000,000 in inherited or uncontrollable obligations. By so doing, we were able not only to avoid an $8 increase in the tax rate, but we were even successful in reducing the tax rate by 50 cents to $100.70.

In 1961, as matters now stand, and unless we are able to effect further economies and obtain additional financial relief, we will be faced with a tax rate of $104. You may be sure that as Mayor I will exert every strenuous effort to avoid, or at the very least, to minimize any increase in the tax rate.

But to succeed in this objective your Mayor has a right not only to demand the most careful budgeting and administration by his own department heads, but to ask for and receive the cooperation of all other agencies whose activities affect our finances, including the School Committee, the MTA, the MDC, and even the Legislature itself. I bespeak such cooperation.

760 Fewer Employees

I am glad to report that in 1960 your administration made substantial progress in its "No Hire, No Fire" policy, in the collection of moneys due the city, in effecting economies, and in increasing departmental efficiency.

First. On January 1, 1960 there were 11,140 permanent city employees in departments directly responsible to the Mayor. Adding in the employees of the Police and Library Departments and of the Finance Commission and Licensing Board, which are not subject to the Mayor's control, and the county employees whose compensation is paid by the city, and employees of the School and School Buildings Departments, we had on January 1, 1960, a total work force of 20,845 permanent personnel paid by the city, only 53 per cent of whom, however, are subject to the Mayor's jurisdiction.

As of December 31, 1960, we have effected a reduction of 641 employees in departments under the Mayor's control, or $5\frac{3}{4}$ per cent, representing approximately \$2,500,000 in estimated annual payroll saving to the city.

This compares with a reduction of only 363 such employees from November 1, 1957, the date of the so-called White Paper, to December 31, 1959.

In the Library Department employees were reduced by 54, or 10 per cent of the work force.

In the Police Department, employees were reduced by 44, or a little less than $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

County employees were reduced by 18, or about $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

The School Buildings Department reduced its employees by 3, or almost 5 per cent.

Together these reductions totaled 760 in number, or about 3.65 per cent of the total working force.

School Personnel Increased

However, the net saving in the number of permanent employees was reduced to only 655, because in 1960 the School Committee increased the number of its personnel and provisional teachers by 105, from 4,860 employees to 4,965.

Whether and why it was absolutely necessary to hire these additional employees is beyond my knowledge. The figure will have to speak for itself.

Regardless, it may be anticipated that adherence to a policy of not filling vacancies, except where the public interest so requires, will permit further substantial savings in the next few years.

However, it is obvious that if such reductions are to be effected principally in departments subject to the Mayor's control, without corresponding reduction in other city and county agencies, and if this policy is not going to be carried out by the School Committee at all, then the point of no return will soon be reached, unless we are prepared to risk the impairment or curtailment of essential municipal services rendered by departments within the Mayor's control.

I therefore call on every agency involved to do its part, and I bespeak the continued vigilance of the taxpaying public in this regard.

Tax Delinquency Checked

Second. When this administration took office, more than $7,000,000 in delinquent real estate taxes remained uncollected. Special steps were immediately taken to reorganize and speed up the process of collection, with the following successful results in 1960, as compared with 1959:

The number of cases collected in full increased from 130 to 372, and the total cash collected increased from $777,000 to $1,541,000, percentage increases of 186 per cent and 98 per cent, respectively.

Foreclosures Up

The number of properties foreclosed increased from 135 to 848, and the total value of these foreclosed properties increased from $458,000 to $1,825,000, increases respectively of 528 per cent and 298 per cent.

Between cash collected and the value of properties foreclosed, the total nearly tripled, going from $1,235,000 in 1959 to $3,367,000 in 1960, an increase of $2,132,000 or the equivalent of about $1.50 on the tax rate.

These collections have been made under a rigid policy of no compromise of the amount due the city, and without waiver of interest or costs. It is estimated that the city collected more than $200,000 in interest and costs during 1960.

On the other side of the tax title picture, the income from sales of foreclosed real estate in 1960 was the highest in the history of the Real Property Department, and increased from $140,000 in 1959 to more than $527,000 in 1960.

Auctions Increase

Forty-one public auctions of 808 parcels of real estate were conducted in 1960, returning more than 3,000,000 square feet of land and 46 buildings to the tax rolls, as compared, in 1959, with 11 auctions, 225 parcels, 26 buildings, and 800,000 square feet of land.

To stimulate further sales of foreclosed properties, the Real Property Department published in November 1960 an up-to-date catalogue of all such parcels, and out of the initial printing of 1,000 copies, more than 700 have already been sold to interested parties at $1.50 per copy.

Hospital Bills Collected

A start has also been made in speeding up collections of bills owed the City Hospital. Here, unfortunately, we are faced with numerous problems, including the fact that the city has no security for the amounts owed, the difficulty of locating many debtors, and their relative inability to pay. Efforts in this field are continuing. Nevertheless, an all-out collection drive was started in June, and already we have collected nearly $175,000 from June 1 as compared with less than $15,000 in 1959, an increase of nearly 1,100 per cent.

Welfare Reimbursement

In 1960 the Law Department collected more than $162,000 from other cities and towns for welfare relief furnished to their residents, as compared with less than $43,000 in 1959.

This is exclusive of $215,000 that the Commonwealth has agreed to pay the city for the relief furnished to persons with no legal settlement in Massachusetts, as the result of five lawsuits brought by the city.

Other encouraging results have been reported by the Law Department, both in collections and in more than $100,000 saved in payment of claims against the city, as compared with 1959.

Park Department Efficiency

Third. To mention only a few of the economies effected in various departments:

The Park Department, operating under a budget $500,000 less than its 1959 budget, nevertheless will report a surplus of $150,000, notwithstanding the transfer of 15 Hospital Department employees to the Park Department.

In April, various unneeded public baths were closed, including the Dover Street baths and laundry building, with important savings to the city but without detriment to the employees involved who were transferred to other duties. The sale of these buildings to private owners will, in addition, place them on the tax rolls, with resulting additional revenue to the city.

Examples abound of departmental initiative in saving the city money, without affecting amount or quality of service.

Purchasing Improved

A few examples from the Purchasing Division will be of interest:

City Hospital expenditures for X-ray solutions have been cut one third by reclaiming silver nitrate from used solutions.

By making direct purchases from manufacturers, fire extinguishers formerly costing $76.50 each are being obtained for $39 each, and the cost of certain drugs has been reduced anywhere from 10 per cent to 60 per cent.

By broadening the scope of specifications, without sacrificing quality, the cost of certain syringes and needles for the hospital has been cut one third to one half.

By finding suitable replacements for items considered to be of a specialty nature, bottles formerly bought at $3.25 each are now being purchased at $3.50 per dozen.

I might mention, parenthetically, the difference in amount of revenue received by the Commonwealth for the so-called Dewey Square parking lot which, as you will recall, gave the Commonwealth $2,400 a year. Within two weeks after it was transferred to the city, publicly advertised bids were conducted, and the highest bidder will give the city $48,000 a year, that is $4,000 a month, as contrasted with $2,400 a year to the Commonwealth.

Efficiency Surveys

Fourth. Off to a good start is the process of surveying the various city departments, for the purpose of reorganizing them, where necessary, in the interest of better service to the people at lower cost.

The entire cost of several of these surveys has been defrayed by public-minded individuals and civic agencies, to whom we express our very deep thanks. Their interest and support is an example of the new spirit in Boston. The results achieved and to be achieved will, I am certain, completely justify their public-minded investment in the future of Boston.

Assessing Department Survey

Already completed is a survey of the Assessing Department, which will serve as the basis of an ordinance I will introduce, calling for the reorganization of that department which, I am very hopeful, will better the efficiency of the department, improve the morale and working conditions of its personnel, and benefit the taxpayer by the employment of more scientific, accurate, and equitable methods of appraisal and assessment.

Building Department Study

A personnel and management study of the Building Department is under way, also financed by a Citizens' Committee for the purpose of improving performance, within present budgetary limits. Studies are also in progress in the Health Department with a view toward administrative reorganization and reorientation of its programs, based upon current and projected needs.

The voluminous survey report on the Hospital Department is still the subject of study, with a view to implementing its recommendations. Important work remains to be done in this field.

We have therefore reengaged the consultant services of the firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget, whose original survey holds promise of million-dollar savings in this department.

In the course of time, each city department will be the subject of an intensive survey, with the dual objectives of increasing service to the public and reducing the cost of that service.

Boston's Credit Rating

In some ways, the best test of what the city has done and the direction in which she is going, is her credit rating.

I am therefore happy once again to state, as your Honorable Body was advised on November 28, 1960, by the Collector-Treasurer and the City Auditor, that the city's credit rating has steadily improved in 1960, and that the sale of her bond obligations is being accomplished at a steadily decreasing cost of interest, and especially so when compared with other large cities of the United States.

For example, while on November 17, 1959, Boston's net interest cost was 3.83 per cent as compared to 3.57 per cent for the Bond Buyers' Index of twenty cities and states, nevertheless this relationship was reversed on October 25, 1960, when Boston's net interest cost was reduced to 3.37 per cent as compared with 3.53 per cent for the Bond Buyers' Index.

On November 3, 1960, with all of the city's short-term debt, in the amount of $45,000,000, fully provided for, our general cash balance was over $51,000,000. Moreover, as a result of legislation introduced by the city and enacted in 1960, we are now legally permitted to invest temporary cash balances, with resulting new-found income to the city of at least $100,000 annually.

As of December 31, 1960, the city had no short-term debt whatever. Our gross long-term debt was reduced by $6,204,000, and net funded debt was reduced by $2,800,000, as compared with the prior year.

Of our total gross direct debt of $154,000,000 on December 31, 1960, more than $50,000,000 is represented by Traffic Tunnel and Rapid Transit debt, for the full redemption of which we already have sinking fund reserves which are $340,000 in excess of the amount required for exemption.

The city's financial house therefore appears to be in better order all the time, and we intend to keep it that way.

Urban Development

In terms of Boston's future physical well-being and financial strength, by far the major events and accomplishments, not only of 1960, but of the last several decades, have occurred in the field of urban renewal, both under public and private auspices.

Moreover, events of recent months have fully justified the decision to appoint a Development Administrator to coordinate, expedite, and accelerate the plans and programs of all municipal agencies operating in this field. Some of the benefits of this step have already been realized.

Needless to say, enactment of the legislation which will soon permit the great Prudential Center to go forward was of crucial importance to the city. Not the least of the benefits of that legislation is that it will permit other similar developments to be planned and executed with confidence on the part of investors and increasingly beneficial impact on the real estate tax rate.

Equal in importance to the city is the passage of the bills authorizing the Government Center, which will in a relatively short time remake a large and potentially valuable section of downtown Boston.

Our $90,000,000 redevelopment program has met with universal approval, and the federal government has already approved a $29,000,000 capital grant and $2,000,000 in planning advances, to get the program under way.

Redevelopment of the Atlantic Avenue water front, of the Park Square-South Cove area and of the North Station Terminal area are in active study and planning stages, as are the replanning of the retail core, the rehabilitation of the Back Bay and the 186-acre Washington Park renewal project in Roxbury.

The first complex of dwelling units in the West End development should be ready in 1961.

Early in 1961, it is expected that the White Fund Trustees will announce completed plans for the redevelopment of their Tremont Street properties by private capital, and there are numerous other signs of the renewal of interest of private building investment capital in Boston.

With the emphasis on people as well as on bricks and mortar, our renewal plans have been formulated and developed under a process of consultation with and participation by neighborhood citizen groups. Citizens have been encouraged and assisted to organize local district planning committees and councils, and numerous meetings have been held with them, to our intense satisfaction.

It is expected that 1961 will also see the adoption of a new up-to-date zoning code, to replace the present obsolete code which dates from 1924. After years of preparation, public hearings have been held, and the new code is in the process of review before final submission for adoption.

Not the least of the hopeful signs is that in 1960, construction and alteration permits in Boston increased nearly $25,000,000 over 1959, excluding from the 1959 tabulation the estimated cost of the Prudential project.

All in all, in the field of urban renewal, we can look back to 1960 with satisfaction, and we can look forward to succeeding years with keen anticipation.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, AND DEATHS REPORTED IN 1960

City Registrar Charles H. Mackie has published the figures showing Boston births, marriages, and deaths for the year as follows:

Births.....	24,339	24,186
Marriages.....	6,982	7,256
Deaths.....	12,949	12,317

Totals for the month of December, 1960, were as follows:

	1960	1959
Births.....	2,093	2,181
Marriages.....	400	462
Deaths.....	1,163	1,140

The above figures refer to births, marriages, and deaths which occurred in Boston regardless of official places of residence.

But we must not forget that the realization of our high hopes will depend on our hard work, that if we are to attain the more bountiful and more beautiful Boston we all desire, then we cannot daydream on the way.

Legislature's Responsibility

To a large extent the fate of Boston lies in the hands of the Legislature. Such matters as changes in the MTA and MDC assessment formulas and such matters as transfer to the state of nonmunicipal obligations for welfare and court costs, and increased state aid for school purposes, are not within our own power to accomplish, for these we need legislative sanction.

While Boston fared somewhat better in the Legislature during 1960 than in former years, we did not fare well enough. Despite the valiant efforts of the city's legislative agents and the cooperation of numerous civic agencies, too many of our bills, to put it bluntly, went down the drain.

But we are far from discouraged, and 1961 will see a renewed and increased effort by Boston in the Legislature, not merely on her own behalf, but also on behalf of all the cities and towns of the Commonwealth with whom we share our problems and our aspirations.

Long overdue from the Legislature is an alternate source of revenue for all the cities and towns.

Long overdue from the Legislature is the transfer to the state of welfare, court, and hospital costs.

I believe that in 1961, more than ever before, the Legislature will provide increasingly nonpartisan, nonpolitical, and nongeographical solutions to those municipal problems which are nonpartisan, nonpolitical, and nongeographical.

I feel confident that the Legislature is increasingly aware of the expectation by all citizens of enlightened and statesmanlike action on its part and I am therefore quite hopeful that 1961 will be a year of banner progress for the Commonwealth and its municipalities.

League of Municipalities

If the cities and towns of the Commonwealth have not attained all of their just and wholesome legislative objectives, it may be partly due to their own failure to unite and coordinate their efforts wherever their interests and purposes have been mutual.

I have therefore proposed that the elected city and town officials of our Bay State organize into a League of Municipalities, to provide a clearing house of information in fields of common interest and to present a united front in matters before the Legislature.

Such municipal leagues already exist in 44 of our states, and have been notably successful.

Boston will lend all of its assistance to the organization of such a league and in the formulation of plans for its successful operation, and looks forward to a most satisfactory and beneficial association with her neighbors throughout the state.

Prayer for Guidance

In conclusion, as we look back with reasonable satisfaction to the year just passed, as we look forward to 1961 and the years which follow in this "decade of dedication," we pray for divine guidance in administering the affairs of the city we love, so that the people of Boston may achieve the kind of city which they so richly merit, a city where good health, good surroundings, prosperity, and good feeling will abound.

I thank all who have helped us on our way so far.

HUGE NAVY SHIP FIRE IN NEW YORK INSPIRES SPECIAL MEASURES HERE

Assistant Fire Chief John E. Clougherty was sent to Brooklyn, New York, on December 28, for a conference on ship fires called by the Navy and the New York Fire Department.

Chief Clougherty is a former Navy man and a veteran of many years in the Marine Fire Division here.

He and Chief Herbert C. Stewart, Jr., of the Charlestown Navy Yard Fire Department will attempt to smooth out differences existing between the New York department and naval officials.

A difference of opinion arose after each side claimed the other hindered the fire fighting on the carrier "Constellation." (This fire swept the huge craft at Brooklyn Navy Yard on December 19, claiming the lives of 49 workmen and causing damage estimated at $75 million.)

Boston Fire Chief John A. Martin said a working program has long been in effect between Charlestown naval officials and the Boston department. Under it, the Boston chief is in sole command at yard fires and all firemen, city or federal.

Chief Martin said last night that, as a result of the fire in Brooklyn, district chiefs in East Boston, Charlestown, and South Boston will make regular weekly inspections of military facilities. The chief said the inspection program has the support of naval officials here.

The year 1960 established a 35-year record for the amount of money spent on new construction in Boston.

This was in spite of the fact that the year 1959 was the biggest twelve months in the city's history for the total amount of new construction authorized by city building permits. Last year the total estimated value of authorized new construction was $67.4 million. Disregarding the huge Prudential Center permit of 1959, this was the largest yearly total for new construction in 35 years. The largest single building project in last year's total was represented by a $7.5 million structural addition to the Liberty Mutual Insurance building. A total of $6.4 million worth of construction was committed last year for the West End Development, represented in two separate permits. In several current building projects at Harvard Medical School a total expenditure of

"Budget-less" Spending of School Committee Criticized by Mayor

Mayor Collins, on January 10, stated as follows:

¶ Last night's unprecedented School Committee action is nothing more than an attempt on the part of the Committee to extricate itself from the financial quicksand which resulted from the pell-mell budgetary procedures and post-midnight salary increases which have been voted by the Committee in recent months.

¶ This most recent action conclusively proves how poorly our school budgetary matters are being handled and how ill-advised the School Committee's recent actions have been.

¶ The situation remains unchanged, since last night's School Committee action has no effect whatsoever on the Mayor's right to reduce any request for supplementary funds.

¶ I have suggested several times since becoming Mayor that it will be necessary for the School Committee to give evidence of a far more cooperative spirit if an exorbitant tax rate increase in 1961 is to be averted.

¶ It is obvious that the School Committee is continuing to defy sound fiscal principles by appropriating two thirds of its spending without a budget in front of it and with no concern whatsoever for the relation of the school budget to Boston's over-all financial problems.

¶ In taking this step, the School Committee is attempting to cover up early-morning last-minute irresponsibility (in voting pay raises long after the budget was enacted) and the fact that they would commit the city to $1½ million in a full year's costs with complete disregard for the availability of funds or the effect on the tax rate.

¶ Last night's action will not deter me from taking any necessary and

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

January 5.

General Order No. 845.

Patrolman William M. Reilly, Division 3, is hereby commended for the performance of meritorious police duty and is granted three days' additional vacation.

On December 26, 1960, shortly before the 5.45 P.M. roll call, Patrolman Reilly upon reading the manifold sheet of that date observed that one Roland Jess Murphy, 32-34 years of age, 6 feet, 170 pounds, brown eyes, black hair, medium build, and ruddy complexion, was wanted by the New Bedford Police Department for assault with intent to commit rape. It was alleged that Murphy had brutally attacked a crippled woman by taking her from a wheelchair, throwing her upon the floor of her home, and attempting to rape her.

With this information in mind, Patrolman Reilly, while patrolling his route, went to the Homeless Men Section of the City of Boston Welfare Building on Chardon street, city, at about 6.30 P.M. Upon viewing the men that were there, the officer spotted a man who was applying for admission who answered the description of the wanted person. When the officer asked the subject to identify himself, he became evasive; however, upon further questioning, Patrolman Reilly drew from this person that his name was Murphy and that he came from New Bedford. As a result, Roland Jess Murphy was arrested without a warrant as a suspicious person, to wit, assault with intent to commit rape.

The subject was fingerprinted and photographed at Police Headquarters where it was learned that he was a parolee from the State of Maine.

The New Bedford Police Department was notified forthwith and on Tuesday, December 27, 1960, armed with a warrant, Detectives Loughlan and Powers arrived at Division 3 where the prisoner was delivered to them. In New Bedford Court, the prisoner was arraigned for this heinous crime, probable cause was found and he was held in $10,000 double surety for the grand jury.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the keen alertness and devotion to duty shown by Patrolman Reilly in this case who because of his interest, made the arrest of a criminal who would have continued to assault and terrorize women unless he was taken into custody.

January 6.

General Order No. 846.

Patrolmen Gregory Mazares and Patrick J. Spillane of Division 4 are hereby commended for the performance of meritorious duty on two dates, December 8, 1960, and December 26, 1960, and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

About 12.30 A.M., December 8, 1960, Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane while cruising in Lincoln place observed three men assaulting a fourth man who was lying on the ground. As the officers approached on foot, the three men fled in different directions with the officers giving chase. Patrolman Mazares pursued one man who was carrying a white leather jacket, into Stevens street where he was stopped at gunpoint and arrested as a suspicious person, to wit, unarmed robbery. This man identified himself as Willie Perham, 24 years, of 11 Madison street, Roxbury. The white leather jacket was recovered by the officer. Patrolman Spillane chased one of the other two men into West Springfield street ordering him to stop, which he refused to do, and was finally overtaken by the officer and arrested as a suspicious person of unarmed robbery. This subject identified himself as Walter Tyler, 22 years, of 556 Massachusetts avenue, Boston.

The third man, while running from the scene, lost a shoe which was picked up by the officers. This shoe had built-in inner supports and on information received by Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane, they went to 18 East Springfield street, Boston, where they made a search of a room occupied by George Holman, 22 years, and found the mate to the shoe that was lost by the fleeing third subject. Holman was arrested as a suspicious person, to wit, unarmed robbery.

The victim, Margin Massey, of 118 Pembroke street, Boston, identified the three subjects as those who had assaulted him, taken his wallet containing $20 in U. S. currency, his Bendix wrist watch, and his white leather jacket.

In the morning of December 9, 1960, Willie Perham, Walter Tyler and George Holman were arraigned in Central Court on charge of unarmed robbery and all were held for the grand jury in $3,000 bail each.

At about 4.40 A.M., Monday, December 26, 1960, Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane, assigned to plain-clothes duty, while cruising in Rutland square and checking rear alleys, observed the silhouette of a man in the alley in the rear of 699 Tremont street, Boston. The officers immediately parked their vehicle and as they walked into the alley, the form disappeared into the darkness. About 30 feet into the alley, the officers found the rear door of 699 Tremont street open and observed a steel safe, 30 x 30 x 24, lying on its side on a platform within the door, and a broken partition leading into Sullivan's Tavern. At this time, there was the sound of breaking glass and a burglar alarm coming from the front of the tavern. The officers dashed out of the alley and observed a man run into Rutland square, enter and attempt to start a Ford pickup truck, Mass. Reg. B-78,312. This subject was arrested by the officers and upon questioning identified himself as George Kane, 28 years, single, of 139 Wellington Hill street, Mattapan.

While Patrolman Mazares held Kane, Patrolman Spillane returned to the alley just in time to take into custody a man as he emerged from the rear of the tavern. This man identified himself as William King, 18 years, single, of 4 Amory avenue, Jamaica Plain. Both subjects were arrested as suspicious persons, to wit, suspicion of breaking and entering in the nighttime.

As the result of further investigation, Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane went to 672 Tremont street, top-floor room, which was occupied by one John Benner, 16 years, and recovered the following property: 22 cartons of assorted cigarettes and $16.11 in U.S. coin. Benner was not on the premises at this time and the officers requested a teletype message be issued for his apprehension. The officers then went to 19 Worcester square, where they arrested Paul Muccini, 28 years, as a suspicious person, to wit, suspicion of breaking and entering in the nighttime.

Upon interrogation of these subjects, it was learned that the above four culprits had entered the building through the coal chute located in the rear and then removed a partition leading into the tavern from the rear hallway. They removed the cigarettes and coin from the tavern to Benner's room at 672 Tremont street, Boston, where they conspired to return to the tavern and steal the safe. They had re-entered the tavern and moved the safe to the rear door when Kane was detected by the officers. Benner and Muccini left by the front door and fled; Kane was taken into custody as he was attempting to operate the aforementioned truck and King was apprehended by Patrolman Spillane as he left by the rear door.

William King was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime, conspiracy to steal, and attempted larceny of a safe containing $1,700. Case continued to January 9, 1961, and he was held in $5,000 bail.

George Kane and Paul Muccini were charged with conspiracy to steal and attempted larceny of a safe containing $1,700. Case was continued to January 9, 1961, and they were held in $5,000 bail each.

In Boston Juvenile Court, a warrant was issued for John Benner for being a delinquent child—breaking and entering in the nighttime.

While investigating the above case, Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane uncovered evidence in the form of three blank checks in the name of Carter & Carter which were concealed on the person of the above William King. It was learned that on December 23, 1960, at about 9.38 A.M., Joseph Carter of 40 West Newton street, Boston, had reported that sometime between 5 P.M., December 22, and 9 A.M., December 23, 1960, the door of the Carter & Carter Law Office, 683 Tremont street, Boston, was forced open and the office ransacked. The following taken: $20 in 4-cent U. S. postage stamps and $4 in petty cash. Entrance had been gained by breaking a padlock and forcing a snap lock on the door.

In Central Municipal Court on Tuesday, December 27, 1960, William King was charged with breaking and entering in the nighttime the law office of Carter & Carter, located at 683 Tremont street, Boston. This case was also continued to January 9, 1961, in the same bail of $5,000.

Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane are conducting a further investigation to determine if the above four men were involved in other breaks which occurred recently in the immediate vicinity.

The Police Commissioner recognizes the outstanding police work performed by Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane which they demonstrated, without regard to their own safety, in the foregoing cases, and is pleased to give well-deserved commendation to both officers for their alertness and devotion to duty which accomplished the solution of both crimes at the time they were being perpetrated.

PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR CENTRAL BUSINESS AREA

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, on January 15, released a long-range plan to guide the future development of Boston's Central Business District. The plan was presented in a 54-page diagrammed brochure.

The Central Business District, according to this plan, extends from North Station to the Atlantic Avenue water front, south to the Boston & Albany tracks, and west to the proposed Prudential Center and to Massachusetts avenue. This General Plan for the Central Business District was prepared by the Boston City Planning Board prior to its consolidation with the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The Goal

The goal of the plan is to strengthen the Central Business District as the vital center of the metropolitan area through extensive public and private improvements and to make the downtown of 1980 more attractive and more accessible to people.

The assets of Boston's Central Business District—its compactness, its transit system, its wide variety of activities, and its rich history—can make this city's downtown the envy of other American cities. To realize its potential and to overcome problems of traffic congestion and obsolete buildings, the plan proposes changes in land use and transportation throughout the Central Business District.

Members of the Redevelopment Authority pointed out that the proposed development program, for which federal capital grant reservations were obtained recently, was guided in part by this plan. By carrying out the development program, some of the proposals described in this plan can be realized in the next decade.

The Redevelopment Authority also commended the members of the former Boston City Planning Board for this plan, prepared under their supervision—Timothy J. Regan, chairman; Joseph A. Mitchell, deceased, vice-chairman; H. Daland Chandler, Frederick A. Davis, Carl Dreyfus, Margaret Divver, Edward C. Keane, Harry J. Keefe, and Robert A. MacLellan.

The General Plan for the Central Business District is being released at this time to the business community, to other public agencies, and to the citizens of Boston for their discussion and review. The plan should not be considered a rigid or fixed blueprint of the future downtown. Rather it is presented as a springboard for the active participation in downtown renewal planning by everyone concerned with a vital future Central Business District.

THE GENERAL PLAN

Where Is the Central Business District?

The Central Business District (CBD) covers an area extending from North Station through the downtown office and retail district south to the Boston & Albany Railroad tracks and west around Boston Common through the Back Bay to Massachusetts avenue. There are 875 acres in the CBD. Its boundaries have been drawn beyond property now occupied by major central businesses so that future changes along the edge of the CBD can be planned. Today Central Business District activities occupy about 500 acres.

Is There a Future for the District?

In light of present conditions and trends, many people wonder whether the Central Business District has a future at all. Many buildings are old and poorly maintained; over a third of the floor space in the CBD is in second-class nonfireproof structures. Traffic is congested. Subways are underutilized; since World War II daily MTA travel to the CBD has declined about 40 per cent. Because of high taxes and the difficulty of site acquisition, there has been relatively little new construction. The construction of Route 128 has accelerated the exodus of businesses to new suburban locations.

It is not an idle question to ask whether the Central Business District has a future.

There are basically three alternatives for its future development:

First, the Central Business District could be abandoned gradually. The buildings and public improvements in the area would be amortized in time; and the activities downtown would be dispersed throughout the metropolitan area.

A second alternative is to retain the Central Business District at a reduced scale. Those activities which have to go on in Central Boston—the Legislature in the State House, for example—would remain; but many activities would move to suburban locations.

A third alternative is to keep the CBD as the vital and dominant business center of the metropolitan area and of all New England and to change its physical character to meet new conditions.

Although abandonment or reduction in size would seem to be the ultimate outcome of the way things are going, the last alternative, to make the CBD the dominant center of the region, is the only sound alternative. After all, as the hub of the transportation network of New England, central Boston serves the entire region. The airport and seaport are within minutes of downtown. In the metropolitan area, the highway and rapid transit networks focus on the heart of the city. Other assets of the Central Business District include its long and rich history, its compactness, and its wide variety of activities and businesses. In addition, there are millions of dollars of public and private investment in the Central Business District, much of it still good for many years to come.

The most important reason for retaining and improving the CBD, however, is the function it can serve in the future. Because of its compactness and its high accessibility, the future Central Business District can be the best location for:

activities requiring frequent face-to-face meeting for the exchange of information or ideas; consultants, lawyers, advertising agencies, etc.

activities depending on large numbers of people as customers, workers, or visitors: large department stores, headquarters offices, exhibition halls.

Without a Central Business District some of these businesses or activities—for example, the Stock Exchange or the Federal Reserve Bank—would not exist at all in the metropolitan area, and the whole region would be the poorer for it. If Boston abandons its Central Business District, New England will abandon Boston, and turn instead to New York as the capital of the region. In short, Boston's Central Business District must be revitalized for the enrichment of all of New England as well as the metropolitan area.

What Will Go On in the Central Business District of the Future?

In general, the downtown of the future will be a downtown for people. It will be less a place for the manufacture, exchange, or distribution of goods and more a place for the face-to-face meeting of people and for the exchange of ideas and services.

In the entire CBD there are now 70 million square feet of floor space. About 65 million square feet are occupied by business and institutional activities; the remaining 5 million square feet are in residential use.

More than 220,000 persons work in the CBD, one out of every five persons employed in the Standard Metropolitan area. By 1980, about the same number of persons are expected to be working in the CBD, but that will be one out of every six persons employed in a more populous metropolitan area. About 3 million square feet more floor space will be needed as better working conditions and more use of office machines and automatic data processing equipment increase the need for space per employee. Changes in the amount of employment and floor space may be relatively small; but changes in the kinds of activities will be significant, especially in the opportunities they afford for rebuilding the CBD.

Office activities have been increasing in the CBD. Today they occupy 24.3 million square feet of floor space; by 1980, it is anticipated they will require 32.4 million square feet, a 34 per cent increase. Government offices, business services, and headquarter offices of manufacturing and insurance firms have the most potential for expansion.

Retailing accounts for 9.5 million square feet of floor space. The retailing of "convenience goods" (everyday standardized items) may continue to follow the population to the suburbs in the future; but the retailing of "shopping goods" (luxury or style items in which comparison shopping is prevalent) will remain in the CBD. In recent years there has been a reduction in the number of stores in the CBD, but a growth in the remaining ones. This trend is likely to continue. The plan anticipates a need for 8.9 million square feet of retail floor space in the CBD by 1980, a drop of only 6 per cent from the existing amount.

Consumer services—hotels, theaters, clubs, barbershops, etc.—occupy 7.2 million square feet of floor space in the CBD today. As increased income, mobility, and leisure time augment the tourist and convention trade, the demand for consumer services will increase. This plan anticipates a need for 11 million square feet of floor space in consumer services by 1980, a 54 per cent increase. Entertainment facilities, motels, tourist services have the greatest potential for expansion.

Wholesaling with stocks occupies 10.9 million and manufacturing 7.8 million square feet of floor space today. These activities have declined in the CBD in recent years as the need for one-story plant operation and as new highways have made vacant outlying land advantageous.

City Clerk Becomes Acting Mayor

During the absence of Mayor John F. Collins, to attend the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy on January 20, City Clerk Walter J. Malloy became Acting Mayor of Boston.

These duties fell upon the City Clerk because of the fact that the City Council had not elected its president for 1961.

A total of six ballots had been taken at three separate meetings since January 1. In this balloting no member received the required five votes.

The construction of the Central Artery has displaced about 400 wholesaling and manufacturing firms employing nearly 6,000 persons. It is likely that in the future public improvements and redevelopment will also displace mainly wholesaling and manufacturing since these activities, more than others, take place in old areas susceptible to such action. This plan anticipates a need for 10.5 million square feet of floor space for wholesaling and manufacturing in the CBD by 1980, a 43 per cent decrease from the present.

Institutions and residences each occupy over 4 million square feet of floor space in the CBD today. Institutional space is expected to increase by 30 per cent to 5.4 million square feet. The demand for living near jobs and downtown activities already exists; by 1980 intown residential space is expected to increase by 63 per cent to 7.3 million square feet. About 2.0 million square feet are already scheduled for the Prudential Center, and an equal amount can be accommodated along a redeveloped water front.

The Objectives of the Plan for the Central Business District

Ten basic objectives have been evolved to guide the plan and to guide the future development of the CBD:

1. To strengthen the Central Business District as the vital center of the Boston metropolitan area.

2. To conserve present investment in sound buildings, sound activities, and sound public improvements.

3. To encourage new private investment.

4. To make the CBD more accessible to more people.

Activities in the CBD depend on people as customers, workers, and visitors. As people move further out into the suburbs, rapid, convenient, and comfortable transportation facilities must be available if people are to continue to come to the CBD.

5. To improve communications within the CBD.

This objective can best be realized by keeping the CBD compact and improving walking conditions for pedestrians so that multipurpose trips can be accomplished in a one-stop area.

6. To bring together related activities.

For example, many different kinds of offices require contact with one another; office employees support CBD retailing; both office and retail areas must be related to good transit access.

7. To separate incompatible activities.

Residences should be protected from wholesaling and manufacturing which generate noise and heavy truck traffic. Incompatible traffic movements should also be separated: pedestrians from vehicles, through traffic from destination traffic.

8. To increase public safety.

9. To improve the appearance of the CBD.

10. To preserve the unique character of Boston.

Proposed Redevelopment Program for Central Business District

Improvements and changes in land use and transportation are proposed throughout the Central Business District. A total of 17.3 million square feet of new construction is called for by the plan. Spread over the twenty-year period, this means an annual new construction rate of 1.3 per cent of present floor space. In addition to the Prudential and Government Centers, there is a need for the equivalent of twenty-eight new Travelers Insurance Company buildings.

To ensure area-wide renewal action, five areas in the Central Business District have been recommended in the plan for priority renewal treatment. The renewal of these and other areas will be planned in greater detail in the three general neighborhood renewal plans. Downtown, downtown North, and Back Bay will be prepared during 1961 as part of the development program. Final redevelopment plans for one of these areas, the Government Center, are already being prepared.

1. Government Center: In the Scollay Square area buildings are obsolete and hazardous, entertainment and other economic activities have declined, yet irregular streets and blocks have prevented new development. The existing transit service in the area and the newly constructed Central Artery provide unusually good access and give this location much greater potential than its present users realize. Public action to redevelop the Scollay Square area is proposed to provide sites for new federal, state, and city office buildings; to correct the faulty street pattern; to create parcels suitable for new private development; and to stabilize and increase property values around the Government Center.

2. Retail Core: The retail core suffers from a decline in its basic economic activity — shopping. Because of its frontage on the Common, its excellent transit access, and its central location, it has potential for revitalization. Improvement action in the retail core means modernization and rehabilitation of existing sound structures, replacement of some obsolete structures, changes in the circulation system to make pedestrian, automobile and truck movement more convenient, and a general improvement of the environment.

3. Water front: Shipping along the Atlantic Avenue water front has declined leaving vacant and hazardous piers. This area, Boston's "window on the world," has unrealized potential for being an attractive business, residential, and recreation center because of the water and harbor view. A new embankment parkway, similar to Memorial Drive, along Atlantic avenue would make the water front more pleasant and accessible. New development possibilities in the area include a downtown marina with associated ship services, excursion boat facilities, a new berth for "Old Ironsides," water front parks, entertainment facilities and tourist attractions, a shipping museum, a motor hotel, offices and apartments.

4. South Station Area: Railroad service at South Station has declined and will probably continue to decline. The recently constructed Central Artery and Southeast Expressway have improved vehicular access to the area so that it has potential for other uses. Located between the core of the Central Business District and the industrial and distribution activities in South Boston, the South Station area is suitable for development into a transportation and business center to serve both districts. Possible uses include wholesaling, business services, offices, and parking, in addition to a small rail terminal.

5. Park Square-South Cove Area: The Park Square-South Cove area is at present a weak link between downtown and the Back Bay. Some of the existing structures are obsolete; and the street pattern is irregular and inefficient. The Public Garden provides an attractive outlook for potential new development near Park square. Street and environmental changes will encourage improvement of entertainment and office activities. Residences can be rehabilitated and rebuilt.

Needed Transportation Improvements

The Central Business District is located at the crossroads of an extensive transportation system. The nearby airport, seaport, and railroad terminals provide direct connections to other cities and countries; and transit lines and expressways focusing on the heart of Boston link the CBD with the metropolitan area and the region. In the course of an average weekday over 500,000 persons enter the CBD: a third of these pass through and two thirds have destinations in the CBD. Nearly 70 per cent of all trips to the CBD are made by rapid transit, commuter railroad, or bus. Despite the extensive transportation system serving downtown, travel to the CBD has been declining, costs of providing services are increasing, and general dissatisfaction with transportation facilities is widespread.

Numerous agencies and commissions have made proposals for the solution of downtown's transportation problem. In order to maintain the CBD as a strong regional center, some of these proposals are endorsed by this plan. However, a comprehensive plan for all modes of transportation will have to be developed before final evaluation of some proposals can be made.

One of the serious shortcomings of the transit system is that it does not extend to the suburbs where the people now live. Prior to World War II the MTA district contained about 70 per cent of the population of the metropolitan area; it now contains about 60 per cent and is steadily declining. This plan endorses the recommendations of the Coolidge Commission report of 1947 for rapid transit extensions. The plan proposes that priority be given to rapid transit extensions along existing railroad rights-of-way south to Braintree and north to Reading. Combined with the existing Riverside line, this would create a basic north-west-south transit system.

Studies of the Metropolitan Transit Authority indicate that within the Central Business District there is need for additional subway capacity to relieve the presently congested Boylston-Tremont Street tunnel. The construction of the Prudential and Government Centers will further overburden this line. The MTA has proposed a second tunnel under Stuart street. An alternate route would utilize the Boston & Albany Railroad tracks. Other subway improvements endorsed by the plan replace the elevated structures from Haymarket square to North Station with a new tunnel to the yards behind North Station. Also the elevated structure on Washington street in the South End is removed. This line is replaced with an extension to Dedham along the New Haven Railroad right of way.

The CBD's irregular streets are notoriously congested. Even the recently constructed Central Artery is overcrowded at rush hours. Some of the congestion on downtown streets can be attributed to through traffic. For example, it is estimated that over 50 per cent of the Central Artery traffic is going through and not to the Central Business District. The major improvement required to relieve the CBD of through traffic is the Inner Belt proposed in the Metropolitan Highway Plan of 1948. The Inner Belt would take regional traffic around the western edge of the business district; it would also relieve traffic congestion on Massachusetts avenue, freeing it for local use and increasing public safety. The Inner Belt is the keystone of the regional expressway system. When completed, this system will make the CBD more accessible to the metropolitan area for essential vehicular traffic.

Extensive street improvements are also proposed within the CBD. An embankment parkway along the Atlantic Avenue water front connects Dorchester avenue on the south with an improved Charlestown Bridge or a road over a new dam on the north. In the retail core, street improvements remove conflicts between crowds of shoppers, trucks, and cars. Vehicles move on a loop street around superblocks reserved for pedestrians; trucks have a special service street or tunnel.

In the Government Center and in the South Cove extensive street improvements are also recommended.

There are currently 25,000 legal curb and off-street parking spaces in the CBD. The long-range plan recommends 10,000 more spaces. Large parking facilities are added on the fringes of the CBD, in the Government Center, along the water front, at South Station, and in the Prudential Center. Smaller parking facilities may also be added in the Back Bay and downtown shopping districts. The capacity of the street system to move vehicles is a distinct limitation on the number of parking spaces that can be utilized.

Roughly 65 per cent of the existing parking spaces are used by all-day parkers, persons who work downtown. It would be desirable to make more spaces available for short-term use by shoppers, business callers, and visitors who come in the off-peak hours when the street system can handle the traffic. Over-all regulation of parking rates will be required to achieve this objective.

A trial board, consisting of Captains Paul R. Dailey, Patrick J. O'Donnell, and Herbert F. Mulloney, having heard by reference a complaint made by Deputy Superintendent James J. Hinchey, commanding Traffic Division, against Patrolman John W. Smith, Traffic Division, charging him with violation of the rules and regulations of the Police Department, has reported a finding of guilty, recommending punishment duty of 70 hours.

This recommendation is accepted, and it is ordered that the said Patrolman John W. Smith perform 70 hours' punishment duty.

January 6.

General Order No. 848.

The reassignment of the following-named police officer is hereby ordered to take effect Wednesday, January 11, 1961, at 7.45 o'clock A.M.:

Patrolman Marcelino Sardina, Jr., from Division 13 to Division 4.

General Order No. 849.

The reassignment of the following-named officers is hereby ordered to take effect Friday, January 6, 1961, at 7.45 o'clock A.M.:

Patrolman Edward J. Flaherty, from Crime Prevention Bureau to Division 7.

Patrolman Edward F. Gibbons, Jr., from Division 7 to Crime Prevention Bureau.

General Order No. 850.

Patrolman Frank R. Graham, Traffic Division, is hereby commended for the performance of meritorious policy duty and is granted three days' additional vacation.

About 9.30 P.M., Saturday, December 31, 1960, Patrolman Graham while off duty and in the kitchen of his home at 180 Westview street, Dorchester, observed three young men acting in a suspicious manner, apparently attempting to break into automobiles parked in front of his home. He went outside to investigate and, upon his approach, the three men fled down Westview street. The officer gave chase and apprehended them near the intersection of Blue Hill avenue where he held them until the arrival of officers of Division 19, who removed them to that station where they were booked for suspicion of armed robbery.

Although Patrolman Graham had announced his office at the time of their apprehension, two of the men, Thomas Walsh, 19 years, single, of 3 Harvard place, Charlestown, and Geza Gaurenszky, 19 years, single, of 282 Washington street, Dorchester, resisted arrest with Gaurenszky threatening the officer with a tire iron. In overcoming the resistance offered, Patrolman Graham sustained injury to his right hand and lower back and upon examination at the City Hospital, he was found to be suffering from contusions of his hand.

Unknown to Patrolman Graham at the time of arrest of these subjects, the two aforementioned men, with Joseph Moore, 19 years, single, of 55 Edwin street, Dorchester, had a short time previously assaulted and attempted to rob one Robert T. Daley of 439 East Sixth street, South Boston, in Westview street, and it was to a radio call in relation to this crime that officers of Division 19 were responding when they observed Patrolman Graham in need of assistance.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the exemplary devotion to duty of Patrolman Graham who, on his own time, not only brought about the apprehension of suspected car thieves, but through this arrest took into custody the three criminals who had assaulted and attempted to rob a man a short time before. Patrolman Graham's conduct in this case is worthy of commendation.

January 11.

PUBLIC SERVANT NEEDS GOOD WORDS

An order issued by a Roman emperor to the bucket brigades of 2,000 years ago still has meaning for the fire fighters of today:

"Thou shalt be the safety of those who sleep, guardian of houses, protector of sacred enclosures, watching in the night."

Those who hold positions of public responsibility, whether in the fire department or the State Department, have a rare opportunity to render invaluable service to everybody.

The more they realize that countless others lean heavily on them for protection of their rights, the more likely they are to see a holy purpose in their lives.

Public servants too seldom hear words of encouragement from the people whose lives they defend.

God will bless you if you take steps to show appreciation to government employees—local, state, or federal—for their contribution to the welfare of all.

—Fr. James Keller

JAIL TRUSTY SAVES FIRE TRUCK

In Gunnison, Colorado, a jail trusty, described as a "star boarder" by the Denver Post, helped the rural Fire Department to solve the mystery of why the department's hose truck would not stay on the road. Returning from a fire run, the members steered the truck to the fire marshal's office. A crowd gathered. Finally the trusty suggested that the left front tire was larger than the others. The fact was checked, the tires were matched and the hose cart was returned to the road.

CONTRACT AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

DFAR MR. MAYOR:

The houses numbered 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48, East Newton street, Ward 8, have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. The buildings are now open to trespass and they are a menace to the neighborhood.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116d thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the structures.

We have solicited bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

New York Wrecking.—38 East Newton street, $1,820; 40 East Newton street, $1,820; 42 East Newton street, $1,820; 44 East Newton street, $1,820; 46 East Newton street, $1,820; 48 East Newton street, $1,820; total, $10,920.

Lyons Wrecking.—38 East Newton street, $1,300; 40 East Newton street, $1,300; 42 East Newton street, $1,300; 44 East Newton street, $1,300; 46 East Newton street, $1,300; 48 East Newton street, $1,300; total, $7,800.

U. S. Wrecking.—38 East Newton street, $1,190; 40 East Newton street, $1,190; 42 East Newton street, $1,190; 44 East Newton street, $1,190; 46 East Newton street, $1,190; 48 East Newton street, $1,150; total, $7,100.

R. Polcari & Son.—38 East Newton street, $835; 40 East Newton street, $835; 42 East Newton street, $835; 44 East Newton street, $835; 46 East Newton street, $835; 48 East Newton street, $835; total, $5,010.

John J. Duane.—38 East Newton street, $650; 40 East Newton street, $650; 42 East Newton street, $650; 44 East Newton street, $650; 46 East Newton street, $650; 48 East Newton street, $735; total, $3,955.

John J. Duane Building Wrecking Company has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of houses, but to break down their bids to show the charge against such separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

Bids for the demolition of individual houses were not requested because it would be a practical physical impossibility for several different wreckers to conduct efficient wrecking operations simultaneously in individual houses. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference, and each wrecker would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent wreckers. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the lot, and that handling the houses as one unit results in lower administrative costs to the city than would result from handling separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case, in a contract price higher than the $2,000 statutory limitation upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety requiring immediate action, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding of a contract to John J. Duane Building Wrecking Company in the sum of $3,955, without advertising, as required in the city charter.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT. Refreshment Concession

DEAR SIR:

For a number of years the Public Works Department of the city has granted a fruit and refreshment concession privilege in the Post Office Square section of Boston to Mr. Harry E. Verra, 83 Howard avenue, Dorchester. At various times during these years the refreshment booth has occupied two different locations in the area. In recent years it has been located on the grass plot in Angell Memorial Park, which is in the square. Up to the present time the Public Works Department has been charging Mr. Verra for both park and sidewalk occupancy, under two separate agreements. The park land rental has been $600 per year and sidewalk rental $300 per year.

In 1958 the park was turned over to the Parks and Recreation Department for care and control. This department beautified the park by planting new trees, erecting new benches, landscaping, etc., with the expense being shared equally by the department and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. In keeping with the appearance of this newly improved park, Mr. Verra was required to construct a new modern concession booth satisfactory to both the city and the MSPCA.

Mr. Verra's current agreement with the Public Works Department will expire on December 31, 1960. Now that the park is under control of the Parks and Recreation Department, Mr. Verra would be required to pay rental to this department for use of the park area and rental to the Public Works Department for use of the sidewalk area. The Public Works Commissioner has stated that he believes the best interests of the city would be served by having the Park Department enter into an agreement whereby a concessionaire at this location would pay rental only to the Parks and Recreation Department for both park and sidewalk areas, subject to approval of the Law Department and his Honor the Mayor. This seems to be the sensible way to handle the matter.

Accordingly, I respectfully request that the Parks and Recreation Department be allowed to dispense with public advertising for bids and to enter into an agreement with Harry E. Verra, of 83 Howard avenue, Dorchester, for occupancy of a small section of land area in Angell Memorial Park and an adjacent sidewalk area estimated at 128 square feet, for the purpose of conducting his long-established fruit and refreshment concession for a term of three years beginning January 1, 1961, and ending on December 31, 1963. Rental is to be in the total sum of $900 per year for park and sidewalk space, one half rental to be paid on June 1 and one half on December 1 in each year during the term of the agreement.

Respectfully yours,

MARTIN F. WALSH,
Commissioner.

MILWAUKEE INITIATES "TOT LOTS"

Installation of small neighborhood playgrounds or "tot lots" is being planned in Milwaukee following a plea by Police Chief H. O. Johnson for greater traffic safety. Small children, he said, cannot be trusted to cross major street intersections to reach larger playgrounds.

The smaller plots would need little equipment and no formal supervision.

Committees of mothers might superintend their operation, he added. The chief pointed to one month's traffic toll in Milwaukee, when in 109 pedestrian accidents, 52 children under nine years of age were involved, and 24 under the age of four.

No. 4

B.R.A. NAMES E. J. LOGUE ADMINISTRATIVE CHIEF

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, on January 25, by unanimous vote, appointed Edward J. Logue for "an indefinite period on a nonpermanent basis" to serve as its Chief Administrative Officer.

In this connection the Authority issued the following statement:

¶ By a 3 to 2 vote the Redevelopment Authority gave Mr. Logue direction and supervision over all members of the Authority's staff, provided that the Executive Director, acting as Secretary, shall be responsible to the Authority directly for the preparation of the minutes, and the General Counsel shall be responsible directly to the Authority for legal opinions made at its request.

• Administrator Logue was authorized to proceed with the recruitment of the staff personnel, subject to such recruitment policies as the Redevelopment Authority shall establish.

Executive Director's Status

¶ By a 3 to 2 vote the Executive Director, Kane Simonian, shall be Chief of the Operations Division of the Redevelopment Authority and shall, in that capacity, be under the supervision and direction of the Redevelopment Administrator.

¶ As Secretary of the Authority the Executive Director shall keep the minutes of all meetings of the Authority and have custody of the seal of the Authority and in that capacity shall report directly to the Authority.

¶ By a 3 to 2 vote, the Redevelopment Authority stipulated that the General Counsel, John C. Conley, shall be responsible under the direction and supervision of the Development Administrator for the legal aspects of land acquisition, including eminent domain takings, land damage litigation and title work, and shall, upon request by the Authority, render legal opinions directly to the Authority.

Legal Officer Created

¶ By a 3 to 2 vote, the Redevelopment Authority created the new position of Legal Officer, who shall be responsible, under the direction and supervision of the Development Administrator, for administrative and legal work, drafting of specialized communications and contracts, legal aspects of land disposition, and rendering of legal opinions to the Development Administrator.

¶ It was stipulated that the General Counsel is not under the supervision and direction of the Legal Officer.

¶ The Redevelopment Authority unanimously adopted a recruitment policy statement providing " . . . that the Authority adopt the following statement of recruiting policy and authorizes and directs the Development Administrator to carry it out. The successful carrying out of the development program requires a staff of the best and most qualified people available from the city, state, and nation. The staff opportunities available in the Boston program are to be widely publicized in the appropriate channels. Ability to do the job must be the sole criterion for employment in order to maintain public confidence in the program and to avoid political considerations in recruitment."

¶ By unanimous action, the five members of the Redevelopment Authority voted that Edward J. Logue of New Haven be, and hereby is, appointed Development Administrator of the Authority, within the class of Development Program employees of the Authority.

Employee Status

¶ At the outset of the meeting, the Redevelopment Authority unanimously adopted a Resolution establishing a class of temporary employees to be known as "development program employees." This action was taken because it was felt the expanded staff requirements for carrying out the redevelopment program will exist for a temporary period and can best be met by maximum flexibility in hiring, dismissal, promotion, and transfer of staff.

¶ The adoption of this Resolution excludes the new class of temporary employees from the so-called tenure law, which would give them life tenure after having been continuously employed for six months as permanent employees.

¶ All development program employees may be dismissed at any time for cause or on three months' notice without cause.

¶ James G. Colbert and Stephen E. McCloskey of the Redevelopment Authority voted against placing the Executive Director, Kane Simonian, under the Development Administrator; voted against transferring some of the present functions of the General Counsel to the proposed new legal officer, and voted against the creation of the new position of legal officer. Mr. Colbert and Mr. McCloskey specified in their votes that they were opposing these motions because they considered them illegal.

Power of Development Administrator

¶ Mr. Colbert and Mr. McCloskey also voted against the motion providing that no appointments, promotions, salary increases, suspensions, or removals can be made by the Authority unless recommended by the Development Administrator.

¶ The Chairman, Joseph W. Lund, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. J. Lally, and Melvin J. Massucco voted in favor of all the proposals submitted to the Redevelopment Authority.

¶ The Redevelopment Authority by unanimous action approved both the city and federal budgets. On the recommendation of the Development Administrator, the salary of Donald M. Graham, Chief of the Planning Department, was increased from $13,200 to $18,000 per year, retroactive to October 26, 1960; the Redevelopment Authority by unanimous vote on the recommendation of Mr. Logue requested the appropriation of a transfer of $299,703 in city funds.

¶ The Redevelopment Authority by unanimous action also approved the recommendation of Mr. Logue for the renovation of the tenth and eleventh floors of City Hall Annex, where all the quarters of the Redevelopment Authority except the office of the Executive Director, General Counsel, and the office of the Authority itself will be housed. ¶ The salary adjustments in the Planning Section and in the Operations Division were made, subject to the approval by the federal authorities.

Mayor's Comment

Mayor Collins commented on the action of the Redevelopment Authority as follows:

'I am gratified that the Redevelopment Authority has voted unanimously to place Mr. Edward J. Logue in a position in which he will be responsible for the implementation of Boston's redevelopment progress.

¶ The time for debate having now expired I anticipate that the period of action-orientated planning will now commence and a solid foundation for the rebirth of Boston is now in the period of construction.

REASSESSMENT OF MTA DEFICIT IS URGED BY FIN. COM.

January 23, 1961.

To the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

The Boston Finance Commission wishes to be recorded in favor of Senate Bill No. 280, which provides that the deficit of the Metropolitan Transit Authority shall be assessed upon the cities and towns in the district in proportion to the respective population of such municipality.

Thirteen years ago, on February 5, 1948, the Finance Commission addressed a communication to the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs on this very point, urging the passage of a then pending House Bill, which provided that the MTA's deficit be apportioned on the basis of population.

That report in 1948 demonstrated that the "passenger" count basis of the apportionment of the deficit, which has always been used, misrepresented the actual use of the MTA's facilities by the residents of several communities served by the MTA. In particular, the peculiarity of the "count" process imposed a great and obvious injustice on Boston. The current apportionment of the deficit is still based on that fallacious count.

Under chapter 389 of the Acts of 1957, the passenger count made in 1940 continues to be the basis of the apportionment of the deficit. And this, notwithstanding the changes that have taken place in the distribution of the population and the extension of MTA service in the meantime.

The following excerpt from the Boston Finance Commission report of February 5, 1948, is applicable today. It demonstrates a major defect in the system used in making the 1940 passenger count on which the apportionment of the deficit is based.

Passenger Count

"It is a matter of common knowledge that a tremendous number of passengers on the MTA system are commuters from cities and towns outside Boston. They come into Boston to work, shop, or attend amusements and they return to their homes by the same transit system. Under the method of apportionment used, all of the home-going trips of these passengers were charged against Boston because they embarked on the system in Boston. No attempt was made to segregate these return trips and to charge them to the municipalities whose citizens were thus using the system. The fact that some extremely small number of Bostonians who commute to other cities and towns daily were not attributed to Boston on their home-going trips does not correct the injustice, because nothing like an even balance is struck.

"To make the basic injustice of the old method clear, the following illustration is given:

"Municipality A is one of the fourteen cities and towns served by the transit system. Five thousand citizens of municipality A work in Boston. They enter the transit system in A and that going-to-work trip of theirs is charged to municipality A. The same five thousand citizens enter the transit system in Boston to go home and their trips are charged to Boston as if they were Boston citizens. Thus, Boston is charged with the total of all these return trips of the residents of the municipalities outside Boston."

Critical Issue

The perpetuation of this injustice is an eloquent example of the kind of mistreatment which cost Boston so dearly over the years. Millions of dollars have been charged to Boston on this fallacious basis. To perpetuate this practice in this day of Boston's financial plight would be the worst kind of hardship.

The fairest basis so far suggested is the population basis provided in Senate Bill No. 280, currently before your Committee.

The MTA, like the MDC system of parks, or any other metropolitan facility, must be regarded as a stand-by privilege, a facility available to the residents of the metropolitan area. Under such circumstances, the fairest measure of the value of that facility to a municipality is the respective size of population in the municipality.

It is a fair and simple formula.

CRITICIZE N. Y. ESTHETIC STANDARDS

The New York Times has spoken editorially against the building by the city of what is described as a garish red-brick building to house concessions and comfort station in Central Park. The only cure for the blot on the landscape is to hide it with trees, the newspaper adds.

Another evidence of a serious decline in esthetic standards, the writer says, is the plan to install three hanging tiers of bowling alleys in the majestic waiting room of Grand Central Terminal, a magnificent public monument, though privately owned.

President of Vietnam Receives Boston Gift

President Ngo Dinh Diem is shown here accepting, on Jan. 4, a Paul Revere silver bowl from Mayor John F. Collins and the citizens of Boston, in tribute to "the determination of the people of Vietnam to preserve their freedom in the face of communist subversion and armed attack."

Presentation, as shown, was made at Independence Palace by Brigadier General Alden K. Sibley, Deputy Chief of MAAG for Logistics, who served in Boston prior to his assignment to Vietnam.

Following is the text of Mayor Collins' message which was read by General Sibley.

"To many people in the United States and elsewhere, the City of Boston, Massachusetts, is known as the 'Cradle of Liberty.' It has been a long-standing custom for the people of Boston to acknowledge significant contributions to the liberty and freedom of people everywhere. Traditionally, the handiwork of the Boston silversmith, Paul Revere, who played so dramatic a role in the attainment of American independence, has symbolized this recognition. His contribution to freedom and liberty is identified in the minds of the people of Boston with a silver bowl of classic simplicity. This bowl was designed and handcrafted by this American here.

"The determination of the people of Vietnam to preserve their freedom in the face of communist subversion and armed attack has become an inspiration to the Free World. In tribute, Boston's Mayor John F. Collins, on behalf of the people of Boston, has directed the inscription on this bowl to read as follows:

"To President Ngo Dinh Diem and the people of Vietnam, as a token of friendship from the people of Boston.

Mayor John F. Collins."

Replying, the President asked General Sibley to inform Mayor Collins and, through him, the people of Boston that he accepted the gift with "much gratitude and in the spirit of warm friendship in which it is given me."

Fin. Com. Supports Bill To Raise State Aid For Building Schools

January 23, 1961.

To the Members of the Education Committee.

There is currently before your Committee a bill which is important to most of the principal cities of the Commonwealth. The bill is Senate 160. The Finance Commission wishes to be recorded in favor of this petition. The bill provides, in section 3, for an increase in the minimum amount of financial assistance to cities and towns in the construction of school buildings from the present level of 20 per cent to a new level of 30 per cent. The bill would provide a fairer treatment of the older and larger cities of the Commonwealth than they are now receiving in this matter.

Change Present Formula

Raising the minimum of State assistance to communities in the construction of school buildings to 30 per cent, as provided in Senate 160, will help to reduce the inequity inherent in the present operation of the formula of grant. This reimbursement formula was set up by chapter 645 of the Acts of 1948.

Under the terms of the formula, if the valuation per pupil in a community is less than the valuation per pupil throughout the State, the community receives proportionately more than 25 per cent reimbursement for school construction. In fact, the amount of reimbursement can and does go as high as 50 per cent. If the valuation per pupil in the community is greater than the valuation per pupil throughout the State, the community receives proportionately less than 25 per cent reimbursement. In any case, the minimum grant is 20 per cent.

The underlying theory of the formula is, apparently, that the size of the pupil population represents the school cost to the community, and the valuation attributable to the community represents its financial capacity. Unfortunately, the figure of valuation applied to a given community is that which is spelled out in chapter 559 of the Acts of 1945; this was an act establishing the basis of apportionment of State and County taxes, and purported to ascribe an equalized valuation to every municipality in the State at that time.

No new "equalized valuation" has been enacted into law since 1945. The antiquated and unrealistic valuations found in chapter 559 of 1945 are still used.

1945 Valuations Unreasonable

Using the valuations set up in 1945 works a hardship on the older and principal cities.

The valuation pattern of the several metropolitan areas in the State has been changing. For example, in the Boston metropolitan area, valuations have changed substantially in the past fifteen years, or since the 1945 "equalized valuations" were determined. Values lost by the inner or core cities have been absorbed by suburban communities. New values have been added to the entire base with new construction in the suburbs. But the formula has not caught up with these new valuations and broader base. These new area-wide values which raise the total valuations of the State would make the ratio of Boston's valuation to the whole even smaller and thus have the effect of increasing the per cent of assistance to be received under the formula.

Older Cities Hard Hit

The extent to which the present minimum in the per cent of reimbursement for schoolhouse construction works a hardship on the older and principal cities is clear from the following list of cities and the per cent of reimbursement for schoolhouse construction which each receives.

The following cities receive the minimum:

Boston receives 20%
Cambridge receives 20%
Holyoke receives 20%
Lawrence receives 20%
Lowell receives 20%
Newton receives 20%
Salem receives 20%
Somerville receives 20%
Springfield receives 20%
Worcester receives 20%

The following cities receive close to minimum:

Chelsea receives 23%
Fall River receives 22%
Haverhill receives 23%
Malden receives 24%
Quincy receives 21%
Taunton receives 26%
Pittsfield receives 27%
Waltham receives 28%
Northampton receives 27%

The smaller suburban communities fare well enough under the present operation of the formula. The relation of their increasing pupil population to the unchanged valuation ascribed to that community under the 1945 Act results in a low figure of valuation per pupil. This, in turn, means a larger percentage of grant under the formula. Many of these smaller communities receive from 40 per cent to 50 per cent in reimbursement for school construction.

The older cities are not so fortunate. Yet it is in the older cities that new school construction is needed to replace their many ancient and outmoded school buildings. Boston has undertaken a school building replacement program of heroic proportions, but is struggling under the handicap of a mere 20 per cent reimbursement.

Even the 20 per cent minimum grant is not pure net gain. The cost of meeting the requirements set by the State as a condition for the grant, in terms of facilities within the building and open space around the buildings, cuts substantially into the value of the assistance.

In simple justice, a minimum assistance grant should be adopted which will render reasonable assistance to an older city which is endeavoring to provide adequate school housing for its children. Senate 160 will provide the basic step forward that is needed at this time.

Moreover, placing Senate 160 into operation would involve no new tax source.

CONTRACT AWARDED
WITHOUT ADVERTISING

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT.
Purchasing Division.
Water Meter Parts

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

This office is in receipt of several requisitions from the Water Division of the Public Works Department for water meter parts for Hersey meters.

Informal written quotations were received from Hersey-Sparling Meter Company who is the manufacturer of the parts requested. Inasmuch as this company is the manufacturer, it is my opinion that no advantage could be gained from publicly advertising for prices. Authority is therefore requested to dispense with publicly advertising and award a contract, without public advertisement, to Hersey-Sparling Meter Company.

Approximate total amount of contract will be $6,975.25, net.

Respectfully yours,

MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

MAYOR COLLINS PROPOSES ASSESSING DEPT. REORGANIZATION PLAN

Mayor Collins, on January 30, submitted the following communication to the City Council:

Gentlemen:

Some months ago, a committee of civic-minded individuals, using funds which had been raised by subscription, engaged the Hay Company of Philadelphia to study the city's Assessing Department with a view to improving its organization and efficiency. That company's report has been reviewed by local personnel and management experts furnished through the committee as well as by analysts in the Administrative Services Department of the city. Comments and suggestions with respect to the matter have also been invited and received from key personnel in the Assessing Department. Notwithstanding that in the last decade the Assessing Department has been reorganized twice—first by chapter 3 of the Ordinances of 1954 and more recently by chapter 4 of the Ordinances of 1958—the need for a further reorganization at this time is plainly indicated. To effectuate such reorganization, I recommend adoption of the ordinance submitted herewith, which embodies the results of the extensive study of the subject mentioned above. Adoption of this ordinance will, I am convinced, not only assure that Boston's assessment system will operate on a professional basis, but also afford opportunities for advancement to those in the Assessing Department choosing full-time professional assessing as a career.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

WELFARE CASELOAD DOWN; COSTS UP IN 1960

Following is the monthly financial and statistical report of the Welfare Department for December, 1960:

¶ The following information is presented to provide a brief summary of the department's financial and statistical activities for 1960. The scope is tremendous and involves the expenditure of more than $37 million for the support of almost 37,000 cases made up of approximately 40,000 persons. Within this group are re-applications and transfers to other kinds of public assistance.

¶ During 1960, $37,238,763 was expended for public assistance compared to $37,008,439 for the previous year. This is an increase of $230,324 even though there was a decrease in the caseload. The primary cause for the rise in costs is that the department is bound by statutory regulations and was required to increase grants to meet the higher costs of living and medical care during 1960.

¶ As of January 1, 1960, the caseload was 26,016; at the close of the year, it was 25,270, a decrease of 746 cases or almost 3 per cent. From the point of view of different types of programs, the decreases were found in Old Age Assistance, Disability Assistance, and General Relief programs. Aid to Dependent Children showed a slight increase in its caseload, while Medical Assistance for the Aged, established in October, 1960, received its caseload primarily from Old Age Assistance.

¶ The annual average cost per case is based on the type of aid and whether it represents a family group or an individual. In addition to the public assistance grants shown below, personal income and resources must be added to determine the total disposable income for the client.

CONSOLIDATION OF DIVISIONS UPHELD BY POLICE COMMISSIONER

Police Commissioner Leo J. Sullivan, on January 31, stated as follows:

¶ Long and exhaustive studies and surveys of the physical facilities of the Boston Police Department indicate beyond the shadow of a doubt that consolidation of divisions is imperative in the interests of both sound, prudent economy and efficiency of operation.

¶ The department at this late date is forced to function with two station houses over 100 years old; and three others in the late 80- or 90-year-old group. They are archaic almost beyond belief. Some are unsafe, unsanitary, and exorbitantly expensive to maintain. They are in deplorable physical condition despite the sincere and laudable maintenance efforts exerted by custodians over the years. The majority of Boston police stations outlived their usefulness more than a generation ago. Any attempt at restoration would be a classic example of throwing good money after bad. It is my considered opinion that it is economic travesty to continue to pour thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money into such a hopeless and impractical situation.

¶ Therefore, I am proposing a major program of consolidation and construction for the Boston Police Department to commence at the earliest possible time. I propose consolidation of four distinct divisions of the department in downtown Boston, to be located in a single facility within the proposed Government Center to include Divisions 1, 2, 3, Traffic, and Headquarters. For purposes of maximum efficiency it is urged that this new facility be situated in such proximity to the present courthouse building as to permit direct access by a covered foot passage.

¶ I further propose immediate abandonment of Divisions 9 and 10 in Roxbury. Consolidation of these two divisions would be effected through the construction of a dual-division building adjacent to the proposed new Roxbury courthouse. I also propose the consolidation of Divisions 11 and 19 relocated in a new building adjacent to the Dorchester courthouse. I propose further the abandonment of Stations 13 and 17, and their relocation in a new building close by the Arnold Arboretum on the West Roxbury-Jamaica Plain line. The city now owns surplus land suitable for police purposes in this locality.

¶ It is planned to construct three one-story inexpensive buildings of simple design. Preliminary estimates place costs at approximately $250,000 each. I emphasize that this proposal for a major consolidation and construction program can be carried out with little or no direct cost to the taxpayer. It could be effected through use of the proceeds of the sale of valuable police properties in downtown Boston and in the Back Bay. It is my considered opinion that sale of Police Headquarters building on Berkeley street, in addition to Stations 1 and 2, would provide more than adequate funds for the construction of the new building for consolidated divisions. The structure to house the four divisions within the Government Center would be financed in part by funds from the sales, and by apportioning of the city's contribution required in the redevelopment of the area to contain the Government Center.

¶ It is conservatively estimated that consolidation of the divisions enumerated would result in eventual savings of at least $2,000,000 a year to the City of Boston. The economy resulting from this program would stem from three vital factors, maximum utilization of personnel, elimination of duplication in administrative activities and the improvement of efficiency generally.

¶ To cite but a few examples of the exorbitant costs related to maintaining existing decrepit, archaic buildings: Station 13 in Jamaica Plain, originally a courthouse, and now 102 years old, requires 1,000 gallons of fuel oil per week for heating purposes. Plumbing and electrical wiring conditions in Stations 17 and 9 are in such deplorable condition as to be positively unsafe.

The new buildings would require but a single heating plant, a single cell block, single booking desk. Sleeping quarters for police no longer are required; such space would be eliminated in the building design. The whole concept of police operation which determined the type and location of these stations is now obsolete; the stations to be abandoned were erected before the invention of the telephone. Police efficiency today is based simply on communications and mobility.

¶ The FBI has warned repeatedly that crime is increasing throughout the nation. The archaic buildings and facilities we have inherited are hardly conducive to efficiency in coping with present-day conditions. We now have the opportunity of streamlining our stations at little or no expense to the taxpayer. The money realized from the sale of the buildings, plus the federal government's contribution to the Government Center gives us the opportunity to start now. I welcome the opportunity of discussing these proposals with the City Planning Board, or any other official or interested agency of the City of Boston.

TRAFFIC RULING

Temporary

The Traffic Commissioner has promulgated the following rulings:

Whereas, If during sewer connection in Public Alley No. 404, Roxbury, vehicles were to be allowed in said Public Alley No. 404 conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative, such connection would be substantially impeded; and . . .

Whereas, Such connection is to commence January 25, 1961; and

Whereas, A meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission is not scheduled to be held before the commencement of such connection; now therefore . . . I hereby promulgate the following rule and regulation to take effect forthwith and to be operative only until the completion of such connection or the expiration of one month from the date hereof, whichever is earlier:

The Need Expressed

Over the years, mainly due to the severe impact on the tax rate, our remodeling of buildings and the making of major repairs to structures have been held to a minimum. There has been appropriated less money than might have been expended judiciously to keep our plant in good condition and repair.

In order to correct this situation and at least to accomplish some of the needed extraordinary improvements and repairs, I am requesting that permission be granted to meet this cost by borrowing the sum of $5,000,000. This sum is to be borrowed outside the debt limit and will be repaid over a period of ten (10) years.

The work to be performed will be of a major character and will result in improving greatly the facilities and the services rendered by the departments involved.

Respectfully,

JOHN T. LEONARD,
Supervisor of Budgets.

MAYOR'S BUDGET HOLDS THE LINE FOR ANOTHER YEAR

The Mayor, on February 6, submitted his 1961 budget recommendations to the City Council. In that connection he stated as follows:

To the City Council.

GENTLEMEN:

I submit herewith the budget allowances for City and County Departments for the year 1961, totaling $120,514,759.

The above figure represents a decrease of $273,806 in the appropriations allowed for the year 1960. Appropriations for the current year already approved by your Honorable Body, however, total $210,000 and cover salaries for Planning Division personnel and for the down payment on the Equipment Loan. This figure reduces the gross decrease of $273,806 to a net decrease of $63,806 under the 1960 appropriations.

Requests Cut $9 Million

After careful study and a thorough scrutiny of each departmental budget request, it has been found possible to reduce such requests by approximately $9,000,000.

In addition to the City and County budgets, I am also submitting herewith the budget of the Income Departments for the year 1961, totaling $3,364,670, which represents an increase of $136,092 over 1960 appropriations. Since the appropriations for the budget of the Income Departments will be met solely from revenue collected by said departments, the increase will have no effect whatsoever on the 1961 tax rate.

Equipment Loan Relief

When I submitted my 1960 budget recommendations, there was a general feeling throughout the city that it would be impossible to expect the city to operate efficiently, while, at the same time, living within the appropriations allowed. It is interesting to note that with no essential services eliminated and with many of these services greatly improved, some departments finished the year with a surplus. I am mindful of the fact, nevertheless, that the operations of almost every department have been affected seriously by deferred budgeting of our equipment needs, which has been going on for several years. We propose to reduce most of the backlog in equipment for snow removal, street cleaning, fire fighting, etc., through this year's $3 million equipment loan.

Beginning in 1962, however, and for the remainder of this administration, I intend to deal with our equipment problems on an entirely different basis. To this end, I have directed every department to weigh carefully its short-term and long-range requirements in equipment and to submit a schedule for annual equipment replacement. We plan to include in next year's budget and in budgets for all subsequent years sufficient funds to finance the yearly requirements of this schedule.

City Costs at a Minimum

A determination to adhere to a "no hire-no fire" policy during the past year has contributed much to our success in keeping costs of operations to a minimum. A continuance of this policy will undoubtedly result in further savings to the taxpayer.

It is imperative and absolutely essential that we keep our expenses at a minimum until such time as our tax base expands or until the State Legislature sees fit to assist our community through favorable action on a number of proposals which I have submitted to that Honorable Body recently.

I respectfully recommend adoption of the accompanying appropriation and tax orders.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

BOSTON TOPS STATE IN FIRE PREVENTION ACTIVITY

The Boston Fire Department was notified on February 8 that it has been awarded first place in the field of fire prevention among the cities of Massachusetts, third place nationally in cities of 500,000 population or over, and fifth place nationally in cities of all sizes.

This compares against first, third, and tied for eighth last year.

"While quite enthused about our new success," Fire Commissioner Henry A. Scagnoli said "we do feel that our fire prevention program last year was by far the best in the country."

Space Heater Program

"Our major contribution in 1960 was the success of our space heater test program. During the winter season of 1959-60, we had 159 space heater fires in the City of Boston with 15 deaths (which was one half the death rate of the city). Sixteen persons were severely burned as the result of space heater fires, also.

"As a result of tests sponsored and run completely by the Boston Fire Department, we found that due to a manufacturing defect which became so obvious during these prolonged tests, the Underwriters' Laboratories no longer approve this type of equipment.

Simple Precautions

"By saturating the public by every media available with two simple precautions, namely:

- (1) the filling of the container to the very top; and
 - (2) not using chilled or cold oil during the cold season,
- we have been fortunate in having only seven space heater fires (with no loss of life resulting) to date this year."

Commissioner Scagnoli continued: "In our opinion, this was the most important single contribution to fire prevention during the past year in our country. Likewise, many other communities throughout the nation have lessened their number of fires, and subsequent loss of life and injury, as the result of the knowledge disseminated from Boston throughout the country.

Reduction of Fires

"Secondly, Boston, since 1957, has had a continuous reduction in the number of building fires from 2,758 in 1957 to 2,209 in 1958, 2,159 in 1959, and to a new low of 2,074 in 1960. This new figure is an extreme low never before equalled in the history of the department and stands as a decrease in the number of building fires since 1957 of 25 per cent.

"Our fire loss during the past year has been extremely low with very few major fires and no large loss fires as described by the National Fire Protection Association. In fact, we have not had a so-called 'large loss fire' in the City of Boston since 1955. While the exact figures are not available as of this moment, it is felt that the property loss in our city during the past year is the lowest on record.

Results Being Watched

"Our third and last point is that in 1960 a year-round fire prevention program was instituted in the Boston Fire Department and was the first program of this type actually and successfully carried out throughout the country with the result that many other communities in the nation are watching the results thereof with the idea of placing it into effect within the confines of their own municipalities."

Commissioner Scagnoli concluded: "Again, we state that we are happy to have been chosen fifth in the nation for our fire prevention program but will not stop in our efforts to become the Number One, publicly, as we feel we stand today."

Need of Food Service Program

The public spends more than 75 billion dollars annually for food and drink, and consumes an average of 78 million meals in the varied types of establishments to make the food and beverage service industry fourth in size among the industries of the nation. To safeguard the wholesomeness of food and drink offered to the public is the responsibility of both industry and public health agencies.

Yet, with all the precautions taken, disease outbreaks attributable to food occur. The addition of toxic chemicals, either by accident or as additives, may render food unsafe.

Almost all cases of food poisoning reported as caused by "ptomaines" are in fact caused by bacterial contamination, or their toxins. Many food poisoning outbreaks have been caused by foods which showed no evidence of spoilage. Even extreme putrefaction may not be poisonous, and foods, such as cheese, are putrefied purposely to improve their flavor.

Consumers expect to be served wholesome food and drink which have been prepared and handled in a sanitary manner. They, however, do not have available the means of determining the sanitary quality of the food purchased. They must depend on both industries that prepare and handle foods and public health agencies charged with the enforcing of regulations and laws.

DANIEL G. MILANO, Ph.B.R.S.,
Chief, Bureau of Food.

Faneuil Hall Fix Up

Faneuil Hall will be given a $10,000 repainting and fixing up around its entrance and marquee this spring through efforts of Boston business firms.

James G. Roberts, executive secretary of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, on February 7, reported to Mayor Collins that half the fund has been raised to date, and that the remainder has been promised by Patrick B. Maginnis, president of the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Col. Paul H. Hines, the Mayor's director of special events, is coordinating the effort for City Hall.

TRAFFIC RULINGS

Temporary Emergency.

The Traffic Commissioner has promulgated the following:

Whereas, An emergency exists for that such an amount of snow has accumulated on the streets, ways, highways, roads, and parkways under the control of the city that there is a serious public hazard substantially impairing transportation, the movement of food and fuel supplies, medical care, fire, health and police protection and other vital facilities of the city; and

Whereas, If during the continuance of such emergency vehicles were permitted to stop, stand or park conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative the hazard aforesaid would be substantially increased; and

Whereas, The Boston Traffic Commission is not in session; now therefore . . . I hereby promulgate the following rule and regulation to take effect at 7 P.M., February 4, 1961, and to be operative until 9.30 A.M., February 6, 1961:

No driver shall stop, stand or park any vehicle, provided that this regulation shall not apply to passenger vehicles stopped temporarily during the actual receiving or discharging of passengers nor to commercial vehicles stopped temporarily during the actual loading or unloading of materials, in any street, way, highway, road or parkway under the control of the city in the area bounded by Massachusetts avenue including both sides thereof from Roxbury Canal to Charles River, Charles River to Boston Harbor, Boston Harbor to Fort Point Channel, Fort Point Channel to the Roxbury Canal, and Roxbury Canal to Massachusetts avenue at point of beginning.

Whereas, If during the emergency created by the lack of transportation service by the Metropolitan Transit Authority, parking of vehicles were to be allowed in the streets in the area described below conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative, public safety would be endangered and public travel would be substantially impeded; and

Whereas, The Boston Traffic Commission is not in session; now therefore . . . I hereby promulgate the following rule and regulation to be effective from 7 A.M. to 11.15 A.M. on January 31, 1961:

No driver shall stop, stand or park any vehicle, provided that this regulation shall not apply to passenger vehicles stopped temporarily during the actual receiving or discharging of passengers nor to commercial vehicles stopped temporarily during the actual loading or unloading of materials, in any street, way, highway, road or parkway under the control of the city in the area bounded by Massachusetts avenue including both sides thereof from Roxbury Canal to Charles River, Charles River to Boston Harbor, Boston Harbor to Fort Point Channel, Fort Point Channel to the Roxbury Canal and Roxbury Canal to Massachusetts avenue at point of beginning.

DRINKING SPACE IS FOUR BY FIVE

In St. Louis, Missouri, city building inspectors were checking the number of tavern customers following the complaint to police of a would-be patron that he had been refused entrance to a building because the proprietor said the place was too crowded.

The proprietor asked that the legal occupancy of his place of business be established. Inspectors began posting signs in taverns listing the number of patrons permitted according to the municipal code.

The formula provides for about 20 square feet of floor space for each person.

THE ROLE OF WOMEN IN MUNICIPAL OPERATIONS

"The Role of Women in Municipal Operations" titled the first of six panels which comprised the Fifth Annual Conferama on Municipal Administration held November 17 and 18, 1960, at the Boston Public Library Auditorium, Copley square. The conferences were attended by some 350 key city employees.

Moderator for the first panel was Marguerite G. Sullivan, Assistant Superintendent of Boston Public Schools.

The panelists were:

Catharine Atwood, Head Bacteriologist, Health Department.

Muriel C. Javelin, Deputy Supervisor, Library Department.

Ida M. Kahn, Member, Board of Overseers of Public Welfare.

Gladys P. Lyons, Principal Planner, Planning Department, Boston Redevelopment Authority.

INTRODUCTORY

By Mayor John F. Collins

I note that the year 1960 marks the fifth year in which the City of Boston, under the direction of the Administrative Services Department, has been conducting these annual meetings on Municipal Administration. I should like to take this occasion to congratulate and compliment not only the individuals responsible for this medium of disseminating information and exchanging ideas, but you, the top administrators and key personnel of our city government, for your interest, your active participation, and your efforts to improve your daily operations.

I have a deep appreciation of the time and effort expended in the preparation of such a variety of interesting and timely subjects which are to be discussed in this lecture hall during today and tomorrow. Apparently, this is one area of the library where you will have no fear of being ushered out for speaking above a whisper. After glancing at your ambitious and impressive program, I would venture to say that the hall will echo with many admonitions, ideas, suggestions, and recommendations, programs in which I would like to engage and participate, but, unfortunately, other city business and commitments will only permit me to remain with you for only a short period of time. I have had the pleasure of reading your report of last year's "Conferama" and I am looking forward to reading the report on this year's presentation as soon after adjournment as possible.

Exchange of Ideas

There are so many new problems in public administration arising each day which were unheard of during the past decade or two that officials in the driver's seat, like myself, can readily appreciate why it is necessary to conduct meetings of this nature on an annual basis to improve our skills and to exchange ideas on what is best for the entire community—not for ourselves alone.

Government administration today is actually a science or an art in which one cannot be expected to become an expert overnight or by just reading or studying. He or she must develop skills that are modern, up to date, and in vogue with the times. In reviewing some of your previous meetings, I find that you have covered a great number of subjects in the administration field and have made definite recommendations, in certain instances, which have been acted upon favorably, and others upon which, for some logical reason or other, you have been unable to secure positive action. Public Relations, Purchasing Procedures, Personnel Problems, Procedural Manuals, Central Inventory Controls, Forms Standardization, Automation, Records Management, Code Enforcement, Planning, Demolition, Renewal, Maintenance Problems, In-Service Training, are only a few of the many subjects you have explored in the past.

I am happy to note in your program that you have placed in your number one spot, a panel of five women. I believe that there is nothing more inspiring than to have five charming ladies present their views at the opening of a conference. This is another phase of operations both in government and private industry which has changed considerably over the past two decades. It was not too long ago that the appearance of a woman in a supervisory capacity, either in government or private industry, was a rarity and looked upon with disfavor by the men and, more particularly, by other women. But today, it is common throughout the United States and throughout the world to see women engaged in every field of endeavor. I am certain that the placing of an all-woman panel at the top of your program will be an inspiration and a challenge for the various panels that will follow.

Employee Role Is Vital

This is the first opportunity I have had since taking over the office of Mayor to address the key personnel of our municipal team. I realize, as my department heads are realizing daily, that without your cooperation and your willingness to be an important cog in the wheels of progress to which we aspire, my efforts and the efforts of other city officials will be in vain.

I regret that I shall not be able to remain with you for a longer period of time but, prior to my departure, may I leave with you one thought that could probably be the theme for the "Conferama" of 1961, namely, that the rebuilding of Boston should not be based on past performance or upon past experience but should be looked upon as a creation of yours and mine, with new ideas, new techniques, new goals, and a new type of teamwork being the tools with which we will build the Boston of tomorrow.

Conferences of this character can help us attain these goals and aspirations — let's work together and pull together, and push Boston to the forefront of the larger cities of the United States and the world.

Thank you for your kind attention and may all your endeavors in this "Conferama" be crowned with every success.

REMARKS OF MODERATOR

By Marguerite G. Sullivan

It is a pleasure for me to participate in this Fifth Conference on Municipal Administration and to serve as moderator of this panel which is to present for your consideration "The Role of the Woman in Municipal Operations."

This panel is agreed unanimously on its first premise, namely, that the role of the woman in municipal operations is in no way different from the role of the man. At one time the field of governmental operations was exclusively a man's area. However, today, women are successfully proving their worth not only in municipal administration but in state, national, and international politics as well. Dr. Margaret Ball, professor of political science at Wellesley College, said recently, "Women are people. They should not be singled out. There are a great many women in government work today with more coming all the time. After all, political science is no abstraction. It directly affects the lives of all of us."

Women In Government

Women, today, are truly partners in the economic, social, and political life of this nation. Each year additional numbers of women achieve positions of trust and importance in federal, state, and local government. The 86th Congress listed 16 women in the House and 1 woman in the Senate. These women have served ably on committees related to international as well as domestic programs. Twenty-seven women were aspirants for Congress in our recent elections. State legislatures included 311 women members in 1958 and 347 in 1959. Only four states of the Union do not have women members of state legislatures. Ten thousand women served in City Councils throughout the nation last year, none of them from Boston, however.

In the executive branch of the government countless numbers of women have served and are serving as members of commissions and boards which have helped to determine government policy; countless members have served as directors of agencies or divisions responsible for executing major programs. Who can enumerate the state positions of trust in which women are serving currently in cabinets, as assistants and deputies to department heads, or as paid or unpaid members of state boards. Similarly it is impossible in our limited time to classify the many types and capacities of services being rendered by women today in their employment by county and municipal government.

Women Can Plan

This panel is unanimously agreed on its second premise: That women are destined to play an increasingly important role in filling America's man-power needs. This viewpoint was expressed by Under Secretary of Labor O'Connell in June, 1960, when he further emphasized the "increasing importance in a dynamic society for each individual woman to develop and utilize her abilities to the greatest potential."

There is need today for realistic planning. We must maintain the concept of woman as the keystone of the home and of the family yet, if we are to have an adequate labor force, woman must be a happy combination of wife, mother, and worker. Women, today, constitute not only an essential but a distinctive part of America's man-power resources. This century has seen a revolution in the employment of women. The Department of Labor reports that one third of the women of the U. S. A. over 14 years of age are working in any given month and that 28 million women work in the course of a year.

Equal Pay for Equal Work

Therefore, this panel is further unanimously in agreement that municipal government officials should take advantage of the woman-power resources available to fill vacancies on all levels in their respective departments. In filling these vacancies in municipal services, four policies should prevail:

1. Women should be employed, assigned, trained, and promoted on the basis of personal qualifications.
2. The principle of equality of opportunity in employment is basic.
3. The principle of equal pay for equal work should be maintained.
4. Part-time and flexible work arrangements should be explored in order to draw on the potential supply of workers not available for full-time employment.

Finally, this panel is agreed that many changes are needed in the heretofore conventional views about the types of work for which women are suited. The United States Census taken last winter shows women are employed in every line of endeavor but that of fire fighter, locomotive engineer, and locomotive fireman! The outmoded idea that women have limited capacities for performing all kinds of tasks, the undermining belief in the innate inferiority of the female sex, and popular ideas about the intelligence, capacities, and emotional traits of women must give way to the contemporary view of woman power. There well may be measurable variations between men and women with respect to intelligence, abilities, and aptitudes, but these variations are not determined by sex. The same gamut of variations will be found in a given group of men alone. These variations are produced by differing interests, cultural experiences, and expectations.

Deserve Public Office

For these reasons, we believe qualified women, women of training and special interest in public affairs, should seek and hold public office. Such women should be encouraged to run for public office, and should be appointed to boards and administrative positions where their talents may be best used.

Career-minded women in government in whatever capacity seek job satisfactions and an individual sense of job accomplishment. These two factors are fundamentals of progress and progress is a continuing objective. It is the incentive quotient of every salaried individual, man or woman, in any government service—municipal, state, or national.

Career advancement does not just happen. A basic aim of most individuals is to excel, to be recognized as a capable person. Women today in our city are holding positions of heavy responsibility. In politics, in the professions, in public service, women are successfully assuming responsibilities once accepted as appropriate for men alone. May this panel suggest that the administrators of our municipality look to the women in their departments to fill their manpower needs.

WOMEN IN THE HEALTH LAB.

By Catharine Atwood

The infinite variety of occupational work and growing importance of women in a man's world are well illustrated by the constant increase of women employees not only in all types of private industry but also throughout the structure of municipalities. For this quantitative employment there must also be a qualitative adequacy in any systematic organization, whether for long- or short-term employment.

One typical Victorian evaluation of a woman states "the wise woman will have many sidelights in her compositions, and in her kitchen her sauce will have many shadings." The mid-20th-century woman may be evaluated as possessing, in addition, the knowledge and skills for the performance of constructive services.

This is particularly true of women employees in the area of public health in all its several fields of endeavor. The particular discipline of public health laboratory diagnosis requires both general professional and specialized technical training, meticulous attention to detail, conscientious performance of methodology, recognition of the challenge of repeated accuracy without allowing familiarity of techniques to become automatic, and the constant opportunity of being of momentous service to patients, physicians, and hospitals.

The vital statistician seeks with figures to give the utmost classified information about many categories—the so-called bookkeeping of public health. The laboratory worker tries to give both the exact diagnosis and the most information possible, as quickly as possible about a dozen or more infectious diseases—actually the critical decision to guide physicians in the treatment of such so diagnosed illnesses. Again you notice the emphasis upon opportunity for work and service—a job combination which I think women consider more desirable than do men.

Struggle of a Generation

Thirty-five years ago a young woman bacteriologist became employed in such a laboratory which then had nine male employees and but one other female employee, exclusive of two women clerks. A college graduate with a science major, a university postgraduate course, a year of service in the U. S. Army Medical Corps, Division of Laboratories, plus a year of diagnostic laboratory work in a large mid-state general hospital were the qualifications.

Work, theory, practice plus practice, theory, work made a definite pattern for each type of laboratory examination. Amazingly and successfully both the professional co-workers as well as the technical assistants recognizing the value of women quickly placed the women on an identical accomplishment level, even on a greater load performance.

Today this same public health laboratory employs nine women and two men the latter on the laboratory assistant level, still exclusive of two women clerks. This is an exact reversal of the earlier employment picture, but professionally evaluated on a high performance level, since with the same number of employees, but predominantly women, the volume of examinations increased.

Women Excel in Detail

To accomplish this service the Bacteriological Laboratory of the Health Department, City of Boston, provides specialized outfits for the collection of specimens from patients, these outfits returnable by mail or messenger to the laboratory by attending physicians, and/or clinics. The specimens may be for microscopic, cultural, or serological diagnosis of diphtheria, streptococcus, tuberculosis, typhoid, dysentery, syphilis, etc. Reports are made daily only to the respective physicians who in turn interpret the laboratory diagnosis into terms for clinical treatment. The ramifications of laboratory diagnosis are closely associated with every bureau of health department activities since these reports are also made daily to the various medical, nursing, child hygiene, food, and sanitation services. Thus is motivated necessary follow-up work with individuals, families, institutions—all cooperation in the performance of health responsibilities for the welfare and protection of the City of Boston.

Respect for a job creates responsibility for work well done, while work well done creates respect from those who are being served by the work. The intimate contacts of the laboratory with physicians, hospitals, and patients through over-the-counter distribution services, as well as through 77 drugstores which stock laboratory outfits and biologicals, through telephoned reports and requests, and through visiting school and education groups make the public relations value of the Bacteriological Laboratory a permanently beneficial asset of the municipal functions.

Today women can and do fully qualify for performance of so-called men's role, women can and do achieve equally, women can and do have an opportunity to become career workers in municipal jobs through successively progressive civil service examinations, women can and do work well under a supervisory woman when recognition, appreciation, and value are placed on individual effort. In other words, the women employees proved quantitatively and qualitatively able to substitute for men's positions.

WOMEN IN THE LIBRARY

By Muriel C. Javelin

I like to think of our public library as the educational institution which is "free to all" regardless of age, nationality, religion, or educational background. Within its doors are librarians trained to help you locate the answers to a great variety of questions. A builder is awarded the contract for a construction job in the western part of the state. He comes to the Boston public library to consult a soil survey map. He finds a solution to his problem; and he is saved many dollars.

A bride and groom are looking forward to the day when they can build their own home. They visit the public library, pore over plans for houses, read neighborhood surveys, study the building code, consult garden books on the care of lawns. The Consumer Research reports tell them the comparative points of each make of washing machine, automobile, or television.

A retired gentleman examines pamphlets and books on making his own home repairs or improving his chess game; or he asks the Reader's Advisor for a planned reading course in American literature.

A parent comes seeking a list of possible scholarships for her college-age daughter.

Librarian's Temperament

The basic educational function of a library is to provide the best possible collection of books and related materials on a great variety of subjects, carefully selected to meet the needs of the people, the economy, the government, and the social aspects of the community. The librarian must have an understanding of the individual's needs and interests in order to be able to aid him in his search for education, for information, and in the creative use of his leisure time. The public library also accepts responsibility for the communication of ideas and for helping people to understand better the great issues of our time through book-based discussion groups, lecture series, informal talks, institutes, or film forums.

The librarian must know something of personnel management in order to develop a competent staff. She must be a public relations expert for she must encourage support and use of the library by the entire community through book talks, exhibits, newspaper publicity, and radio and TV appearances. She needs to know something about architecture and blueprint reading as she assists in the planning of a modern library building. She needs a knowledge of musical and non-musical recordings as she builds a circulating record collection. She needs to understand how to use educational motion pictures. And of course she needs to know the technical aspects of library work, including use of microfilms, cataloging, circulation procedures, reference, and research. She may be a specialist in a subject department such as the Fine Arts Department of the Science and Technology Department. Or she may be a generalist in a branch library where she needs to know something about every subject under the sun.

Until recent years, except in large cities, librarianship was considered to be primarily an occupation for women. Cartoonists, novelists, playwrights, and motion picture producers succeeded in building in the public eye an image of a librarian as a crusty, middle-aged spinster, utterly lacking in imagination, beauty, or charm; sitting at a desk busily stamping cards, or rigidly enforcing silence. Librarianship is now recognized as a profession, and the librarian is expected to possess many abilities and skills. To train for this work a professional librarian must complete four years of undergraduate work in college, followed by a fifth year in graduate school with a master's degree in library science.

Women Librarians 78% Here

As libraries have secured more financial support, and as the stature of the library has grown in the community, men are coming into the field in increasing numbers, not only in administrative jobs but in direct service to the public. Today it is the training and ability of the librarian which are important—not the sex. The profession recognizes this and gives equal pay for equal work. However, it should perhaps be pointed out that librarianship is still one of the governmental positions which offers exciting and challenging opportunities to women. At the Boston public library approximately 78 per cent of the professional librarians are women. Each of the twenty-six branch libraries, the bookmobiles, the Kirstein Business Branch with its special services for business firms and individuals, the Readers Advisory Services, and several of the Central Library Departments are headed by women. Women also hold several of the supervisory positions.

Librarians As Educators

The library is concerned with the life-long learning of the individual from the preschool child to the senior citizen. Let me illustrate with a few examples from the Boston public library. Before the child enters kindergarten, he attends a preschool library story hour where the Children's Librarian introduces him to the exciting field of children's stories. At the same time, his mother has joined with others in a discussion of new books on child care led by the Adults' Librarian and an expert from the Family Service Association of Greater Boston.

As soon as school is over for the day, children of all ages fill the library rooms seeking answers to their home lessons, selecting books for school reading, or choosing some of the delightful books read "just for fun." They may attend a library story hour in which they are introduced to the old and new children's favorites, or perhaps they may view an educational film on Holland, following which the Children's Librarian tells them about the books they may read to learn more about that country.

Young Adult Needs

Since teenagers usually need guidance in making the transition from children's to adult reading, and since the young adult of today will be the responsible citizen of tomorrow, the library offers services keyed especially to this age group. Librarians who work with young adults must have a sympathetic understanding of their complex problems and interests. In building the young adult book collections they must aim to contribute to the growth of the young person and to his adjustment in an adult world. Through films, book talks, panel discussions, and other programs they help the young adults to make wise choices from the wide range of reading available to them.

Each Thursday afternoon the members of the Never Too Late Group, an organization of some 400 men and women sixty years of age and over, meet in the Central Library. They may participate in a panel discussion on "Housing for the Older Person" or perhaps listen to an illustrated talk on Africa, or some other current topic. The library is one of the few places where the older person may exchange ideas with people of his own generation, discuss the books he has read, and continue his learning in many fields; thus furnishing living proof that it is "never too late" to learn. There are also Never Too Late Groups meetings in three of our branch libraries.

Community Services

The library has long served the individual. It is now working also with the organized groups and the established institutions in the community. Library staff members accept responsibilities in such organizations as the World Affairs Council, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the Intergroup Relations Council, the Adult Education Association, and many others. Librarians work closely with Boston's public and parochial schools.

Our branch librarians participate in many activities in the local communities. Two examples I might mention are the participation of our Codman Square Branch librarians in the organizational planning for the Dorchester United Neighborhood Associations; and the cooperation of the South End Branch Library, the Harvard University Language Institute, and the South End House on a series of meetings for Spanish-speaking Puerto Ricans who wished to learn English. They were willing to attend these meetings in the informal setting of the library where they were hesitant about going to more formal classes.

I'd like to close with a quotation from a statement made by United States Representative John E. Fogarty of Rhode Island at a recent meeting of the New England Library Association:

In a sense a library is yeast for all the worth-while life of a community. Its services are supplementary and illumine every civic and cultural project. It is not competitive with other agencies, but enriches the work of each. Basic to a more effective educational program for the nation is the provision of good library service and sufficient educational materials at every level of learning. In a country where we, the people, are the government, it is necessary that there should be authoritative information available throughout every section of the land. In an era of vast and swift changes, it is imperative that the citizens have material to keep abreast of the times.

WOMEN IN PUBLIC WELFARE

By Mrs. Ida Kahn

My fellow panelists are all professionals in their positions—they are all performing the job for which they were trained. I, on the other hand, am a lay member of the Board of Overseers of Public Welfare, appointed by Mayor Hynes in 1950.

As I thought it over, it appeared not to be a mistake, but rather a very nice compliment to the many women who volunteer their time and energies in the service of their community. I consider this a note of recognition of the contribution made by women on a voluntary basis in many different facets of our municipal operation, as well as in thousands of private philanthropies.

I must admit I was very surprised to find myself in this position, with its very austere title! Until then, my major activities in the community had been as a board member of a private family agency and a hospital auxiliary, and a camp for underprivileged children. I had served on speakers' bureaus for the Red Feather and Children's Hospital campaigns and the boards of several philanthropic fund-raising organizations. As the mother of two children, this was sufficient to satisfy my desire to lend whatever help I could to other people in the community.

This appointment was a revelation to me in the operation of what is really the largest family service agency in all of New England. For example, in the category of Old Age Assistance, we in Boston, with an average caseload of 13,000, have more cases than the entire State of Maine with 11,000, or the State of Maryland with 9,000 cases. In the category of Aid to Dependent Children, we, with a caseload of 4,950, have more than the entire State of New Hampshire with 4,000 cases. Our total caseload averages more than 23,350 cases, so you can see why I found this different from a private agency.

At that time my imagination was staggered by the budget of $24,000,000 and today, 10 years later, the relief budget of $43,301,000 is a figure I find hard to visualize.

Women Predominate

This vast program of social service is carried on by a professional staff of 270 case workers, plus a supervisory staff of 71. I would say that this department is essentially a female one, there being 174 women case workers vs. 96 men; there are 49 women in supervisory positions, and 22 men.

The profession of social work is one having a natural affinity for the talents, interests, and abilities of women. As a matter of fact, it is only recently that men have begun to invade the field! And in this regard I would say we welcome them—for there is a special need for more men case workers in particular areas, such as juvenile delinquency, prison work, and counseling for boys.

But, by and large, in a family agency such as ours, the need and opportunities for women are boundless. It is certainly apparent that when the mother of the household seeks help with her own and/or her children's problems, there can be a more definite understanding of her needs by another woman. A closer rapport with the client can usually be established by a woman case worker.

There is no difference in the size of the caseload or the type of responsibilities assigned to a woman case worker or a man. We have women in every division of the department, with the possible exception of the Legal Department. Promotion in the department is from a combined Civil Service list.

These are the professionals who carry on the work of the Department of Public Welfare. The Board which consists of 12 members has 4 women on it. This is no innovation since our records show that a woman was first appointed to the Board of Overseers in 1891. The Board is a policy-making group and carries on much of its work through committees.

Professional Trend

It has been interesting to note in social agencies the progressive acceptance of the place of the lay member by the professional staff. Parenthetically, I should add, that in the 1800's it was the Board members who did the actual visiting of clients and disbursed the aid. In the department, the committees are generally joint efforts of the professionals and lay members.

These four women I have mentioned chair many of the committees—many of the most important. These include In-Service Training for the staff; Trust Funds, Case Committee, the Committee for the Temporary Home for Women and Children, and others. Some of the gentlemen serve on these committees—and the women serve on others chaired by the men.

As I look at the activities of the Board I cannot see any difference in the role of men and women. Each group is equally dedicated to its job and gives tremendous amounts of time and effort to it—the women taking as much responsibility as the men—often more, perhaps because they have more time. They have been instrumental in interpreting the work of the Department of Public Welfare to the general community; they have initiated plans for better interagency action; they have agitated for higher standards in housing for our clients; they have been in the forefront in the study of our Aid to Dependent Children program.

These are women who are community-minded, rather than single-agency minded. Each of us is grateful for the opportunity that has been given us to serve the City of Boston and we are rather pleased that you have seen fit to note our contribution.

WOMEN IN CITY PLANNING

By Gladys P. Lyons

All members of this panel are in agreement that women are just people and wherever there are functions for people, one may encounter a woman. In 400 B.C. Plato declared, "There is nothing that a man can do in public affairs that a woman can't do." No one would deny that women have been a powerful force through the ages—from Helen of Troy to the pioneer women of Colonial America, to the early days of planning in Massachusetts with Boston's own Elizabeth M. Herlihy.

Women No Longer a Novelty

Today it is no novelty for a woman to occupy a key post in government, business, or industry. Yet this fact, which we take so much for granted in 1960, did not come without a long, hard struggle. The Declaration of Independence, with its enunciation of principles of equality for all man, meaning "mankind," as read to Boston's assembled citizens from the balcony of the historic Old State House, was only oratory to women in 1776. Justice Jennie L. Barron of the Massachusetts Superior Court, tells us that women of that era, whether married or single, were classed with infants and the insane, and denied the right to vote. They could neither hold public office nor share in any part of lawmaking. Upon marriage the woman lost her legal identity for business functions. Wife and husband were one and the husband was the one. All the wife's property became her husband's and the wife the property of her husband. In all States except "enlightened" Massachusetts he could beat her!

Women In One Third of U.S. Jobs

Although the first Women's Rights Convention was held in 1848 in Seneca Falls, New York, it was not until August, 1920, that the 19th Amendment was ratified and women at last had won the right to vote.

As an indication of the increasing contribution of women to the nation's man-power needs there are today 22 million women workers, one half of whom are married, and they hold one third of the nation's jobs. The very fact that the city's personnel files do not readily yield the number of women in city employment is mute testimony to the recognition of women as an equal part of a necessary labor force. And this same condition is increasingly a factor in recruiting staffs for planning offices.

Women Good for Morale

The Boston City Planning Board, established in 1913 as a result of mandatory state legislation, for many years resisted the inroads of women to its professional ranks. The necessity to double its staff a few years ago created no small dilemma. QUERY: Where to get well-trained competent personnel, representing a variety of professional skills when planning departments across the country were similarly expanding in the mad scramble to meet basic requirements and qualify for federal assistance. A call for "help" to some 50 women's colleges and universities in New England, known to have good basic training in one or another of the related professional disciplines, produced the desired result: a goodly number of applications from the feminine contingent majoring in sociology, economics, mathematics and statistics, cartography, geography, landscape design, art, and architectural design. No applicant had previously considered the field of city planning as a possible future vocation, yet all were intrigued with the possibilities it offered. And suddenly, the dilemma was over. With the acquisition of several decorous young ladies, the morale of all unmarried males on the staff developed a "new look" and Boston's planning took on renewed vigor. Score one for women's contribution to the human side of planning!

Minimum Requirements

Using the planner's inevitable technique: the development and application of standards, a set of minimum standards for female planners might read something like this:

Age

Old enough to conjure with young enough to "take" it and bounce back

Size

tall enough to reach high places for hanging exhibits short enough to be out of the way when necessary

big enough to be seen on occasion, and

small enough to squeeze into small places

Temperament

cool enough to be level-headed warm enough to inspire the uninspired

good visual acuity—to detect crooked map captions

endurance to withstand prolonged schedules of night meetings and successions of humanly impossible deadlines

agility of a mountain goat for fast field trips

zeal of a reformer, lest one weary from repeated frustrations knowledge of the English language to supplement that of Ph.D.'s and others who can't spell

With a present staff almost 50 per cent female, having met successfully all of these "minimum standards," plus a certain competence in any of several professional disciplines required, it is easy to see that Boston's future is in good hands.

Planning Everyone's Job

Seriously, however, Boston does have a unique opportunity within the framework of a renewal program, to incorporate the beauty of its historic past with the amenities of the present to create the most interesting and livable city in America.

There has probably been no time more challenging than the present to be a city planner: challenging first, because the federal government for the first time has offered broad-scale financial assistance to cities in coping with the otherwise insurmountable problems of urban areas; and challenging secondly, because the complexity of today's problems demand the utmost in professional skill from the planner in achieving a happy balance between the ideal and the practically attainable. And nowhere is this more true than in the City of Boston with the recent announcement of a $90 million renewal program that encompasses all areas of the city—residential, commercial, and industrial—in the broadest renewal program yet attempted in the United States.

As trustees of Boston's most eminent past, each of us as a citizen and a public servant has a twofold responsibility to help preserve and protect Boston's undisputed contribution to freedom and liberty in the founding of America; its enviable list of "firsts," still being created; and its continuing contribution to the cultural, scientific, and business life of America.

FIN. COM. CRITICIZES BILLS TO ASSIGN CITY LANDS TO MDC

February 3, 1961.

To the Honorable the Mayor.

The Finance Commission wishes to call your attention to the matter of property takings, by eminent domain, by the Metropolitan District Commission in the City of Boston for recreational purposes.

Three Bills

Three legislative bills (House 1906-1905-1907) currently before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs are cases in point.

1. H-1906. This bill provides:

"The metropolitan district commission is hereby authorized and directed to take by eminent domain land at the corner of Dorchester avenue and Gibson street in the Dorchester district of the city of Boston, and construct and maintain thereon a recreation and athletic building, including a swimming pool and basketball court. For said purpose, the metropolitan district commission may expend such sums as may be appropriated therefor."

It has been ascertained at the office of the Metropolitan District Commission that the property in question is a 34,144 square-foot area containing an abandoned school building. This property was sold in September, 1960 for $22,500 by the Board on Sale of Land or School Buildings which is set up under chapter 259 of the Acts of 1906, as amended, to dispose of surplus school property. The successful bidder selected by that Board was a baker who was supposed to develop the property in the form of a group of commercial buildings. To guarantee that such a development would take place within a certain time period, a requirement was inserted in the deed as a condition.

Actually, transfer of title was delayed because of a difficulty arising from a related trust. However, it now appears that transfer of title is about to take place.

The purpose in disposing of this property was to provide a commercial development at this site. The Finance Commission therefore respectfully requests that your Honor withhold approval of the transfer of title while any plan to convert this area to recreational purposes by the Metropolitan District Commission exists.

Tenean Beach

2. H-1905. This bill provides:

"The metropolitan district commission is hereby authorized and directed to take by eminent domain the following parcels of land and construct certain recreational facilities thereon:

(a) Certain lands extending from Tenean beach to the junction of Tenean and Lawley streets in the Dorchester district of the city of Boston and to construct a marina thereon.

(b) Certain lands in said Dorchester district, adjacent to Tenean beach and the Southeast expressway, and to extend thereon the recreational facilities of said Tenean beach. For said purposes, the metropolitan district commission may expend such sums as may be appropriated therefor."

Inquiry at the office of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department revealed that the latter department had never been consulted in the matter and the prospect of turning over such property to the Metropolitan District Commission came as a complete surprise.

3. H-1907. This bill provides:

"The metropolitan district commission is hereby authorized and directed to take by eminent domain certain lands in the Dorchester district of the city of Boston bounded by Dorchester avenue, the rear lots of Tilman street, the rear lots of Welles avenue and the Dorchester tunnel of the Metropolitan Transit Authority and to construct thereon a recreational area for children. For said purposes, the metropolitan district commission may expend such sums as may be appropriated therefor."

This bill describes a large area but it is not clear what particular parcels of property are contemplated to be taken. It could not be ascertained at the Office of the Metropolitan District Commission what specific properties were contemplated.

Comment

It seems clear that proposed takings by the Metropolitan District Commission of property in Boston without prior consultation with the city on these specific properties creates a very unsatisfactory situation for several reasons:

1. In the case of the property at the corner of Gibson street and Dorchester avenue, (H-1906), this policy tends to nullify the efforts of the Board on Sale of Land or School Buildings which sought to dispose of this former school property to be developed for the best and most profitable use to the city.

2. Before a state agency makes an effort to take by eminent domain property within a city, it should be first determined what the wishes of the city are with respect to that property.

3. Boston is in the process of urban renewal on a grand scale. Approximately $2,000,000 is being spent in planning the renewal of one third of the City of Boston. Incident to this, the optimum location of playgrounds, schools, parks and other facilities must first be decided after study by the Urban Redevelopment Authority as part of the program. Such municipal facilities (if directed by the city), moreover, represent non-cash credits and reduce the city's cash outlay for urban renewal.

Just as a city ought to clear all proposals for disposition of surplus municipal property through the Urban Redevelopment Authority to determine the relationship of such property to urban renewal plans, the city should be given a chance to measure proposals for land takings by the Metropolitan District Commission against the city's urban renewal program.

4. There has been a lengthy series of land takings by the Metropolitan District Commission for recreational purposes in Boston in recent years. Apart from any intrinsic merit in any particular taking from the recreational point of view, the fact remains that there is no comprehensive recreational plan within the city into which such takings have been or could be integrated. This consideration is wholly apart from the matter of Metropolitan District Commission's costs which Boston to a substantial extent shares and which have been steadily increasing.

The Finance Commission calls these matters to your attention at this time to enable you to take whatever action you deem advisable.

TRAWLERS

A renewed effort is under foot at Boston Fish Pier to interest U.S. Department of Interior in participating financially in construction of some 20 steel trawlers within next 10 years. Similar action two years ago met with crippling delays. Move is needed to revitalize flagging haddock fishery at Boston—hard hit by Canadian competition. Average age of trawlers at Boston is 24 years.

SHERRIN STREET SEWER

Hyde Park.

The Mayor and Public Improvement Commission have approved new sewerage works for Sherrin street, Hyde Park.

The project is described as follows:

A parcel of land, owners unknown, being part of the private way known as Sherrin street, bounded:

Northeasterly by the southwesterly line of Dale street, sixty-nine and 56-100 feet; southeasterly by the southeasterly line of Sherrin street, by four measurements, eighteen and 01-100 feet on a curve of ten and 00-100 feet radius, two hundred twenty and 84-100 feet; eighty and 02-100 feet on a curve of one hundred five and 64-100 feet radius and four hundred five and 00-100 feet; southwesterly by another portion of Sherrin street, forty and 00-100 feet; and northwesterly
by the northwesterly line of Sherrin street, by four measurements, four hundred five and 00-100 feet, one hundred ten and 32-100 feet on a curve of one hundred forty-five and 64-100 feet radius, two hundred twenty-seven and 02-100 feet, and twenty-six and 80-100 feet on a curve of twenty and 00-100 feet radius, containing twenty-nine thousand six hundred eighteen square feet more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: 700 linear feet of 10-inch pipe sewer and 678 linear feet of 12-inch pipe surface drain in the same trench; 32 linear feet of 12-inch pipe surface drain in a separate trench, and 5 catch basins at an estimated cost of $13,346.

Betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

Ordered, That this Commission estimates that the abutting parcels of land situated on both sides of said Sherrin street will receive benefit or advantage, beyond the general advantage to all real estate in said city, from the improvement herein ordered; said parcels in the amounts hereinafter respectively set against them; said parcels and the supposed owners thereof being shown on

TAX PAYMENTS BY INSTALLMENTS ADVOCATED BY FIN. COM.

February 1, 1961.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives.

In the first place it should be explained why the Boston Finance Commission is introducing the attached legislative petition to provide for payment of property taxes in several installments. This explanation is particularly necessary since several bills have already been filed for this session of the Legislature which also seek to provide for the installment method of tax payment.

The reasons are:

1. None of the other bills provide for payment in three installments. Consultation with the Collector-Treasurer of Boston, who will administer this program, has convinced the Finance Commission that the three-payment method is advisable.

2. The Finance Commission's bill, attached hereto, has the unique provision of a penalty for delinquency of 1 per cent per month on unpaid taxes. This feature is also deemed necessary.

Basis of Proposal

Each year many Massachusetts communities are forced to borrow many millions of dollars, because taxes are not due until late in the year, whereas obligations must be met by the municipality every month of the year. In Boston this annual temporary borrowing has averaged more than $70,000,000 during the past seven years.

The interest rate on temporary loans, in anticipation of receipt of taxes, has risen appreciably. For Boston in 1950 the average rate was 1.001 per cent; in 1960 it was 2.363 per cent. The fact that our economy has entered an era of high interest rates on borrowing means that the cost of this as well as all forms of borrowing is bound to rise.

It is hardship enough for a taxpayer to pay a tax bill based on a high tax rate, but to increase the tax burden because the collection calendar is not geared to the expenditure program is to add an extra burden without providing an added municipal service. This bill is aimed at correcting this maladjustment. The key to elimination of temporary borrowing lies in developing and following an early calendar of tax collections which will bring in the money when it is needed.

Why the City Has To Borrow

The City Treasurer continually analyzes his cash position in anticipating the commitments facing the City for the period ahead. When this analysis indicates that, notwithstanding receipts from departmental and other sources, the cash position of the City is inadequate, the City must then resort to temporary borrowing. The amounts of such temporary borrowing in recent years are presented in the following table:

TEMPORARY BORROWING
	1958	1959	1960
January	$5,000,000
February	10,000,000	$10,000,000
March	10,000,000	10,000,000	$10,000,000
April	10,000,000	5,000,000	5,000,000
May	15,000,000	5,000,000	10,000,000
June		10,000,000	10,000,000
July		10,000,000	5,000,000
August	10,000,000	5,000,000	5,000,000
September	10,000,000
October	10,000,000
November
December
	$80,000,000	$55,000,000	$45,000,000

The reason why the 1959 and 1960 temporary borrowing figures are much lower than the previous years is that money was made available to the Collector-Treasurer by the sale of the Sumner Traffic Tunnel ($10,000,000), and through the provisions of the $45,000,000 Funding Loans.

Advantages of This Bill

The advantages of the attached bill may be summarized as follows:

1. It would pump tax receipts into the City's treasury three times a year and facilitate financing of current operations. For example, tax revenue schedules indicate that as early as February, in any year, relatively little revenue is received. The attached legislative bill provides that the first installment of taxes shall be due early in the year. Thus, the City's need for current operating revenue in the early months of the year will be met.

2. The effect of this bill would be to reach, at regular intervals, those property tax funds which are eventually destined for the City's treasury but held during the year until the due date of payment arrives.

3. This installment method would correspond to the bill-paying pattern and habit of today's average citizen and would probably be welcomed by the average taxpayer.

4. The bill contains the essential of the penalty provision which is necessary to make the system effective.

5. The higher percentage of collection of the current year's tax levy which should result from this new method of collection would aid and improve the City's credit rating.

6. This bill would mean a major saving to municipalities. The annual cost to the City of Boston in interest charges has run between $415,855 and $1,608,240 during the past seven years for this type of borrowing.

The Boston Finance Commission introduces this bill under its powers as expressed in chapter 486 of the Acts of 1909, and respectfully requests favorable action on this bill.

Text of Bill

AN ACT RELATIVE TO THE
PROPERTY TAXES

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

SECTION 1. The General Laws are hereby amended by inserting after chapter 58A the following chapter:—

CHAPTER 58B.
PROPERTY TAXES.

Section 1. Assessment of Estimated Property Tax.—The assessors of every city having a Plan D or Plan E charter which accepts this chapter by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of all the members of its city council, and the assessors of every other city which accepts this chapter by a majority vote of its city council, with the approval of its mayor, and the assessors of every town which accepts this chapter by a majority vote of its inhabitants at an annual town meeting, shall not later than the fifth day of January in each year assess upon every person upon whom in such year they will assess a real estate tax under chapter fifty-nine and also upon every person upon whom in such year they will assess a personal property tax under said chapter, and commit with their warrant to the collector of taxes, an estimated property tax which shall be in such amount as they estimate will equal one-half of the tax to be assessed by them upon such person in such year under said chapter fifty-nine, or, if they so elect, in such amount as is equal to one-half of the tax assessed by them under said chapter fifty-nine in the preceding year on the same property. Such city or town may, in the manner above provided, rescind its acceptance of this chapter which shall then no longer be in effect therein after December thirty-first of the year in which rescission was voted, but such rescission shall in no way affect any rights or liabilities acquired or incurred prior to the effective date thereof.

Section 2. Bill for Estimated Property Tax.—Every collector of taxes to whom an estimated property tax is committed under this chapter shall forthwith send to the person assessed a bill or notice thereof which shall be in a form approved by the commissioner.

Section 3. Dates for Payment of Estimated Property Tax.—Every estimated property tax assessed under this chapter shall be due and payable in two equal installments, on February first and May first of the year in which such tax is assessed.

Section 4. Credit for, or Refund of, Payments.—Every payment, except a payment of interest, made on account of an estimated property tax assessed under this chapter in any year to any person on any property shall, to the extent of the tax assessed in such year to such person on such property under chapter fifty-nine, be credited on the due date of the tax so assessed under chapter fifty-nine as a payment thereon. Every payment, except a payment of interest, made on account of an estimated property tax assessed under this chapter which is not credited as aforesaid shall, subject to section ninety-three of chapter sixty, be refunded by the city or town to the person paying the same; provided, that within six years after such payment such person files with the treasurer of the city or town a written application therefor on a form approved by the commissioner.

Section 5. Revision of Estimated Property Tax.—Assessors assessing in any year to any person on any property an estimated property tax under this chapter may at any time, upon the application of the person assessed or of their own motion, abate so much of such estimated property tax as remains unpaid, if such estimated property tax is in excess of one-half of a revised estimate of the tax to be assessed in such year to such person on such property under chapter fifty-nine, or if such estimated property tax is in excess of the tax assessed in such year to such person on such property under chapter fifty-nine.

Section 6. Penalty for Nonpayment of Estimated Property Tax.

—If the whole or any part of an installment of an estimated property tax assessed under this act remains unpaid after the expiration of one month from the due date of such installment, the collector-treasurer of said city shall impose and collect as a part thereof a penalty equal to one per cent per month of the amount so remaining unpaid. The collector-treasurer of said city shall, on October first in each year in which an estimated property tax assessed to any person on any property under this act and also a tax assessed to such person on such property under said chapter fifty-nine are committed to him, compute the penalties, if any, due but unpaid on said date on such estimated property tax and add the same to, and collect the same as a part of, the tax assessed under said chapter fifty-nine.

SECTION 2. Section 57 of chapter 59 of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out the first sentence, as most recently amended by section 1 of chapter 265 of the acts of 1949, and inserting in place thereof the following sentence:—Except as otherwise provided, real estate and personal property taxes shall be due and payable on October first of each year in every city, town and district in which the same are assessed.

SECTION 3. The first paragraph of section 15 of chapter 60 of the General Laws is hereby amended by striking out clause 1, as appearing in chapter 398 of the acts of 1952, and inserting in place thereof the following clause:—

1. For interest, the interest provided in section fifty-seven of chapter fifty-nine, and, in addition thereto, the interest, if any, added under section six of chapter fifty-eight B.

BATTLE OF THE BIRDS

A battle in bird-scaring within Philadelphia's city government seemed to be approaching as city hall shooed away starlings with a sound truck and speakers, and the starlings took off for free meals at the zoo.

Managing Director D. C. Wagner reported that the city hall seemed free of starlings after the sound truck and six speakers broadcast distress cries of the birds. The speakers will remain, he said, for possible continuous use. The zoo manager reported that at once pens of ducks, geese and cranes at the zoo were filled with starlings. The feeding rations, he said, had to be increased to insure the regular inmates enough to eat.

TRAFFIC RULING*Temporary*

The Traffic Commissioner has promulgated the following ruling:

Whereas, If during the period of underground oil service line construction by the Boston Edison Company, two-way traffic were to be allowed in Dorchester avenue, Boston Proper and South Boston, conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative, such construction would be substantially impeded; and . . .

Whereas, Public safety and convenience require that remedial measures be invoked as of January 30, 1961; and

Whereas, A meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission is not scheduled to be held prior to January 30, 1961: now therefore . . . I hereby promulgate the following rule and regulation to take effect forthwith and to be operative only until the completion of such construction or the expiration of one month from the date hereof, whichever is earlier:

For the period aforesaid, the following street is one way in the direction indicated:

Dorchester Avenue, Boston Proper and South Boston.

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE OF BOSTON MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1961

No. 7

MASSACHUSETTS LEAGUE OF CITIES AND TOWNS IS FORMED

An almost casual remark by Mayor John F. Collins at a meeting of the Metropolitan Transit Authority Advisory Board many months ago, in which he suggested a union of Massachusetts cities and towns presenting a united front before the state and national levels of government with respect to municipal problems, needs, and equitable demands, became a solid reality on February 17.

Mayors, managers, and selectmen from many Massachusetts communities, after a four-hour session in Framingham, formally organized into a Massachusetts League of Cities and Towns. The league is now in the preliminary stages of its formation.

Dues have been set and temporary officers have been named. A steering committee, which will act as the executive board, pro tem, was also selected. A constitution and a set of bylaws were adopted.

The league will hold its first annual meeting sometime in June at which permanent officers and the executive board will be elected.

Every community, whether large or small, will have one vote in the league.

A permanent executive director will be appointed and legislative counsel named to work on behalf of the organization on Beacon Hill.

Promotion of the general welfare of the communities of Massachusetts is the avowed primary purpose of the league, this to be accomplished by making modern methods and practices readily available for improving municipal government generally, and to thoroughly acquaint the state and national levels of government with the manifold problems of local government in Massachusetts.

Mayor Philip J. Crowley of Everett was named acting president of the league; Selectman Raymond M. Trudel of Montague, 1st vice-president, and City Manager Edward P. O'Toole of Revere, 2nd vice-president.

The president pro tem told the assembled group that any funds invested by a community in operating the league could be returned a hundredfold.

Passage of a single legislative bill, such as the distribution of gasoline taxes for local highways purposes, he said, could bring hundred of dollars back to the community for every one expended for the league.

In the matter of dues to support the league it was voted, on the motion of Mayor Collins, that the per capita fee for each municipality be held to 2 cents and that the minimum dues for any one town be set at $25. Boston would pay the maximum dues of $10,000 a year.

Robert J. M. O'Hare, director of the Boston College Seminar, is acting as the league's executive director. He pointed out that if all the communities of Massachusetts joined the organization it would have an operating fund of about $95,000 a year.

A Massachusetts League of Municipalities would be able to make its influence felt on the national level by operating through the American Municipal Association which represents leagues of municipalities all over the country. It maintains its headquarters in Washington.

Hearings on Budget Start February 21

The City Council will open public hearings on the 1961 budget recommendations of Mayor Collins, Tuesday, February 21, it was announced by Chairman Thomas A. Sullivan of the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

Subcommittees will hear the budget details of the smaller city and county departments and agencies while the presentation of facts pertaining to the large departmental budgets will be heard by the entire committee.

The subcommittees will work in teams of two: Councillors Foley and Kerrigan, Councillors Iannella and Hines, and Councillors Coffey and Connolly.

ESTABLISHMENT OF A WORKABLE DISASTER RELIEF PROGRAM

"The Establishment of a Workable Disaster Relief Program" for Boston titled the second of six panels which comprised the fifth annual Conferama on Municipal Administration held November 17 and 18, 1960.

Moderator for this panel was Neil P. Fallon, Director, Plans and Operations, Region 1, Office of Civil Defense Mobilization, United States Government.

The panelists were as follows:

Elmer C. Foster, Director of Citizens Relations.

Henry A. Scagnoli, Fire Commissioner.

F. Robert Freckleton, M.D., Health Commissioner.

By Neil P. Fallon

Let me say this about your panelists: these gentlemen taken individually and as a group have had considerable background in disaster work and what they are going to say to you this morning is based upon long years of experience coupled with a distinguished record of public service. These gentlemen know whereof they speak and I am sure as you listen to their talks you will agree with me on this point. Also, I am sure they have the necessary knowledge and background to answer any questions that you may wish to raise, and the panelists have already indicated their willingness and desire to have questions asked of them. In the interest of conserving our time, however, I am going to ask that all questions be reserved until all of the gentlemen have had an opportunity to complete their papers. I will then entertain questions from you to any member of the panel.

Meaning of "Workable"

Our topic this morning is "The Establishment of a Workable Disaster Relief Program." The language of the topic implies to me at least that there is some question that the City of Boston at the present time does actually have a workable disaster relief program and that it is known to you ladies and gentlemen who are responsible for its execution and to the general public who would be its beneficiaries.

This is the second installment of the complete report of the Fifth Annual Conference on Municipal Administration which will run consecutively in each issue of the "City Record" through March 18.

The topic also contains an interesting adjective. I refer to the word "workable." Again, this implies to me that we are going to address ourselves to a disaster relief program that is practical and can be carried out with the resources of personnel and equipment available to this great city. In short, none of us want to waste time with ivory tower ideas. Another comment that I would like to make about the wording of the topic is the fact that in this day and age a disaster must necessarily be defined in two ways. The first definition concerns itself with disasters resulting from the forces of nature or peacetime man-made accidents. The second definition has a grimmer connotation and has to do with a disaster resulting from an enemy attack. Our panelists this morning take both of these definitions into account and address themselves to some of the problems and complications inherent in both types of disasters.

Kinds of Disaster

It has been the experience of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization in carrying out its tasks for the Executive Office of the President that too often the executive and administrative personnel of small towns, large cities, great metropolitan centers such as Boston, states, and some major federal agencies do not have a clear grasp of the content of an operational plan. I use the term "operational plan" synonymously with the words "Disaster Relief Program" in the topic.

This morning we are interested in knowing what can be done about establishing an operational plan for the City of Boston that will encompass natural disasters and enemy-caused disasters. Therefore I am going to take a few more minutes to discuss with you what goes into an operational plan.

Elements of Planning

Briefly, these are its elements:

An operational plan is always a written document. It tells through the plan proper, through its annexes, and through its appendices what exactly is to be done by specific governmental units or staff (by title and not by name) under specific sets of circumstances.

The plan proper applies to all services or elements of the governmental unit for which the plan is being written and lays out in broad, clear terms the objectives and the actions that are to be taken.

Annexes to the main portion of the plan must be prepared and written for each operating service or element. In the event an operating service has divisions or branches, appendices to an annex must be prepared.

It must contain the signature of the chief executive who is authenticating the plan and issuing the orders for its promulgation.

Elements of Program

For our purposes, then, a workable disaster relief plan, or program, if you will, would contain these elements:

1. A concise statement of the situation for which the plan is being written and the mission to be accomplished by its execution.

2. A statement in broad terms of the over-all nature of the plan making crystal clear what its component elements are.

3. A statement also in broad terms of the action to be taken by each subordinate unit of government.

4. A statement of major actions to be taken with respect to supply and logistics.

5. A statement telling how the over-all plan will be directed and the command structure that will be followed by all elements. This should also include the location of command points.

6. The signature or authentication of the Chief Executive.

7. A series of annexes or appendices.

8. Reference use of maps, tables, charts, etc.

Clues to the Discourses

Before our panelists begin, I would like to provide you with certain key words or clues that will be useful to you in deciding whether or not the comments and suggestions being made are actually of a workable nature. Our agency has had long and extensive experience in disaster work and certain words or phrases when used by officials with whom we work or confer are tip-offs to us that they too have had experience and have gained a certain amount of know-how during actual disasters. I give you these so that you can be on the lookout for them. There is no order or priority to them. Listen for words and terms such as these: continuity of government in the executive department and the operational departments; application of new techniques to the solution of old problems; inter-departmental team work; mutual assistance; equipped and trained personnel; plans must be dynamic not static; built-in readiness is based on daily competence; tell the public, keep them informed, keep them educated, make them partners in the plan; expand cadres of professional personnel through the use of trained volunteers; the plan must be for the entire community, it is not good enough to have two or three operational departments with plans and all the other departments hoping for the best; is the chain of command for all departments, all volunteer or auxiliary, all community elements clear and simple; are there provisions for periodic testing of the plan.

If you hear from the panelists words, phrases, or ideas comparable to those I have just mentioned, you can be assured the question and answer period that will follow the formal papers will be most profitable to you.

Let's hear now from the first panelist, Mr. John G. Pickett, Director of Civil Defense, City of Boston.

MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION OF CIVIL DEFENSE

By John G. Pickett

I have been asked, as my part in this discussion, to make some observations on the establishment of a Workable Disaster Relief Program for Boston. Although my experience in Civil Defense is fairly recent, I am very happy at the choice of the word "workable" in speaking of a disaster relief plan and program.

Too many times, plans have been developed, with considerable care and effort only to be discarded as "not workable." I take it that Disaster Relief connotes both natural and enemy-caused disasters and will speak briefly first concerning natural disasters because plans and programs are extant for coping with fires, floods, earthquakes, hurricanes, and similar disasters, and all sections of the nation have been affected by them and have had experience in meeting and solving the problems incident to them.

In the situations referred to, the American people and American communities have always rallied to assist disaster victims, to assist the sick and injured, and to assist in the rebuilding and rehabilitation of damaged homes and facilities.

The American Red Cross, the Salvation Army, and similar organizations have provided disaster victims with food, clothing, medical care, housing, and rehabilitation. Public and private welfare agencies have also played a prominent role in disaster relief activities in time of emergency and now Civil Defense has been called upon to do its part.

Marshaling of Forces

In speaking of local government's role in disaster situations, the nucleus of a community's needed services in an emergency is the local Civil Defense organization. Our role is essentially one of coordinating the resources and activities of the city's various departments, as well as various private resources of business and industry.

The regular services—Fire, Police, Medical, Welfare, Public Works, etc., join with the Civil Defense organization and use their experience and resources in combatting the natural disaster. With a Civil Defense force in readiness, emergency operations can be expanded rapidly and efficiently to cope with the many problems incident to natural disasters.

Briefly, when we are alerted to prepare for a natural disaster situation, certain staff members are assigned to our Administrative Headquarters at 115 Southamptton street to man the telephones and answer hundreds of inquiries from people from all parts of the state.

Control Center

With key members of my staff, our emergency operating center or control center is fully manned. Various heads of services such as Fire, Police, Public Works, Welfare, Medical, etc., and representatives of the gas, electric, and telephone companies report to assigned duty stations and the Civil Defense RACES, Fire, Police, and Public Works short-wave radio nets are put into operation from the White Stadium at Franklin Park and our prearranged Natural Disaster plan goes into operation.

An important phase of the plan is the dispatching of rescue crews and fully-equipped rescue trucks, ten in number, to the disaster locations. In addition to trained rescue crews, where radiological hazards are involved, personnel trained in the use of radiological detection and monitoring devices also respond on summons.

Because of Boston's resources in personnel and equipment, we are ready at all times to provide assistance to other cities and towns upon request of the MCDA Area I Director, and if our resources need augmenting, to request assistance from the state and federal governments.

In Case of War

With respect to providing a "workable" Disaster Relief plan for a war-caused disaster such as an enemy nuclear attack, the problems involved are almost beyond comprehension. As I pointed out, there is a considerable body of experience in coping with the effects of natural disasters. Unfortunately, our first experience with nuclear attack might also be our last.

For the first time in the nation's history, we are vulnerable to nuclear attack by a potential enemy who has the capability to deliver multi-megaton weapons on selected targets in the United States. Regardless of the effectiveness of our defenses, a large proportion of the attacking forces could penetrate our defenses and drop nuclear weapons one of which could obliterate a whole city.

How does one cope with a prospect so terrible? How does a city like Boston, which incidentally, is listed as a prime target, proceed to develop the requisite operational readiness and operational capability to minimize the effects of exploding nuclear bombs or missiles?

First, there must be a "workable" or operational Civil Defense plan. Second, there must be an organization equipped and trained to carry out the missions of each echelon of Civil Defense, and finally, there must be a program of training for Civil Defense personnel and for volunteers.

Impact of Atomic Blast

Before we can plan we must know what the effects of such an attack would be in order to cope with those effects. The nuclear weapon which could be dropped on Boston by a potential enemy in blast effects alone, is the equivalent of 20 million tons of TNT or 5 times as powerful as all the bombs dropped by the American forces in World War II. Rather than dwell upon the subject, this small map, illustrates more graphically than words, the effects of blast and heat alone, without speaking of radiological effects.

This map represents the target areas in Massachusetts. The large ones are the Boston, Worcester, and Springfield targets.

The Warning

The red ring, or A ring, represents a 5-mile radius of total deaths and destruction. The orange, or B ring, from 5 to 10 miles in radius represents the area of total to heavy damage and 50 per cent casualties. The yellow, or C ring, from the 10- to 15 mile radius, represents heavy to moderate damage with 30 per cent casualties, and the green, or D ring, moderate to light damage with 10 per cent casualties.

Keeping in mind that Civil Defense plans throughout the nation were based on a warning time permitting substantial evacuation of target areas, rapidly decreasing warning time due to the advent of intercontinental and ballistic missiles has made tactical evacuation practically impossible.

Evacuation

We are now in the process of revising and re-writing our plan to meet this situation. Very briefly, we are planning to establish an operational, effective Civil Defense plan which will spell out a course of action to be taken by the Civil Defense organization, the city government, business and industry, and the general public under the following conditions: impending attack, imminent attack, attack without warning, and actions to be taken after attack.

We intend to revise our plans so that all elements will take action required under the various warning conditions referred to. The plan must spell out who does what, when, and where, and how. The actions taken must be automatic and without further instruction other than the warning received. It must be the joint product of the services and sections such as Police, Fire, Welfare, Medical, etc., and encompass the planning of business and industry also.

The problems involved are tremendous, on the other hand, we in Boston have tremendous resources in skilled personnel, in equipment, in human and physical resources of all kinds. With plans to utilize these resources, we can immeasurably increase our chances of survival. We must also inform and educate the people of Boston while we perfect and test these plans. The provision of an effective and operational Civil Defense plan for Boston is an urgent and challenging task requiring the use of all our knowledge, skill, and resources. More than that, it will require the knowledge, skill, and resourcefulness and cooperation of every level of government, of every agency, of every service, and of every division, department, and resource of the city. With that cooperation and assistance, we can and will develop the plan.

It may be trite, but it is nevertheless true, that Civil Defense is everybody's business and that Civil Defense planning is no longer merely defense planning, it is planning for survival.

COMMUNITY ORGANIZATION

By Elmer Foster

A workable disaster relief program must consist of two parts, planning and execution.

As planners we are fortunate in having the services of those experts who are participants on this panel.

But the best plans are useless without effective means and methods of execution.

There is much that the personnel within the Civil Defense, the Fire, and Health Departments can do to implement the plans. But since disasters by definition involve large numbers of people the limited staffs of those departments cannot alone handle the vast and complex problems involved.

They can reach out to the communities, but every community must be ready to help itself. Such readiness must consist of two parts: organization and information.

Already organized within the Mayor's department of Citizens' Relations are over 75 community groups involving over 25,000 people.

When the plans of those departments directly concerned with the handling of disaster are in sufficiently detailed stage a concentrated program of education should be undertaken. Representatives of those departments should appear before community groups to outline to them those aspects of disaster relief that relate to the communities.

Each community group would then appoint a subcommittee whose prime task it would be to handle all aspects of disaster relief for their community. They would keep in constant liaison with official agencies. They would organize their own communities for disaster action, laying out specific programs for their communities and recruiting the necessary subleadership.

To organize in such detail is a sizeable undertaking. But the basic structures to make it possible—organized community groups—already exist.

The effort is not only worth while but absolutely essential. For only through such effort can panic be obviated, maximum numbers of lives be saved, and human misery be alleviated.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ROLE

By Henry A. Scagnoli

It is my belief that the action of the chairman in placing the Boston Fire Department on this panel was appropriate and timely. The Boston Fire Department has been, is, and will continue to be on a 24-hour alert for disaster, not only in our city but in the metropolitan area of Boston.

I would divide our program into two sections:

1. Fire Alarm Division immediate services.
2. Mutual assistance.

The Alarm System

As you well know, the Fire Alarm Division of our department is the first to receive an alarm. This is not necessarily an alarm of fire but may be an alarm of an impending danger or disaster.

To illustrate, recently Box 612 was sounded by the officials of Logan Airport. Now, Box 612 is not just another alarm of fire, but is an emergency box set up in the Control Room of the Logan Airport Tower. Immediately upon receipt of this box, every available piece of fire equipment in East Boston as well as the district chief of the area and the deputy chief of Division 1 sped to the scene. Earlier this year, a two-way radio tuned to the Boston Fire Department frequency, was installed on Engine Company 2 of Winthrop. The reason for this was that the Winthrop Company would be the first to arrive at a fire on Boston property at Deer Island. This foresightedness paid off on the plane crash of October 4. The Winthrop Company was on the scene in a few minutes, and they notified Boston Fire Alarm just what the incident was. This information was relayed to the Boston apparatus responding, to the chief of department, and to any other official who was tuned in. This enabled Chief of Department Martin to plan, while en route to the scene, just what to do. From his car, Chief of Department Martin ordered skin divers and all emergency equipment be sent to the scene of the plane crash. Although a new task to Fire Alarm, skin divers from the Boston Fire Department were on the scene within 20 minutes and from other parts of the metropolitan area within an hour.

Rescue Teams

As an outcome of this, we now have set up in the Boston Fire Department "The Martinurts," or "the Chief Martin Underwater Rescue Teams." These are skin divers that have been sent to school for professional training paid for by the Fire Department and completely equipped to do underwater rescue work within minutes. It is our intent that at least one team of this group will always be on active duty.

Other services performed that border on disaster relief are, namely, we notify the Red Cross when five or more families are burned out, and we notify the Salvation Army in order that they, too, can immediately rush to the scene.

Cooperative Machinery

The Boston Fire Department maintains direct telephone lines to the Boston Police Department, the Metropolitan District Commission, and the Boston Edison Company. Also, we install and maintain at Police Headquarters and all divisions a system of notification. When an alarm is sounded to the Fire Department, it is also received at every police installation in the city. Thus, the Police Department can respond with us and be at the scene at approximately the same time as our equipment arrives.

Other types of calls made by us automatically when needed are to the various hospitals when disaster, such as East Boston, strikes. Maintained, also, is a list of ambulance services which we can and have called when ambulances are needed immediately.

All incidents on the water front are relayed within seconds to the U. S. Coast Guard, the Massachusetts Port Authority, and, if need be, to the U. S. Navy and the U. S. Army. To illustrate again how the department operates under what appear to be disaster problems is a case of last July which occurred on Pier 4 on Northern Avenue, Boston. Apparatus responding to the scene were stopped by a wire fence with a gate and a sign hanging thereon stating, "Do Not Enter—Radioactive Materials Inside." Knowing this property to be maintained by the Crossroads Marine Disposal Corporation, a company licensed by the Atomic Energy Commission for the handling and dumping of radioactive materials, the first company in notified our Fire Alarm Division. When asked what was on the scene, the company responded that a large trailer truck containing tanks of an unidentifiable material was on fire. Immediately notified by telephone were the Atomic Energy Commission's Office in New York, the Boston Civil Defense Department, the Massachusetts Department of Civil Defense, the U. S. Coast Guard, the U. S. Navy, the U. S. Army, the Boston Police Department, and a call was also made to a known radioactive expert at a commercial laboratory outside of Boston. Fortunately, the material burning was a zirconium sludge and not a radioactive material. However, we show by this illustration that we were ready to cope with the problem had it existed.

Mutual Aid

In reference to mutual aid, this is a system devolved whereby the cities and towns in metropolitan Boston endeavor to protect each other when circumstances warrant. As an example, the Boston Fire Department responds to second-alarm fires in Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, and Somerville; to third-alarm fires in Everett, Quincy, Revere and, when requested as we have been, to Lynn, Medford, Melrose, Milton, etc.

At our Fire Alarm Headquarters in the Fenway, we receive all boxes struck for adjacent cities and towns and, when the second alarm hits in certain towns, our running cards are so set that upon receipt of this alarm in a Boston firehouse, the fire fighters and apparatus immediately respond to a prearranged destination. Our circuits are connected to nine adjacent cities and towns. Other communities are interested in our operations and have radio receivers tuned to our frequency so they know what is happening in Boston.

In the instance of second-alarm fires, we normally go to a firehouse in the respective area and are then ready to respond to any additional alarms of fire that may come in in that city or town as well as to move up should a third or fourth alarm become necessary. If it becomes a reality that the apparatus responds to a third alarm in that city, more apparatus from Boston will follow in its place. At no time will any city or town in the metropolitan area be without fire protection.

The same is true in Boston. Although a large city, there are many instances that arise when help is needed. In the event of a fourth-alarm fire in Boston, we receive assistance from Brookline, Cambridge, Newton, Quincy, and Somerville; and, on a fifth alarm, in addition to these cities and towns, we receive assistance from Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, and Milton. During the year 1959, the City of Boston responded to 116 alarms in areas outside of Boston, sending a total of 148 companies. The response of adjacent cities and towns to Boston totaled 221 alarms and 239 companies. Many of these responses to Boston are on borderline boxes.

This effectively illustrates the point that mutual assistance happens daily in the Fire Departments of our metropolitan Boston.

This may also be the time to bring out the fact that fire departments are not concerned whether or not the responsibility is ours during a disaster. Our main concern is to reach the scene, perform all the duties of which we are capable, and then to worry about such technicalities as whether or not the property is part of the City of Boston, the Massachusetts Port Authority, the Navy Yard, the Army Base, etc.

We are ready 24 hours a day to respond anywhere and everywhere that we are needed!

ROLE OF HEALTH OFFICERS

By F. Robert Freckleton, M.D.

Health preparations for disaster situations are designed to prevent or minimize the effects of minor or major disasters on the health of the population, to care for the victims, and to assist in the restoration of health services and facilities.

Much of the planning in this country has been predicated upon the concept that by preparing for natural or local disaster occurrences, we can hope that in one way or another our operations can be expanded to handle a truly major catastrophe such as that which might result from all-out enemy attack.

In a sense this is a defensible approach because the difference in problems to be faced is one of degree rather than of kind. However, it is fallacious to assume that although we may be reasonably well organized and staffed to handle local disasters that we are also adequately prepared for an overwhelming attack.

Rarely, even in large-scale natural disasters, are all facilities, services, communications, and transportation damaged or destroyed; or are unusually large numbers of persons killed and injured; or is a community faced with not being able to expect an influx of assistance from neighboring areas in a relatively short period of time.

I think it important that we consider these factors in our planning. Certainly I do not like to think that war is inevitable, but even if not inevitable, it is possible. If attacked, we must be prepared to survive, to recover, and to win.

I cannot agree with those who rationalize that nuclear war would be so terrible that it is inconceivable anyone would start it. This world still has its share of people who will risk self-destruction to gain their ends. Neither can I agree with those who when faced with the enormity of the problem ask "who would want to survive such a catastrophe anyway?"

Optimism Re Survival

Regardless of conclusions of books like "On the Beach," all-out war will not destroy the human race, its will to survive, or its aspirations, as inconsistent as they may sometimes appear.

The health professions are dedicated to the protection, preservation and prolongation of life, and are vitally concerned with the survival of as many people as possible if catastrophe occurs.

We know that adequate preparation for disaster can save lives, and are working toward coordination of our health resources and knowledge in the most effective manner possible to further this objective.

Health workers have certainly devoted as much time to training and preparing for disaster care as any group in the nation.

Great effort has been exerted not only by federal as well as state and local health agencies, but also by professional organizations such as the A.M.A., A.H.A., and A.N.A.—to mention but a few.

Many of us, however, are concerned by apparent inaction at the federal level as evidenced by the paucity of congressional appropriations for support of an adequate national program of health mobilization.

We fully realize that much of the operation and implementation of a health mobilization and disaster medical care program is local in nature, but we must have an effective national program to further our local efforts and responsibilities, and to integrate them into a meaningful national defense effort.

Planning Now

The core of our national defense has been based upon superior retaliatory striking power as a deterrent to aggression. Is not ability to survive and recover equally important? If we do have an all-out war, the nation which will survive will be that which can most quickly and effectively recover from attack. And of all our resources for recovery are not our human the most important?

The pendulum has finally swung from evacuation to shelter as the method of choice in preparing for survival. We know that significant numbers of lives can be saved with the use of shelters. Boston has a real and timely opportunity to take a forward step in this direction.

We can look forward to new school and other municipal buildings as Boston moves into its redevelopment and renewal program. New office, industrial buildings, and residential units will be built. Should we not consider shelter provision an integral part of new construction?

Shelter is essential to continuity of government, and will provide the most effective means of saving many of an otherwise unprotected population.

With the City of Boston exerting leadership through example is it not reasonable to assume that increased participation in a shelter program by industry and citizen groups would be forthcoming?

I would also hope that the Federal Government and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts are planning for shelter in their proposed construction in the new Boston civic center.

I would now like to discuss our activities and programs in the Boston Health Department as they relate to emergency disaster operations.

The Boston Health Department is the official agency charged with general responsibility for the public health. Its professional and ancillary staff perform many services, both routine and unusual, often taken for granted but necessary to daily life in a large city. It is a public service agency constantly working to fulfill its mission to protect health and promote a more healthful environment in which to live.

To be really effective disaster preparedness must be built-in; that is, related to the skills that are a part of on-going programs.

Disease Control

Among our regular program activities are many which become of major importance during periods of disaster. Examples of these are preventive health services, including the detection, identification and control of communicable diseases; insect and rodent control; inspection and control of the purity of milk and food; and supervision of public water supply, sewage and other waste disposal.

Disasters often disrupt normal public utility services and may result in temporary relocation of displaced persons. Evacuation to save lives, application of first aid and medical care, provision of shelter, food, and water are of primary importance, followed by rehabilitation to restore normal life to the community. Removal of debris, decontamination, repair of utilities and buildings, and prevention of rodent and insect multiplication require concerted effort. Contamination of water supplies, and spreading of sewage through flood waters or breaks in sewer systems may present serious problems in sanitation and communicable disease control, may make emergency water treatment necessary, and even require the initiation of special immunization programs.

Although the Health Department's activities in the direct rendering of medical care are quite limited we do have a broad responsibility in working with hospitals, physicians, and other professional health groups and agencies in developing and coordinating health resources into a workable disaster medical care program.

A considerable amount of progress has been made in Boston over a period of years—each hospital has a disaster plan for emergency operations, large numbers of doctors, nurses, and other personnel have received disaster related training, and increasingly physicians are recognizing the need for further training for themselves as well as for other groups to improve and expand our ability to meet disaster situations.

We have a long way to go to be able to cope effectively with a catastrophic emergency, but should be well prepared for local disaster incidents and even for major problems resulting from hurricanes and tornadoes.

Teamwork Essential

I think, however, that we may have some real problems as to how well integrated we are in a total disaster program. We need to be sure that our operational pattern is geared to those of other agencies—Fire, Police, Public Works, City Hospital, Red Cross, and so on—so that more effective coordination can be assured. We do not have a reliable system of communications—either to receive information or to furnish instructions. For this we must depend upon the experts in communication. With interruption in telephone service we would experience serious difficulties. We must be sure that hospitals can be alerted to receive victims; that one is not overloaded with casualties while another receives none; that key personnel can be reached; that reliable information to assess the situation reaches us; and that we are using our available resources in the most effective manner.

There are no easy short cuts to assure this. It is necessary that the concerned municipal departments work together in developing a comprehensive plan with identification of objectives, resources, and responsibilities; with clear-cut operational procedures; and with a definite chain of command. Similarly within the framework of the over-all plan each agency must develop in depth its own disaster program.

I do not think I need to emphasize that a paper plan in itself is not enough. It must be implemented through the orientation and training of personnel—a continuing and time-consuming process—to ensure that each individual understands his responsibilities and duties and is prepared to carry them out when the need arises.

Must Tighten Up Operations

In conclusion I suggest we begin to tighten up our municipal operations for handling local disaster situations. We can do this on our own without reliance on federal or state assistance. We must, however, face the fact that we are under actual attack by an alien ideology, dedicated to our destruction. We must devote ourselves to the maintenance of peace without sacrificing in any way our ability to defend ourselves. We must continue to work with federal and state governments to further prepare ourselves for survival under adverse circumstances.

The health and medical professors' contributions to this effort will be:

1. The urging of shelter construction to save lives
2. Preparing their personnel to function under less than ideal conditions, and
3. Preparing the public for survival through teaching of medical self-help.

TITLE CHANGES IN CIVIC AND YOUTH COMMITTEES

Mayor John F. Collins, on February 15, announced that he was separating the Committee for Civic Improvement and Delinquency Prevention into separate committees starting March 1.

The Intergroup Relations Subcommittee will become a separate committee known as the Committee for Civic Unity, with Attorney Henry M. Leen as chairman.

The Delinquency Prevention Subcommittee will become the Youth Activities Bureau's (formerly Delinquency Prevention Bureau) Advisory Committee, with Dr. Ray Johns as chairman.

Mr. James A. Travers, Director of the Youth Activities Bureau, will continue as executive secretary of both committees.

The Mayor explained that the name of the Delinquency Prevention Bureau was changed to conform with similar bureaus in other parts of the country and to avoid stigmatizing all of the youths the Bureau comes in contact with.

This change has the approval of Dr. John D. Coughlan, Chairman of the State Youth Service Bureau.

Directive Issued On Heart Fund Drive

Director of Administrative Services John P. McMorro, on February 14, issued the following directive to all department heads:

¶ The annual drive for funds for the Massachusetts Heart Association is now in progress and we in the city government are called upon to contribute to the end that research and education as the means to prevent heart disease, which takes the lives of so many people each year, both young and old, may go forward.

¶ Heart diseases threaten us all and no one is immune from the nation's No. 1 health enemy but we have the Heart Fund as our No. 1 defense. Research to seek new ways to treat, control, and prevent all forms of heart and blood vessel disease may be continued only as additional funds are voluntarily contributed.

¶ Last year's drive was most successful and the persons named as collectors in your department did a splendid job on behalf of the Heart Fund; if possible, I would appreciate their services again. Please appoint one or more persons in your department to handle collections and forward their names to me as soon as possible.

ACTING FIRE COMMISSIONER

The Mayor has approved the following:

DEAR SIR:

Your Honor's permission is hereby requested to have Chief of Department John A. Martin sign the payrolls of the Fire Department for the four-week period beginning February 8, 1961.

The reason for this request is that many times it is necessary for the Fire Commissioner to be absent from the Headquarters office on department business; and, as the payrolls should be signed immediately upon completion in order to prevent a delay in paying the employees, the foregoing procedure is necessary.

Respectfully yours,

H. A. SCAGNOLI,
 Fire Commissioner.

Emergency

Whereas, An emergency exists for that such an amount of snow has accumulated on the streets, ways, highways, roads and parkways under the control of the city that there is a serious public hazard substantially impairing transportation, the movement of food and fuel supplies, medical care, fire, health and police protection and other vital facilities of the city; and

Whereas, If during the continuance of such emergency vehicles were permitted to stop, stand or park conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative the hazard aforesaid would be substantially increased; and

Whereas, The Boston Traffic Commission is not in session; now therefore I hereby promulgate the following rule and regulation to take effect at 10 P.M., February 6, 1961, and to be operative until 9.30 A.M., February 7, 1961:

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

BUILDING DEPARTMENT. Demolition of Building

DEAR SIR:

The house numbered 64 Green street, Ward 2, Charlestown, has been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. A fire occurred in this building and completely gutted the interior. In my opinion this building is beyond repair. The building is now open to trespass and is a menace to the neighborhood.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116d thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter the premises and raze the structure.

We solicited bids by telephone and had them confirmed in writing this being a emergency condition. We received the following bids:

E. Polcari & Son.—Fill, $900; no fill, $790.
Allstate Wrecking.—Fill, $1,225; no fill, $1,485.

Lyons Wrecking.—Fill, $1,400; no fill, $1,600.

Michael J. Reardon.—Fill, $1,200; no fill, $1,250.

U. S. Wrecking.—Fill, $1,250; no fill, $1,100.

E. Polcari & Son has submitted the lowest bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, carries all necessary insurance and has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bidders were requested to submit two prices. One for a clean cellar, no fill and the other to fill the excavation. The owner anticipates building on the site, using the old foundation. For the time being, I am willing to assume that he may be able to do so, and, subject to your approval, will award to the lowest bidder for razing only.

I feel obliged to call to your Honor's attention that this department is without funds at the present time to do this work. In the light of the explicit statements in chapter 479, Acts of 1938, as amended, section 116d and interests of the general public safety, however, I believe it is my obligation to proceed forthwith in the razing of this unsafe and dangerous structure, and, with your Honor's approval, I propose to do so.

Your approval is recommended and requested.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

Snow Removal

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

During the snowstorm of December 12 and 13, 1960, it became necessary to procure help, in addition to our own men and equipment, to clear drives and parking areas so as to permit the staff members to visit the patients and to permit movement of emergency vehicles.

For the past several years this work was done by the Martin J. Kelly Company, who were brought in on this occasion. Due to the heavy fall of snow and the fact that all snow in this area must be removed, the cost amounted to $3,365.48, an amount in excess of the statutory limit.

For the above reasons we request that your Honor approve payment to the Martin J. Kelly Company in the amount of $3,365.48 for this work; and therefore award a contract without advertising.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.,
President, Board of Trustees, Hospital Department, and of the Boston City Hospital.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Snow Removal

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On November 8, 1960 bids were opened in the Public Works Department on contracts for snow removal work in various districts of the City of Boston.

No bids were received in District 3, Dorchester, and inasmuch as time is of the essence, I have negotiated with several contractors, but have not been successful in arranging for a contract with a satisfactory unit price figure for District 3. However, by subdividing District 3 into two districts to be known as District 3A and 3B, I have been successful in negotiating with A. Singarella and Sons, Inc., who have agreed to perform the contract as advertised, provided all work, including during a severe storm, in District 3A be paid for on a force account basis. It is my opinion that work on a force account basis is a satisfactory arrangement for the city.

Accordingly, it is recommended that a contract for removing snow and furnishing labor and equipment for the purpose of supplementing the department forces and equipment in connection with the work of keeping highways and streets open following snowstorms, be awarded, without advertising, to A. Singarella and Sons, Inc., 5 West Howl street, Dorchester, in District 3A on a force account basis.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

COUNCIL APPROVES NEW APPROACH TO STREET PARKING

The City Council, on February 20, approved the Mayor's request to increase the revenue from street parking in Boston from $700,000 to well over $1,000,000 a year. This will be accomplished through an increase in the parking meter receipts and a crackdown on illegal parkers by stepping up the collection of parking fines within the Police Department.

This action is expected to increase by $200,000 the annual income from parking meters which now totals $418,000, and add $150,000 a year to the $300,000 collected in fines for illegal parking.

Specifically, the Council passed two orders on Monday:

1. Authorize the Traffic Commissioner to purchase 2,000 new, ten-cent meters and convert 8,000 old ones. This involves transfer of an estimated $300,000 from the parking meter revenues.

2. Spend $50,000 to hire IBM machines to process parking tickets and employ women key punch operators to do the clerical work now being done by "sixteen police officers."

The City Council's action means that the five-cent meter in downtown Boston will soon be a thing of the past. The area herein affected extends from the water front to Massachusetts avenue in the Back Bay.

Traffic Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin said he hopes that 6,000 ten-cent meters will be in operation by the first of May and that 4,000 suburban meters now operated by one-to-five pennies will soon be converted to allow up to one hour parking for a five-cent piece.

John V. Bonner, legal assistant to the Police Commissioner told the Council that thousands more illegal parkers would be forced to pay fines if the police were physically able to process the paper work.

Attorney Bonner said that some 3,000 parking tickets are issued daily and that up to twice as many would be sent out if the police had enough clerical help to process them. A figure of 10,000 illegally parked cars on a busy day in Boston was given to the City Council as a fairly accurate estimate. He explained that "up to sixteen police officers" are assigned daily to the Registry of Motor Vehicles identifying registration plates of vehicles being tagged for illegal parking. Under the new system, he said, duplicates of all motor vehicle owners in Massachusetts will be in the Boston police files where they can be traced quickly by six women key punch operators using the IBM machines.

Traffic Commissioner Griffin disclosed that he is still planning to use another weapon to curb parking violators. He plans to hire some twenty to twenty-five "meter maids," or police women, who would replace traffic officers in certain areas, to tag illegally parked vehicles. The carrying out of this plan depends, he said, upon passage of a bill now before the Legislature.

William D. Doyle, secretary, to the Boston Traffic Commission, testified before the Council that other cities have found that the use of "meter maids" increases parking meter fines and revenues by 30 to 40 per cent. The Traffic Commissioner said he has not discussed the matter with the Police Department but that he intends to go ahead with the plan if it is passed on Beacon Hill. Attorney Bonner indicated that the Police Department may not take kindly to the "meter maid" idea stating that female law enforcement officers have caused friction in other cities.

Thousands of motorists, the Council was informed, who are tagged never get notices from Boston because of the continuous backlog and five-day limit for notifying violators.

MAYOR IN MOVE TO MAKE EVACUATION DAY AND OTHER PATRIOTIC PARADES MORE COLORFUL

With a view towards contributing more color and drama to the annual 17th of March parade in South Boston, Mayor John F. Collins has invited a number of leading business and labor organizations and city departments to enter floats with historic displays commemorating the 185th anniversary of the Evacuation of Boston.

An Experiment

If the experiment proves successful he plans to have similar float sections added to the other two patriotic parades held annually in Boston, viz., the Bunker Hill Day parade held in Charlestown on the 17th of June and the Columbus Day parade held downtown and in the North End on October 12.

One of the leading TV stations has indicated to the Mayor's office that if the Evacuation Day parade can be made colorful enough that it will televise nationally at least some parts of the parade, including the float section such as one or more of them televises the New Year's Day parade held annually at Pasadena, California.

Wants Big Float Sections

Most Bostonians are inclined to take for granted the three annual patriotic parades held in Boston, says Col. Paul Hines, who has been assigned by the Mayor to organize the float sections of the 17th of March parade, and leave it to local organizations to provide the where-withal for these demonstrations. They seem to forget that each of them is held in commemoration of important national historic events worthy of every resident's cooperation.

Dorchester Heights Significant

"The victory of the Continental Army at Boston was one of the most important of the entire American Revolution," he says. "There are those who say that without that success the Revolution would have failed. Be that as it may, it undoubtedly hastened and encouraged the Declaration of Independence, adopted by the Continental Congress at Philadelphia, less than four months later."

"It is to further glorify the magnificent achievement of General Washington and his stalwart army of 20,000 volunteers who laid siege to Boston following the Battle of Concord and Lexington, 11 months before, until they finally drove their oppressors out of the town, and also to perpetuate the ideals for which they fought that Mayor Collins wants to observe this historic occasion in an appropriate manner."

FIN. COM. ATTACKS STATE FORMULA FOR SCHOOL AID

February 20, 1961.

To the Members of the Committee on Education.

There is currently before your committee a bill which is important to most of the principal cities of the Commonwealth. The bill is House 1283. The Finance Commission wishes to be recorded in favor of this petition. The bill provides for an increase in the minimum amount of financial assistance to cities and towns in the construction of school buildings from the present level of 20 per cent to a new level of 37½ per cent. The bill would provide a fairer treatment of the older and larger cities of the Commonwealth than they are now receiving in this matter.

Inequity of Formula

Raising the minimum of state assistance to communities in the construction of school buildings to 37½ per cent, as provided in House 1283, will help to reduce the inequity inherent in the present operation of the formula of grant. This reimbursement formula was set up by chapter 645 of the Acts of 1948.

Under the terms of the formula, if the valuation per pupil in a community is less than the valuation per pupil throughout the state, the community receives proportionately more than 25 per cent reimbursement for school construction. In fact, the amount of reimbursement can and does go as high as 50 per cent. If the valuation per pupil in the community is greater than the valuation per pupil throughout the state, the community receives proportionately less than 25 per cent reimbursement. In any case, the minimum grant is 20 per cent.

The underlying theory of the formula is, apparently, that the size of the pupil population represents the school cost to the community, and the valuation attributable to the community represents its financial capacity. Unfortunately, the figure of valuation applied to a given community is that which is spelled out in chapter 559 of the Acts of 1945; this was an act establishing the basis of apportionment of state and county taxes, and purported to ascribe an equalized valuation to every municipality in the state at that time.

No new "equalized valuation" has been enacted into law since 1945. The antiquated and unrealistic valuations found in chapter 559 of 1945 are still used.

Unreasonable Valuations

Using the valuations set up in 1945 works a hardship on the older and principal cities.

The valuation pattern of the several metropolitan areas in the state has been changing. For example, in the Boston metropolitan area, valuations have changed substantially in the past 15 years, or since the 1945 "equalized valuations" were determined. Values lost by the inner or core cities have been absorbed by suburban communities. New values have been added to the entire base with new construction in the suburbs. But the formula has not caught up with these new valuations and broader base. These new area-wide values which raise the total valuations of the state would make the ratio of Boston's valuation to the whole even smaller and thus have the effect of increasing the per cent of assistance to be received under the formula.

Pending the correction of the present formula, House 1283 would be a step in the right direction.

The Older Cities Are Hard Hit

The extent to which the present minimum in the per cent of reimbursement for schoolhouse construction works a hardship on the older and principal cities is clear from the following list of cities and the per cent of reimbursement for schoolhouse construction which each receives.

The following cities receive the minimum.

Boston receives.....	20%
Cambridge receives.....	20%
Holyoke receives.....	20%
Lawrence receives.....	20%
Lowell receives.....	20%
Newton receives.....	20%

Salem receives.....	20%
Somerville receives.....	20%
Springfield receives.....	20%
Worcester receives.....	20%

The following cities receive close to the minimum.

Chelsea receives.....	23%
Fall River receives.....	22%
Haverhill receives.....	23%
Malden receives.....	24%
Quincy receives.....	21%
Taunton receives.....	26%
Pittsfield receives.....	27%
Waltham receives.....	28%
Northampton receives.....	27%

The smaller suburban communities fare well enough under the present operation of the formula. The relation of their increasing pupil population to the unchanged valuation ascribed to that community under the 1945 act results in a low figure of valuation per pupil. This, in turn, means a larger percentage of grant under the formula. Many of these smaller communities receive from 40 per to 50 per cent in reimbursement for school construction.

The older cities are not so fortunate. Yet it is in the older cities that new school construction is needed to replace their many ancient and outmoded school buildings. Boston has undertaken a school building replacement program of heroic proportions, but is struggling under the handicap of a mere 20 per cent reimbursement.

Even the 20 per cent minimum grant is not pure net gain. The cost of meeting the requirements set by the state as a condition for the grant, in terms of facilities within the building and open space around the building, cuts substantially into the value of the assistance.

In simple justice, a minimum assistance grant should be adopted which will render reasonable assistance to an older city which is endeavoring to provide adequate school housing for its children. House 1283 will provide the basic step forward that is needed at this time.

Moreover, placing House 1283 into operation would involve no new tax source.

NURSERY SCHOOL AID

February 20, 1961.

To the Legislative Committee on Education.

The Finance Commission of the City of Boston wishes to be recorded in favor of House Bill No. 410 which provides for a substantial reimbursement to cities and towns which maintain nursing schools in municipally operated hospitals.

The simple justice of this proposal becomes apparent when the role of the municipally operated hospital is analyzed.

The municipally operated hospital by its very nature is called upon to meet the hospital requirements of the community, which include many indigent cases. In Boston, for example, the law specifically sets out the hospital's primary obligation of aiding the needy and indigent. Appropriations for this purpose have become enormous. To train nurses, the hospital maintains a training school. This, of course, means a substantial additional cost.

Several municipalities have set up such nursing schools. The immediate effect of such a school in providing nursing personnel for the local hospital's needs often obscures the fact that the benefits of this school, when the nurses become graduates, spread out far and wide across the state where the nurses pursue their professional careers.

The situation is analogous to that of a state teachers college. The latter is properly the function of the state because the student body hails from various municipalities and eventually moves out to municipalities throughout the state to meet the teaching needs in such cities and towns.

This bill does not ask that the state pay the full cost of the nursing schools, as in the case of the teachers college. It merely asks for a 50 per cent reimbursement which would be a partial recognition of the broad benefits which accrue from such nursing schools, and the heavy burden presently borne by the municipalities which operate such schools.

Respectfully submitted,

Chairman,

ROGER J. ABIZAID, M.D.,

OUTLINE OF PRELIMINARY PLANS FOR NEW CITY HALL

"Plans for a New City Hall" was the subject discussed in the third panel of the Annual Conferama on Municipal Administration held in the Public Library Auditorium, November 17 and 18, 1960:

Moderator for the panel was Charles A. Coolidge, President of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The panelists were the following members of the Government Center Commission:

Robert M. Morgan, Vice-President and Treasurer, Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, Chairman of Commission.

Frank W. Crimp, representing Boston Society of Architects.

John E. Deady, representing the Building Trades Council of Boston and vicinity.

By Charles A. Coolidge

Everyone here must be thoroughly, and perhaps painfully, familiar with the present City Hall and would agree that Boston needs a new one and needs it badly. I think it is fair to say that anyone who has merely been inside our present City Hall agrees with you. Maybe a look at the outside is enough!

As a matter of civic pride and as a symbol that Boston is keeping abreast of the times, a new City Hall is a "must." However, this sentimental or symbolic reason might not be enough to justify the $20,000,000 cost of a new City Hall in the judgment of a hard-headed businessman.

But there is another reason which I think should convince even a hard-headed businessman. I do not pose as an expert on the city's detailed needs for administrative quarters, but I am convinced that the new layout of administrative quarters which a new City Hall will embody will permit an increase in efficiency which is impossible to attain in the present dispersed and antiquated quarters. And increased efficiency saves more dollars than would result from merely eliminating the high maintenance cost of an antiquated plant and the waste of time and effort required for coordination and communication. A more substantial saving in dollars should result from better performance of the city's governmental functions—better tax assessing, better tax collection, better building code enforcement and, in general, better team play between the city's administrative personnel. If that happens, not only should less money go out of the city's treasury for expenses, but money which otherwise would have escaped collection will come into the city's treasury.

If this increased efficiency occurs, it will give Boston the reputation of being a well-run city. This of itself will attract new investment to the city. Thus, it will complement the Mayor's Renewal Program in creating the new values so necessary to the prosperity of the core city and beneficial to the whole Greater Boston area.

Can we prove mathematically that these benefits will more than pay for the $20,000,000 cost of the new City Hall? I doubt it, because the major benefits are so intangible that they cannot be expressed mathematically. Even so, I believe them to be very real and so substantial that the cost of a new City Hall will be more than offset.

THE CITY HALL COMMISSION

By Robert M. Morgan

This is a report on the background and development of the proposed Government Center with particular emphasis on that portion of the project which will be headed up by the Government Center Commission of the City of Boston.

At this time it should be pointed out that there are now in operation two commissions bearing the same name—one a state commission charged with the construction of the new state office building, the so-called D.E.S. building, and several other buildings as provided for by the recent action of the Legislature, all to be built in the general Government Center area—and the other a city commission having as its primary concern the building of a new City Hall. The federal government will be acting independently of these two commissions.

Need for New City Hall

The concept of creating a Government Center area and grouping therein the new buildings needed by the various divisions of the government runs back over a period of years. The City of Boston's need for new facilities has been pressing for some time. The present City Hall was constructed in 1862 and has since then continuously served as the principal seat of government for the City of Boston, housing the Mayor, City Council, and a few of the principal departments. In 1912 the City Hall Annex, facing on Court street and connected to the rear of the City Hall, was constructed to house the expansion in number of city employees.

Other Government Needs

The demands on the part of the Commonwealth for general office space have long since outgrown that provided for at the State House, with the result that various divisions of state government are scattered throughout the city. Although from time to time efforts have been made by the Legislature to agree upon the construction of a new office building, it was not until 1958 that authorization was so given. The revision of this legislation in 1960 authorized not only the long-needed office building, but also additional state buildings for various purposes and directed that they be located in the Government Center area. Since 1957 the federal government has had appropriation authorization looking to a new 1,000,000-square-foot federal building. Originally scheduled for the High Street-Congress Street area, the federal people have joined with the city and state agreeing to locate this structure within the Government Center area.

A Preliminary Report

The City Planning Board, aware of the need on the part of all various divisions of government for additional buildings undertook a study on its own and originally issued in August, 1956, a brief report entitled "Government Center Study—A Preliminary Report." Subsequently it produced in January, 1958, a report on the proposed redevelopment project. The conclusions that were developed in this report were as follows: (1) that all levels of government—city, county, state, and federal—were in need of adequate and economical office space in Boston; (2) that a site could be provided in downtown Boston for all of these accommodations within a single efficient center; (3) that an integrated Government Center could be built on land now occupied by decadent and obsolete properties; (4) that a proposed Government Center could be located close to existing government buildings, the retail heart of the city, and the downtown office district with mass transit and automobile access advantages that could not be duplicated elsewhere; (5) that the construction of a Government Center would serve to stabilize private property values in the vicinity and generate substantial new private investment; (6) that it would be possible to capitalize on the famous "Freedom Trail" of historic sites in and near the project area; (7) that the proposal had already received enthusiastic support from business, civic and labor groups and government officials; (8) that the proposed Government Center would be a large-scale undertaking, could become a place of functional beauty, could increase the attractiveness of Boston as a place in which to live and do business, and could add greatly to the prestige that Boston now enjoys throughout the world, and finally, (9) that for more than a million people who live or work in Boston, and for many other millions to whom Boston is a cultural home, the Government Center could serve as a symbol of Boston's continuing stature as a great city of the world.

Initiated By Planning Board

The proposal for such a center was thus initially put forward by the Planning Board. It contemplated bringing together in reasonable proximity a new federal office building to enable federal agencies located in at least 11 separate locations paying approximately $1,000,000 in annual rent to be assembled under one roof. It envisioned the construction of a new state office building as an adjunct to the State House. It proposed ultimate replacement of a portion of the Suffolk County buildings and provided for the acquisition of space for such replacement. From the beginning the plan was built around the construction of a new city hall and appropriate open plaza. The Planning Board found that the availability of a suitable site lay through the redevelopment of the area bounded roughly by Court street, Tremont street, School street, Somerset street, Ashburton place, Bowdoin street, Cambridge street and a line parallel to Sudbury street running from Cambridge street to Haymarket square, Blackstone street, Dock square, and Devonshire street.

Setting the Location

The Planning Board felt that the site could be assembled at reasonable cost by the removal of outmoded and decadent buildings, that the site would be convenient to the many existing public buildings which would continue in use, and that the proposed area would have excellent access to all forms of transportation. It pointed out that all of the rapid transit lines served the site, that there could be good automobile access via the Central Artery, Sumner Tunnel, and Cambridge street, that unusual opportunities existed for the development of parking facilities either in garages or in off-street lots, and perhaps most important of all, that the retail and office centers of downtown Boston would be within easy walking distance of the center. And finally, it recommended that the entire program be carried out with an eye to taking advantage of the historical assets within and near the center, such as the State House, the Old State House, Faneuil Hall, the Hancock House, the Union Oyster House, and the Boston Stone, by converting the existing structures and monuments into a park with a comprehensive site plan for the center.

In this first study of the proposed center it concluded that the size of the area could be something on the order of 32 acres and that the assessment on land and buildings in the area, based on the 1957 figures, would come to about $12 million—that something like a third of the total area after clearance would be made available for redevelopment by private enterprise—the balance being used by the governmental agencies.

$50 Million Loan Order

Early in 1958, Mayor Hynes submitted and the City Council approved a bill for consideration by the General Court which would have authorized the city to borrow up to $50 million to construct a new city hall and to construct and sell or rent to the federal government a federal office building. This would have been done under the Federal Public Buildings Purchase Contract, Act of 1954, through "Lease-Purchase," but at a later date the Congress canceled the right of the General Services Administration to engage in "Lease-Purchase" and authorized it to proceed with the building on its own. This necessarily resulted in a switch in the plans on the part of the city and the bill as finally filed was for but $20 million for the City Hall itself.

To institute a plan of action, the Planning Board suggested (1) that a city planning-architect team be appointed to prepare a final development plan for the project area and serve as coordinating architects for the project; (2) that a real estate consultant be appointed to report on the marketability and land values of the parcels within the project as they would be after clearance and improvements were completed, and to advise the site planners, and (3) that an engineering consultant be appointed to advise and report on traffic, circulation, parking, utility and street construction matters and to provide an estimate of site development costs.

The Government Center Plan

These steps were taken. Adams, Howard & Greeley, consultants, in association with Anderson, Beekwith & Haible, Sasaki, Walker & Associates, Kevin Lynch, John R. Myer, and Paul D. Spreiregen were chosen by the Planning Board to prepare a more detailed Government Center plan. With this group William S. Ballard was chosen as real estate consultant and Deleuw, Cather & Co. as engineering consultants. With modifications, but still within the essentials of the original Planning Board scheme, they produced in the fall of 1959 a report, "Government Center—Boston, 1959." In the meantime, in April and May of 1958, Arthur D. Little, Inc., had been employed by the city to develop a guide for space requirements and for the approximate size of a new city hall, together with a preliminary estimate of costs. This provided the background against which the Mayor requested authority from the Legislature for a $20 million bond authorization. Chapter 624 of the Acts of 1958 was approved on October 6, 1958, providing for the construction by the City of Boston of a new city hall and subsequently chapter 403 of the Acts of 1959, approved on July 7, 1959, amended the original act by providing with the appropriation for the necessary equipping and furnishing of the building. The Legislature, at about the same time, authorized the construction of the new state office building. This authority was denied by decision of the Supreme Court and new legislative authorization was not forthcoming until September, 1960. In the meantime, since the federal, state, and city buildings were deemed to be dependent one on the other, and since there was some difficulty in ironing out the exact area to be occupied by the federal building, no action was taken by either the federal people or the city people. The passage of revisions of the urban renewal redevelopment law by the Legislature came almost simultaneously with the enactment of legislation providing for the construction of the various state office buildings and the state's participation in the project.

Agreement on Site

Now, in November, 1960, with the city and federal governments in complete agreement as to the site and with their negotiations as to the price of the land to the federal government all but completed, there are no further barriers to the moving forward of the program. The Redevelopment Authority has filed application for federal assistance on the acquisition and clearing of the site, with full assurance of prompt approval by the Washington agency.

Way Now Cleared

The Government Center Commission of the City of Boston, while waiting for the authorization needed by the other governmental agencies, organized on November 26, 1958, and in June of 1959 entered into a contract with Becker & Becker Associates for a complete detailed space utilization study to include preliminary and final space utilization layout plans. The first of three phases of this work has been completed and is ready for use by the architects in designing the building. The Becker study indicates that the city will need about 350,000 square feet of net space. This means that a building of 500,000 square feet gross will be required. The Commission estimates that construction costs will range between $27 and $30 a square foot, or $15 million, and that the cost of furnishing and equipping the new building will run about $2 million, thus leaving sufficient funds within the total authorization for the acquisition and development of a proper site.

There is every indication that there are no remaining obstacles which will prevent the federal, state, or city governments from going forward with the development of the Government Center project.

PRELIMINARY PLANNING

By Frank W. Crimp

The first three major problems confronting the Government Center Commission after its organization were:

1. Determination of space required and the relationship one to another and to the public;
2. Selection of an architect;
3. Selection of a site.

These are the duties as a commission about which I am reporting.

The first we solved in a manner which is now accepted practice in the design of all large commercial and governmental structures; that is, by the employment of a professional organization that specializes in such work. Many firms were considered and by process of elimination reduced to the three most outstanding, who each submitted detailed proposals. The award was made to Becker & Becker Associates of New York, and a contract signed with them dated June 8, 1959.

There are three phases to such work. The first provides space information for the architect in developing his initial studies and for preliminary determination of cost. The second detailed space information required in the development of working drawings, and the third determination of equipment required and specifications of equipment for its purchase.

The first phase of the work has been completed and is in the form of a report submitted on August 24, 1959, and determines:

The Size and Shape

1. The total space required to house each of the organizational units to be accommodated in the new City Hall and necessary additional space required for general areas servicing these units;

2. The functional relationships between the various organizational units;

3. The public traffic flow to the units;

4. Two idealized mass concepts from which architectural design can proceed.

I shall not undertake at this time to discuss the report, but it will interest you to know that the total departmental space required as of 1964 is estimated to be 306,229 square feet to accommodate an estimated total personnel numbering 1,715.

The total net area requirement is slightly over 350,000 square feet, which, with an allowance of 150,000 square feet for service areas, makes our estimate of the gross area required 500,000 square feet.

Present plans suggest the possibility of accommodating the School Committee in City Hall Annex and of constructing a new school and an auditorium on a portion of the site of the old City Hall. For this reason, an auditorium has not been considered for inclusion in the new building.

No Architect Yet

No parking facilities, except for a very few vehicles, are included.

The next step, which is usually the selection of an architect, has in this case been postponed. An architect is usually selected before the site is decided upon, so that his professional advice in this important step is available. However, in the selection of the site for the new City Hall, the commission has been fortunate in that the studies of the proposed Government Center Redevelopment Project by the City Planning Board included a site for a new city hall.

The Planning Board employed Adams, Howard & Greenley as consultants in association with others to prepare a general Government Center development plan to provide suitable sites for a new city hall, a new federal office building, office buildings for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and other buildings. At the same time, an advisory group of prominent Boston architects was formed to act as consultants in the development of a plan.

The Government Center Commission participated in the many discussions held during the planning of the center, so that when the report was finally made available to them, approval of the site of the new City Hall was unanimous.

Agreement on Site

The Architectural Advisory Committee is in complete agreement on the location of the City Hall. They specifically feel that the new City Hall is properly located and that it is essential not only to the Government Center plan but to the philosophy behind it.

On November 23, 1959, the Government Center Commission voted to advise the Boston Redevelopment Authority that the areas indicated as Parcels 9 and 10 in the Adams, Howard & Greeley Report were acceptable to the commission as a suitable site for the new City Hall, provided that the contiguous areas are developed substantially as proposed in the report. That was last November! It was not until October 21, 1960, that the federal government finally agreed that the site originally suggested for their building adjacent to the City Hall site was acceptable.

In the meantime, legislation had been passed which permits the state to erect buffer buildings between the federal building site and unimproved property on the periphery of the center and legal questions raised with regard to the erection of the State Office Building had been satisfied.

Competition for Design

The commission is now ready to engage the services of an architect, and just how this will be done is the question with which we are now concerned. At the time this report goes to press, the commission is inclined to favor a competition in which architects throughout the continental United States will be invited to compete. Such a competition would be run under the auspices of the American Institute of Architects.

The advantages of a competition are that it would draw upon an extraordinary wealth and variety of talent, far greater than would be available from any architect selected by the direct method. By the competition method, an architect would be selected on the basis of a design prepared especially for the new City Hall building and the imaginative and aesthetic attributes as well as its functional adequacies would be judged in advance.

A competition would, of course, excite interest, curiosity, speculation, and hence a better understanding and acceptance among the citizens of Boston and would produce widespread favorable publicity for the city at little added expense. In any event, the essentials required by an architect, whether selected directly or by competition, are now available.

Coordination with Center

There is one important matter that I wish to comment on, and that is coordination of design so essential to the success of the Government Center as a whole. Both Mr. Callahan, State Office Building Authority, and Mr. Floete, General Services Administrator, have agreed with the Government Center Commission to instruct their architects to counsel with the Architectural Advisory Committee on the design of the respective structures.

The other important factor in coordination is the relationship of the various government building authorities with the Redevelopment Authority, Public Works, Utilities and Transportation Authorities.

I have been asked to explain briefly the concept of the Government Center plan as given in the Planning Board report.

The original and principal motivation of the plan was to establish a Government Center, providing sites for a new city hall, a new federal office building, and eventually a new county courthouse. Adjacent to these is to be built a new state office building, the site of which was fixed by legislation.

The new buildings must of necessity have adequate sites and must be placed within easy reach of the transit system or the automobile, also they must be given settings commensurate with their symbolic and functional importance.

City Hall is the Feature

The City Hall, because it is the seat of local government, is the principal building in the center.

The Federal Office Building, although approximately twice the size of the City Hall, does not command the center spot, but must be easily accessible to other government agencies, federal and local.

The proposed plan has three essential features that determine all its details: a basic radial pattern of streets; a zoning of activities into three general areas; and a descending "valley" of interlinked public open spaces.

The circulation system substitutes a new and orderly pattern for the present tangle of old streets. The pattern consists of three major channels which sweep in great parallel arcs from northwest to southwest to the present Central Artery, a new four-lane extension of Congress and Devonshire streets to meet Portland and Merrimac streets and a clarification of the present Tremont-Cambridge Street connection.

The proposed plan provides for some 2,250 off-street parking spaces, plus 300 on-street spaces, for a total of 2,550 spaces. This corresponds with, 1,970 legal spaces existing in the area today.

The present subway service in the area is excellent and a great asset. All stations will be retained and, except for Milk-State, will be rebuilt aboveground. Scollay Square station will be enlarged and improved underground and will connect directly with the civic square above.

By its basic street system pedestrian flow as well as vehicular movement will be improved. The plan provides a major new pedestrian axis which drops downhill from Pemberton square through the new city square through Cornhill and into the space before Faneuil Hall.

I have mentioned the zoning of activities into three general ideas. They are the Government Center proper; the conservation area, which lies between Hanover street, the new Congress street, the back side of properties on State street, and the Central Artery; and the new growth area north of Sudbury and Hanover streets.

Planning for Wider Area

The plan provides for the functional and economic requirements of the Government Center and does it in such a way as to enhance the beauty of the city and provide pleasant spots for Bostonians to walk and congregate.

The planners have given careful thought to the matter of tying in the new area to the surrounding areas. The approaches and links, the chain of open, pleasant spaces, and the wedge-shaped valley of controlled height all come to their climax at the new square where the principal buildings are located and where, in the key location, is the new City Hall, the new seat of government of Boston.

Twenty million dollars has been appropriated for this project. Until the plans have been carried much further, no accurate estimate of cost can be made, but we know that the type of building we have in mind will cost somewhere between $27 and $30 per square foot. So using $28 and taking our figure of 500,000 square feet of building, we arrive at $14,000,000. To this must be added site development, planning and supervision, and equipment. Allowing $4,000,000 for these items, we should have a contingency for unforeseen expenses, which is proper in any project of this type and magnitude.

URBAN RENEWAL ASPECTS

By John E. Deady

The Government Center concept envisioned the clearance of a sizeable tract of land between Beacon Hill, the West End, the North End, and included the Scollay Square area.

This whole area of Old Boston has been referred to many times as "picturesque" and this terminology has been translated to mean, ready for the "Wrecker's Ball." All areas of like character photographed tend to establish the fact that we look to be the same age as the countries of the Old World that gave us the "Settlers." Unkind remarks by onetime political "greats" bluntly called this decadence "the dead hand of heritage."

Blight, being the visible evidence of rottenness and decadence, is to be bisected by the clearance of an area large enough to permit the erection of four state buildings, one federal building and a new city hall complete with plaza. Further, the clearance will provide area for private development for lucrative investment and for restored and increased taxes to the city.

In all directions from this newly restored area new buildings replacing the old will come about in the public interest through the support of the Mayor's Redevelopment Plan by our City Council.

Upgrade of Whole Section

The centralization of government offices and services involving thousands of people on the public payrolls and the additional thousands seeking such services will react to the benefit of Boston's business and its bettered prospects will probably cause expansion of an order most desired for future job opportunities and increased prosperity.

The General Court, in its wisdom, accepted the idea of a Government Center and created two commissions, one to take care of the state's four buildings and the other the erection of Boston's new city hall. The participation of the federal government was finally brought about through the determination and effort of Mayor Collins who, in a relatively short time, overcame road blocks responsible for many months of delay and frustration.

The Boston City Council and its President, Mr. McLaughlin, aided by an understanding Council and the highly informed Councillor Foley, have distinguished themselves by their understanding and cooperation from the very beginning in making possible the erection of a new city hall.

Helps City's Economy

The placement of the present structure is long overdue. The need is long recognized. Civic betterment is assured in that when built city administration will be more efficient and economical. The economy of the whole area will benefit.

The city will benefit, business will benefit, and those of our people who must earn their living will benefit. Several thousands of jobs affecting architects, engineers, crafts and material men, etc., will furnish employment at prevailing rates under safe working conditions as outlined in chapter 149 of the General Laws.

Architects are most interested in a competition for the purpose of selection of one of their number as "The" architect to design this historic building. This competition has been given some consideration by the commission and has, we think, captured the interest of his Honor who will no doubt have something to say prior to its acceptance or rejection.

The commitment of $20 million to this development by the city, $50 million by the state and $35 million by the federal government is the gesture that guarantees the economic well-being of our capitol city and its future.

FIN. COM. IN PLEA FOR METROPOLITAN PLANNING

February 23, 1961.

To the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

The Boston Finance Commission wishes to be recorded in favor of Senate Bill No. 285 and House Bill No. 1082, which are scheduled for hearing by your committee on Thursday, February 23. These bills provide for the establishing of a Metropolitan Planning District and Planning Council. The observations of the Boston Finance Commission in recent years point toward the need for a consolidation of planning in the metropolitan area, and a Planning Council to direct it.

Radical changes have taken place in the area. The master highway alone, actual and proposed, for Boston and the metropolitan district, with its Central Artery, radials, and circumferential highways, exerts a profound social and economic effect on this area. These pathways of movement have already stepped up the decentralization of industry, residents, and retail business from the central city and from adjoining cities, creating problems in the new areas settled as well as in the old areas abandoned.

All over the country the metropolitan issue has been explored thoroughly in recent years. Moreover, organization and planning on a metropolitan basis has been urged in areas which have little or none of the metropolitan framework which characterizes Boston. A variety of degrees of progress marks the several metropolitan areas, ranging from plans by voluntary agencies to complete integration of functions. At least, there is some planning and coordinating agency in operation.

In Los Angeles, a Regional Planning Commission serves as a coordinating agency among local planning groups in that area. The Regional Planning Association of New York illustrates a type of planning agency which has greatly influenced the development of a metropolis. San Francisco has the Bay Area Council; St. Louis, a Regional Planning Association. In Detroit, the Metropolitan Planning Commission is authorized to develop highway, utility, and land use plans.

Toronto Leads the Way

The most completely developed metropolitan integration has taken place in Toronto. In 1953, the Metropolitan Toronto Act established a plan, which resembles the London County Council idea, tying together thirteen municipalities. These preserve their identity and continue to administer those services which are local in character and, at the same time, come together for the provision of those services which are metropolitan in nature and essential to the whole area. The services for which the metropolitan corporation is responsible are: water, sewage disposal, housing, education, arterial highways, parks, certain welfare services, and the over-all planning of the area.

Clearly a metropolitan agency is needed (1) to express judgments about matters of strictly metropolitan interest and (2) to resolve the differences between municipalities and coordinate the plans of respective cities and towns in the area.

Polio Committee Organizes For 1961

At a recent meeting of the Planning Committee of the Boston Polio Inoculation Program, plans for 1961 programs were discussed. The committee has sponsored low-cost polio immunization clinics during the past two years. Among the members are representatives of official, voluntary, and business groups. Present at the meeting were Dr. John H. Cauley, Committee Chairman and former Health Commissioner of Boston; Dr. F. Robert Freckleton, Boston's Health Commissioner; William Dowling, Mrs. Frank Lyons, and Mrs. Wm. Arthur Reilly of the Suffolk County Chapter of the National Foundation, Inc.; Mrs. Arthur Rotch and Walker Larsen of the State Office of the National Foundation, Inc.; Mrs. Penelope Hope of the Visiting Nurse Association; Anna Skiff of the Medical Foundation; Mrs. Marie Gately and Dr. F. Randolph Philbrook of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health; Marion C. Sullivan of the Boston Public Schools; Dr. Solomon Skvirsky, Norfolk District Medical Society; Katharine E. Fitzgerald, Francis Gens, William J. Kane, Dr. George Kahn, Mary E. Welsh, Leonard Pasciucco, and Mary M. Croke of the Boston Health Department.

Officers Elected

Officers elected for 1961 were Boston's Health Commissioner, Dr. F. Robert Freckleton, Chairman; Miss Marion Sullivan, Boston Public Schools, Secretary, and William Dowling, Suffolk County Chapter of the National Foundation, Inc., Treasurer.

Dr. Freckleton outlined plans for a survey to determine the polio immunization status in Boston. The survey to be conducted by consultants from the United States Public Health Service Communicable Disease Center, Atlanta, Georgia, and by personnel from the Health Department will be made early in March. Plans have also been made to conduct polio inoculation clinics at Boston's Health Units and Substations from Monday, March 6, through Friday, March 10. A single clinic will be held in a different section of the city each day. Announcement of the date and time of each clinic will be made in a few days.

The committee is most anxious to do everything possible to prevent an outbreak of polio in Boston, and urges everyone, regardless of age, who has not had three inoculations to go now to his family physician or to a clinic to get protection against polio.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:
 Last year your Honor granted authority to this office to purchase perishable foods, including fruits, vegetables, meats, poultry, butter, fish, and eggs, on a weekly basis and, in some instances, on a monthly basis.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Dumping Ground

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Public Works Department has, for the past seven years, been using privately owned land adjacent to the Salem Turnpike in the Town of Saugus for the disposal of the East Boston refuse. This agreement has been advantageous to the city as control of this dump has enabled us to obtain competitive bidding on the East Boston refuse collection contract. Alternate items in past refuse collection contracts for East Boston, containing a provision for the contractor to furnish a dump, have not been bid as evidently the contractors have been unable to obtain access to a suitable dump, and, therefore, we must provide a dump for the disposal of the East Boston refuse.

On August 15, 1960, the owner of the Saugus dump sold the land to the M. DeMatteo Construction Company, retaining only sufficient area to fulfill his existing contractual requirements. In my opinion, there is not enough dumping capacity remaining available to the dump owner with whom we have had an agreement for the past seven years to warrant our entering into a new agreement with him.

The M. DeMatteo Construction Company has submitted a proposal to enter into an agreement with the city to provide the land and operate a dump for the disposal of refuse, including street sweepings, from the East Boston district upon the same terms and conditions as our present agreement for the Saugus dump operation, for a one-year period with options on the part of the city for a second- and third-year renewal upon the same terms and conditions; also for the use of this dump for the disposing of refuse from other districts in the city in the event of an emergency or on a full-time basis, the cost to be agreed upon in relation to the size of the district to be served.

There would be no advantage in publicly advertising for proposals for a dumping site, as the M. DeMatteo Construction Company now owns and operates the only dump having adequate capacity within a reasonable distance of East Boston. The large area of land upon which the aforesaid company has a refuse dumping permit from the Town of Saugus gives us assurance of the availability of this particular site as a dumping location for many years.

Therefore I respectfully request your authorization to dispense with public advertising and enter into a lease agreement with the M. DeMatteo Construction Company for the use of land owned by said company and located adjacent to the Salem Turnpike in Saugus, and licensed by said town. The agreement shall provide that all the refuse (including street sweepings) from the East Boston district may be deposited on said land for a one-year period from April 1, 1961, to March 31, 1962, and that the M. DeMatteo Construction Company shall operate the dump as specified in the agreement for the amount of two thousand (2,000) dollars per month, the total cost not to exceed twenty-four thousand (24,000) dollars, and the agreement shall include an option whereby if the city so elects it can renew the contract for a second year and also for a third year upon the same terms and conditions.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

BREAK CLOSES PORT

Port of Philadelphia was closed for ten hours when a freighter ruptured a pipe line spilling 15,000 gallons of an inflammable paint component into the Delaware River. Motorists on bridges were ordered to extinguish cigarettes, smoking was banned between the bridges, and water front industries doused acetylene torches. A fireboat playing water on the chemical, plus tide, wind, and snow reduced the danger.

INITIAL LOGUE APPOINTMENTS WIN BOARD APPROVAL

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, on recommendation of Edward J. Logue, Development Administrator, on March 1, approved the following staff appointments and promotions:

JOHN P. McMORROW, of Dorchester, as Director of Administrative Management, Development Administration, at $20,000 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

ROBERT F. ROWLAND, of Lexington, as Director of the Community Renewal Administration Division, Development Department, at $15,000 per annum, effective March 15, 1961.

FRANCIS E. O'BRIEN, of Roslindale, as Principal Planner, Planning Department, at $8,000 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

MARTIN R. ADLER, of New York City, formerly of Providence, as Principal Planner, Planning Department, at $8,000 per annum, effective March 15, 1961.

CHESTER JONES, of Cambridge, as Senior Planner, Planning Department, at $7,400 per annum, effective March 15, 1961.

SAMUEL J. GILFIX, of Newton, as Senior Planner, Planning Department, at $6,500 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

RAFAEL ANTONIO DEUTSCHMANN, of Cambridge, as Planning Illustrator, Planning Department, at $5,900 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

Following is the text of the recommendations submitted by Mr. Logue and approved by the Redevelopment Authority:

¶ Whenever it is in the interest of the program to do so, there should be promotional opportunities for existing staff. Since our most urgent need is for planners and urban renewal technicians, I have reviewed the existing Planning Department employees. I have also requested Operations Department employees to inform me if they are interested in new assignments and responsibilities.

¶ The following promotions of Planning Department employees are submitted to the Authority for approval:

¶ EDWIN E. DEVINE, of Scituate, from Senior Planner at $6,500 per annum to Senior Rehabilitation Designer at $7,400 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

¶ RICHARD BEATTY, of Boston, from Junior Planning Analyst at $5,500 per annum to Senior Planner at $6,500 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

¶ ALICE DINEEN, of Boston, from Planning Assistant at $4,355 per annum to Draftsman at $5,100 per annum, effective March 8, 1961.

¶ I also propose at this time the transfer, without loss of any rights under the tenure law, of John Coughlin from the position of Principal Planner, Planning Department, at $8,000 per annum to the position of Budget Assistant in the Administrative Management Department at the same salary, effective March 1, 1961.

Recruitment Priority

¶ The first priority in recruitment has of necessity been given to meeting the urgent need for planners and urban renewal technicians. This priority will continue for several months until we have the technical staff we need to carry the program forward.

¶ We are now seeking 27 qualified planners for the Planning Department. Minimum requirements for these positions are a master's degree in city planning from an accredited planning school. In exceptional cases other education or experience may be substituted. Positions are open in all the planning salary ranges.

¶ Equal priority is being given to the recruitment of 20 experienced urban renewal technicians who will have the responsibility for putting project plans together, seeking required approval, and supervising them in the action stage. We are looking for the ablest and most experienced people we can get. The more know-how they bring to the Boston program the quicker we will get into the action stage.

¶ As indicated above we are concentrating at this time on filling these 47 vacancies we presently have for trained city planners and urban renewal technicians.

Appointments Deferred

¶ I am deferring for the time being any recruitment of the legal officer, legal assistant, land disposition officer, real estate analyst, and the very important positions of neighborhood representatives. The neighborhood representatives are intended to be the contact between the program and the neighborhood.

TRAFFIC AND MASS TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS

"Boston's Parking, Traffic, and Transportation Problems — cause, effect, and recommended solution" was the title given the fourth panel of the 1960 Conferama on Municipal Administration conducted November 17 and 18 at the Library Auditorium, Copley square.

Moderator for this panel was Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J., Dean, College of Business Administration, Boston College.

The panelists were:

James J. Sullivan, Chairman, Real Property Board, City of Boston.

Robert G. Davidson, Director of Research, Massachusetts Port Authority.

Bruce Campbell, Executive Vice President, Massachusetts Safety Council.

Thomas J. McLernon, General Manager, Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Rev. W. Seavey Joyce, S.J.

Ladies and Gentlemen: It is a great privilege for me to preside over this panel which is composed of such distinguished experts in the fields of transportation. Rather than presume upon your time to express my own amateurish views on this important subject, I should like to turn immediately to the comments of our speakers. May I present to you as our first speaker, Mr. James J. Sullivan, the Chairman of the Real Property Board of the City of Boston.

OFF-STREET PARKING

By James J. Sullivan

If Boston's parking problem were a mathematical equation, its solution could easily be worked out on a slide rule. But we must assume as a hypothesis, that should we attempt to provide surface parking for the ever-increasing number of cars that enter our downtown core area daily, we would find it necessary to condemn too many buildings in our city that are essential in maintaining our tax base, in order to make space for these cars.

This is the fourth installment of the complete report of the Fifth Annual Conference on Municipal Administration which will run consecutively in each issue of the "City Record" through March 18.

In other words, the continuous demolition of the very structures which generate cars into this area would negate the purpose for which the parking spaces are being provided.

Quarter of a Million Daily

With the advent of the Fitzgerald Expressway, the Southeast Expressway, Mystic River Bridge, and Storrow Memorial Drive, the entrance into the central business district of motor vehicles has increased from 135,000 to almost a quarter of a million daily. Our streets were never intended to carry this load and also act as a terminus.

When off-street parking studies were made several years ago, it was determined that 12,000 additional off-street spaces, when constructed by the city, would suffice, and that the parking problem would no longer maintain its strangle hold on that section from which flows into the City Treasury about two thirds of its tax revenue. With the completion of the central Kilby Street and Blackstone Street facilities, and the garage under Boston Common, that goal of 12,000 will have been reached. However, since the original studies have been completed, and the goal of 12,000 arrived at, the need for additional off-street parking has increased almost double!

The Boston Program

The Real Property Board, which I have the privilege of heading, is vested with the Authority, by law, to create off-street parking where it deems necessary. The program, which is self-liquidating, is well on its way. Off-street parking has been provided, so far, in the wholesale shoe and leather and dry goods district, the retail area, the financial district, the insurance district, wholesale and retail fruit and produce and market district, North Station area, and in the Back Bay. With the completion of the garage under the Common, every section of downtown Boston will have been accommodated, geographically speaking. Numerically, of course, Utopia cannot be reached. At the present time, the Board is studying the advisability of creating municipal off-street parking in the Kenmore Square area. Such a facility would not only be of inestimable value to the hundreds of business and professional firms located there, but would also give quite a lift to the Red Sox ball park.

The General Plan

It might be well to note at this point that, where land was available, metered parking was established, off-street. Where land was obtainable at a reasonable cost, ramp garages were constructed, but where land charges were high, very small areas were taken and high rise mechanical structures were installed, the theory being that where land cost was expensive, by building 10- and 12-story structures, the per-car-space land cost was reduced to a minimum.

The "General Plan for the Central Business Area" published by the Boston City Planning Board in 1960 states that "there are only a few shortcomings in Boston's present parking program," and then continues to say that the "spaces are not used so as to make the maximum contribution to the downtown economy. Too many spaces are tied up all day by C.B.D. (Central Business District) employees, and not enough of the spaces are available for short-term use by shoppers, business callers, and other people who can drive in during the middle of the day when the incoming streets can handle the traffic. The extent of illegal parking also interferes with the operation of the parking system. Illegally parked cars reduce street capacity for moving vehicles and contribute to the underutilization of parking garages."

Rate Change

In order to discourage all-day parking in the C.B.D. it will be necessary to change the rate structure. Since three of the city's major off-street parking garages had been leased for 40-year periods for financing purposes, the lessees in each case having to construct the facilities at no cost to the city, it would require amendments to the statute authorizing municipal off-street parking in order to effect a change in the rates.

Inasmuch as it is our contention that all city agencies are part and parcel of one great team with a single goal, the Real Property Board stands ready to cooperate to the fullest extent with the Redevelopment Authority in order to "ensure the proper use of the C.B.D. parking system to fulfill the objectives of the plan."

PORT AUTHORITY FACILITIES

By Robert G. Davidson

Every day 54,000 tons of cargo are handled in the seaport of Boston; 400 planes land and take off at Logan International Airport; 55,000 vehicles pass over the Mystic River Bridge, and 350 planes land or take off at Hanscom Field in Bedford.

These facts indicate the responsibilities of the Massachusetts Port Authority in operating the Port of Boston facilities, Logan International Airport, Mystic River Bridge, and Hanscom Field in Bedford. Every substantial movement of cargo in the Port of Boston involves some activity on the part of our staff—if merely in the matter of record keeping. Every movement of aircraft—or even the movements of automobiles at our 2,000-acre Logan International Airport requires action of one kind or another on the part of airport personnel. Also, each motor vehicle that passes over the Mystic River Bridge requires at least the acceptance of a toll payment by bridge personnel. Fortunately, at Hanscom Field in Bedford we are not concerned with every aircraft movement because the majority are the concern of the Air Force.

Operational Staff

I mention the magnitude of our operational responsibilities so that you will have some understanding of our day-to-day work. Usually, the public hears only of our new activities or our unusual problems. Few people realize that our personnel number 55 in the Port of Boston division; 130 at Logan; 82 at the Mystic River Bridge, and 9 at Hanscom Field. With the addition of 41 administrative people, this total of 317 personnel presents the usual problems of administration as does any business employing a similar number. Furthermore, we have had the problem of merging the sensitive human interests of those who had previously developed their own status and security in the Port of Boston Commission, The Airport Management Board and the Mystic River Bridge Authority.

At the same time that we were integrating the function of executives and other staff personnel to develop a new organization—the Massachusetts Port Authority—we had to direct perhaps the world's largest remodeling job, the redesign and reconstruction of several hundred acres of buildings, roadways, apron areas, and taxiways at Logan International Airport.

The Board

If we did not have on the Massachusetts Port Authority such men as Chairman Ephraim A. Brest, the father of the Mystic River Bridge Authority and the Massachusetts Port Authority, one of the prominent lawyers of Greater Boston; Vice-President Carl J. Gilbert, Chairman of the Board of the Gillette Company; Secretary-Treasurer William B. Carolan, President of the Union Savings Bank of Boston; Philip H. Theopold, a partner in the real estate management firm, Minot, DeBlois and Maddison; O. Kelley Anderson, President and Director of the New England Mutual Life Insurance Company; Nicholas P. Morrissey, New England Representative of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America, and John S. Pfeil, retired vice president of the engineering firm of Stone & Webster, Inc., we never would have been able to make the decisions which have kept our organization on the road of accomplishment.

As its contribution toward revitalization of the Port of Boston, the Authority has undertaken a program of reconstruction and development involving its pier facilities. It has also launched a campaign of advertising and promotion beamed at new business and new industries which would locate along the Greater Boston water front. It is particularly interested in new and expanding enterprises that can utilize the facilities of both the Port of Boston and Logan International Airport.

An indication of what efficient management can do lies in the fact that the Authority only recently turned over to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts a check for $225,759, representing the amount due from the operations of the Port of Boston facilities. These facilities were formerly owned and operated by the state—at a deficit. Included in the amount was more than $10,000 earned on the investment of funds held for the port account during the fiscal year.

The Legal Staff

The legal staff of the Authority, coordinating with our Washington representative, appears before the Interstate Commerce Commission and other regulatory agencies in a continuing battle to maintain rate parity for commerce utilizing the facilities of the Port of Boston.

The Authority is now publishing a four-page semimonthly newsletter, containing current items of commercial interest. This is mailed to a select list of transportation officials, opinion leaders, and promotion media.

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of our construction program is at Logan International Airport. Bear in mind that approximately 3,000,000 travelers passed through Logan International Airport during the last fiscal year. Before eight years have passed we will be faced with an annual volume of 6,000,000 passengers.

Pier Construction

This week actual construction commenced on the first of a series of four-finger piers at a total cost of some $2 million. These will permit 35 new airplane positions for the loading and unloading of passengers. They will have foundations to permit the addition of a second story and also the possibility of covered ramps extending from the piers directly into the big planes of the future. As designed, they will have attractive lounge rooms where more than 100 passengers can sit in air-conditioned comfort while awaiting take-offs—rather than to remain in the ticketing areas and add to the congestion there. We estimate that approximately 300 days will be required to construct them.

Airport Terminal

Our next project to be started at Logan will be the reconstruction of the International Terminal. If all goes well, work will begin next month on this much-needed expansion to accommodate our rapidly growing international travel. Last year international passenger travel through Logan increased by 12 per cent, and cargo carrying by 79 per cent.

Our international section project will cost over a million dollars and will triple the present area of 32,000 square feet. In this section we will have a second floor for the offices and service areas of federal agencies concerned with processing international arrivals.

At Logan, we will depart from conventional concepts of airport terminal design, by constructing two new terminal sections. These will be known as the North Terminal and South Terminal. The former will be erected in the general area of the present chapel and weather bureau. The South Terminal will take over space now occupied by Eastern Air Lines, the promenade restaurant, and others. Both of these terminals will be over 2½ acres in floor area.

The terminals will extend over adjacent area now occupied by the roadway and parking space. The weather bureau and the air lines presently using these areas will be accommodated elsewhere.

They will cost a total of $2 million and will require approximately two years to construct. Hundreds of hours of consultation with air lines and other tenants have helped formulate the thinking of the Massachusetts Port Authority in relation to the finger piers and the terminals.

New Runways

We have spent a million dollars to reconstruct 50 acres of apron area to accommodate the 125-ton jets. We are expending close to a half million dollars on the reconstruction of a taxiway near the $4 million Eastern Air Lines hangar, now abuilding. We have removed an entire hill on the northerly side of the field to prepare a site for a hangar for Trans World Airlines. That area alone is 20 acres—which is bigger than the retail core of downtown Boston.

And those of you who patronize Logan International will be very happy to know that we are rapidly nearing completion of the reconstructed auto park areas, and that they will soon be offering double the present capacity of cars.

Beyond our responsibilities as operators of the facilities which I have mentioned, the Massachusetts Port Authority is vitally concerned with improving transportation and commerce in the Greater Boston area and throughout Massachusetts. We are living in an age when the gas turbine engine is replacing the internal combustion engine. We all know what developments occurred in transportation after the introduction, via the automobile, of the piston engine.

Few people realize that the gas turbine engine—which many call the jet engine—is making equally significant changes in the speed and capacity of transportation. The jet airplane is carrying twice as many people twice as fast as the best propeller planes—hydrofoil vessels now under development will skim over the water twice as fast as any similar craft.

As this evolutionary change develops in transportation, it will mean that old cities will find it necessary to rebuild to accommodate fixed-wing aircraft carrying 150 to 200 passengers, helicopters moving 25 people in a flying bus, and high-speed boats opening up harbors and islands to new industry, recreation, and fishing.

The Massachusetts Port Authority is following the developments of the gas turbine engine with the knowledge that before long helicopters may be hopping between Route 128 and Logan International Airport—or other points in downtown Boston or points in the area of Worcester, Springfield, or Amherst. The Authority is mindful of the needs of balanced transportation, whether it is by plane, helicopter, ship, or mass transit. We believe that in New England—which must import its fuel and raw material as well as export much of its manufactured product—we must have as much concern as Old England which built its trade on efficient transportation.

ORGANIZING FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY IN BOSTON

By Bruce Campbell

The primary concern of the Massachusetts Safety Council in dealing with Boston's traffic problems is the reduction of the number of traffic accidents. As I will indicate, there is really no separation between the traffic problem and the traffic accident problem. In 1958, the Massachusetts Safety Council presented the very comprehensive study entitled "The Boston Traffic Accident Survey." This survey revealed what had been confirmed in other studies by the Council, that the most dangerous locations in the City of Boston are the same year after year. They continue to be dangerous until they are physically improved through traffic engineering improvements.

A good example of this point is Haymarket square. Haymarket square is number nine on the list of most dangerous locations in the City of Boston. It has been bypassed by the Boston Central Artery. The casual observer would say that, since this improvement had been made only a hundred feet away, it would relieve the accident problem in Haymarket square. This has not been the case, since there are just as many traffic accidents in Haymarket square today as there were five and ten years ago.

Haymarket Square Problem

The obvious reason for the high number of accidents at Haymarket square is that the intersection itself has not been improved. Even though the Central Artery is running at capacity, there continues to be a high volume of traffic through Haymarket square.

Let me say this, I believe that we will always have congestion at Haymarket square and at all of our other dangerous locations because of the great desire of our motorists to drive into the City of Boston. People seem to have built up a tolerance to congestion. They are willing to experience traffic tie-ups and a considerable amount of stop-and-go driving for the privilege of being in their own automobile. Our big problem then, from the accident viewpoint, is to have congestion without accidents. You might call it controlled congestion.

We are concerned, of course, not only with the existing dangerous locations, but also, with most dangerous locations which will develop in the future.

The most dangerous locations in Boston fall under the jurisdiction of several departments, including the Boston Traffic Department, Metropolitan District Commission, the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, etc. The great majority, of course, fall under the control of the Boston Traffic Department. It is our general opinion that the Boston Traffic Department has been making the most of the personnel, funds, and authority relegated to it. However, it is also apparent to us that it has not been given enough of any one of this important threesome. With the traffic problem increasing daily, and with so many different agencies involved, we did not feel that we, or for that matter, any other agency in the state, was in a position to recommend changes in the present organization for traffic management in the City of Boston. We had in mind, not only the problem of today, but the problems to be faced ten and twenty years from now. Only an organization with a great deal of experience and nationwide repute could make the proper recommendations.

Current Study

With this in mind, we are entering into an agreement with the Automotive Safety Foundation of Washington, D. C. This nonprofit organization has made studies of every major city in the country with the exception of Boston and New York. The cost of this survey, which includes only the expenses and no salaries of the Automotive Safety Foundation, will be borne half by the city and half by the Massachusetts Safety Council. The study will include the legal responsibilities for traffic management in the city and the way in which these responsibilities are being handled. The study will deal with personnel requirements now and in the future. Another phase of the study will have to include relationships between the City of Boston and state agencies with traffic responsibilities in the City of Boston. Baltimore, Maryland, is the central city of a metropolitan area with problems similar to those of Boston. In the past few years, Baltimore has spent some $4,500,000 on its traffic signal system. The budget of the traffic department is in the vicinity of $2,000,000 per year. In the past few years, very little money has been available to the Boston Traffic Department for traffic signal work, and its budget is under $1,000,000. Boston apparently faces the same type of development which Baltimore has accomplished. The best advice possible must be used and this will come from the Automotive Safety Foundation.

In summary, it can be said that the improvement of Boston's dangerous locations, now and in the future, can be solved only in the same manner in which all of its other traffic problems can be solved, and this is through proper organization. The study by the Automotive Safety Foundation should be completed by the end of June in 1961. We hope that fulfillment of some recommendations might begin even before that date. I think it is safe to say, that from an administration and management viewpoint, if you are doing anything the same way today that you did it ten years ago, you are doing it wrong. Boston wants to do things the right way. We know this will mean the fulfillment of our immediate objective—to cut in half the number of traffic accidents in the City of Boston.

PROBLEMS OF THE MTA

By Thomas McLernon

The MTA has its problems and these problems affect everyone of us. I don't know whether or not everyone in this room realizes that he and she owns the MTA lock, stock, and barrel. Mr. Sullivan stated that 5,700 automobiles entering the City of Boston daily are being housed at 7 garages leased by the city. If you would stop to think for a moment, we, of the MTA, can take 9,000 people on the Cambridge-Dorchester line, on 25 cars in 20 minutes to their destinations.

I was quite impressed with the MTA equipment that was here and the manner in which it was kept up. You have a terrific investment in the MTA, it might be well to consider how much it does mean to you.

This morning, and this afternoon after lunch, I had the opportunity to meet with a member of the San Francisco Planning Commission, who told me what they are doing in creating a system that would be similar to ours. They plan to spend $1 billion. The City of Philadelphia is spending considerable sums of money on its transportation system. New York spends $140 million a year improving its transportation system.

Should Stagger Work Hours

I believe we have sufficient facilities to handle any normal amount of traffic. Just a half hour's deviation one way or another from the usual 9-5 workday shifts would relieve the overburdening of facilities at present peak rush hours. We do not guarantee picking you up and dropping you off at the same time every day. I believe a staggering of hours by our business community would be beneficial to both the commuters and the MTA.

The question everybody asks is, "Is the transportation system in Boston adequate?" I say that the transportation system in Boston is adequate.

Sometimes I wonder why you brought me here to run the MTA, because every morning I receive mail from people telling me how to run it. It is worth-while, however, to read this mail because you do have some worth-while suggestions.

The Highland Branch

I want to talk briefly about the Highland Branch. It was an extension that, in its formative stage, no one seemed to want. I want you to know that I am not thinking of stopping the running of the Highland Branch.

If the Highland Branch were taken away from you, you would certainly realize what you had lost.

The popularity of this line is evidenced by the fact that it is carrying 27,000 passengers a day. This, mind you, from an area which opposed the establishment of the Highland Branch line — and vigorously! These same people are now telling you that the Highland Branch, even with its minor inadequacies, has been a great boon to the area and has been invaluable in providing transportation.

Start Using The MTA

Let me make this suggestion — in your daily commuting compare the running time from origin to destination via the MTA as compared with driving your car over the same route. There are times when we do crowd you a little, but you will be far happier to work with, your wife will be more attentive to you, all because you took the MTA, rather than driving and getting impatient, due to the traffic jams. Stop coming to the parking lots and then taking a taxi—start using the MTA.

SPECIAL TRAINING FOR WORKERS WITH JUVENILES

The following was released, on February 28, by the Mayor's office:

¶ Beginning Friday, March 3, the staff of the city's new Youth Activities Bureau (formerly the Delinquency Prevention Bureau) will be given special training at the Judge Baker Child Guidance Center in combating behavior problems of juveniles.

¶ The training program, to be conducted for 13 weeks, is made possible by a grant announced by Dean Charles I. Schottland, Chairman of the Delinquency Project Committee of United Community Services of Metropolitan Boston.

¶ The grant was made following a request by Mayor John F. Collins for private funds to supplement the public delinquency prevention program. Tax funds, the Mayor explained, could not be used for such training.

¶ The Baker Center course will be given by Dr. Alice Fleming, Staff Psychiatrist at the Red Feather Agency, with weekly classes from 5 to 7 P.M.

¶ The Youth Activities Bureau workers taking the course will include James A. Travers, Bureau Director, and Henry R. Previte, Supervisor of Staff.

¶ The course will include, besides the psychological aspects of delinquency, instructions in agency resources available in Boston for aiding families of potential delinquents.

¶ The grant by United Community Services to finance the training program was made possible by the Permanent Charity Fund which is providing up to $100,000 annually to underwrite projects approved by the United Community Services Committee headed by Dean Schottland.

Appointments . . .

However, I think orderly procedure indicates that we have on the staff the Project Directors and Project Planning Officers before we engage the neighborhood representatives.

¶ We will have no formal educational or experience requirements for the neighborhood representatives. We will be seeking primarily people who know their neighborhoods well, are of good reputation, have demonstrated that they have the capacity to work well with people, and have sound judgment. It will be the neighborhood representatives' job to see that the neighborhoods are fully and completely informed about the status of the plans for their area and in turn that the development staff is fully informed about the views of the neighborhood residents. There will, of course, be much direct contact between the planning and renewal staff and the neighborhoods in accordance with the established policy of planning with people.

The Recruiting Program

¶ A word of explanation is perhaps in order at this time. As is set forth in more detail below the Director of Administrative Management will have the responsibility for direction of the recruiting program. We have had some 400 applications to date. A very large number of the applications are from people who have had experience in construction of one kind or another.

¶ We must, of course, say to these people that we have no suitable positions for them at this time. I am, however, very much encouraged by the extent of this interest and I am hopeful that as we move into the execution stage we can take full advantage of this reservoir of talent.

¶ In order that we may have standardized information available about applicants, we have devised a form which is attached. Application forms are readily available at the eleventh floor of City Hall Annex and are turned in at this time to Miss Cynthia Hullinger, Personnel Assistant, for preliminary review. They are then referred for such further review as may be indicated by the nature of the application and the opportunities available.

¶ It may be of some interest that of the first seven appointments six are from the Boston area. The seventh worked for several years in Providence on projects which are similar to some of those we intend to undertake. I am not confident that we will be able to retain the same ratio of local residents or people with local training and experience in filling the remainder of the city planning and urban renewal technician vacancies.

¶ I am very pleased to be able to submit these recommendations to the Authority at this time, and I strongly urge their approval.

¶ More detailed information is set forth below.

Director of Administrative Management

¶ The Director of Administrative Management is one of the top positions on the staff, responsible for budget, personnel, and program audit. In charge of budget preparation and administration, he will be the fiscal watchdog, so important in a program of this financial magnitude and importance to all concerned. In charge of personnel, he will be responsible for recruiting and for the preparation and carrying out of personnel policies. Responsible for program audit, he will evaluate progress and performance in meeting the program's goals.

¶ The Director of Administrative Management will also be responsible for administrative planning, including surveys of methods and procedures, forms control, and studies of administration and organization. I would anticipate that he would have to call upon the services of existing organizations such as the Municipal Research Bureau and other organizations which have demonstrated willingness to help Boston in years past. The Director of Administrative Management will also have the function of supervising central service and records management.

¶ I would propose that he be designated as the authorized representative of the Authority in the requisition of planning advance funds and other funds available under existing contracts from the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

¶ Because the development program is comprehensive in scope, involving a substantial construction program for schools, playgrounds, streets and other public facilities, there will be need for close coordination and cooperation with existing city departments and with those officials concerned with the school program, as well as with the City Council and its appropriate committees. Cooperation is necessary not only with the various agencies and departments of the city government but with the many parts of the state government and with the independent agencies established by the state. Finally, in the Boston community there is a tremendous need for coordination with the civic committees, the Chamber of Commerce, the Real Estate Board, and many others interested in cooperating with the city in carrying out the development program.

¶ It seems to me essential that there be located in the staff a responsibility for this vitally needed coordinating function, and I propose that it be lodged with the Director of Administrative Management.

¶ As may be seen from this very summary description of duties and responsibilities, the position of the Director of Administrative Management is a most important one in the over-all program. It requires a person familiar with the Boston scene, of sound judgment, unquestionable integrity, and a great capacity for working well with many different kinds of people. It requires a person who can stand up under severe strain and pressure and who can keep always foremost in mind the objectives of the program and what it can mean for Boston.

¶ It requires administrative ability and executive deportment of a high order. It requires as well ability to present, explain, and, where necessary, defend the program before interested groups.

Mr. McMorrow Qualifies

¶ My proposed appointment for this position is John P. McMorrow, Deputy Mayor of the City of Boston and Director of Administrative Services.

"I have worked closely with Mr. McMorro since I came to Boston, and I have only the highest regard for his ability, integrity, and tremendous capacity for hard and effective work.

"In the past fourteen months he has been Mayor Collins' strong right arm in the preparation and carrying out of the austerity program which has done so much to restore confidence in the City of Boston and in the future. Mayor Collins was understandably most reluctant to release Mr. McMorro, but in view of the need for a close and continuing cooperation between the administration and the Authority and in view of the importance which Mayor Collins places on the urban renewal program, he agreed to make Mr. McMorro available. "On behalf of the Mayor, Mr. McMorro has, in the past fourteen months, spoken to a variety of organizations and groups representing the administration. He has done this well and effectively, and it is the Mayor's desire that Mr. McMorro continue to represent the city on similar occasions in the future.

"Mr. McMorro is thirty-four years of age, a veteran of overseas naval service in World War II. He was educated in the Boston public schools, graduated from Boston Latin School, and received his A.B. magna cum laude from Harvard in 1947. He received an M.A. degree from Harvard in 1950 and a master's degree in education from Boston College in 1955. He was a teacher in the Boston public schools from 1951 to 1953, was a member of the Legislature from 1953 to 1957, and Chairman of the Committee on Education. From 1956 to 1959 he was a member of the School Committee. He was Director of the Division of Research and Statistics for the Massachusetts Department of Education from 1957 to 1960, from which position he is now on leave. He has been Deputy Mayor and Director of Administrative Services from the beginning of Mayor Collins' administration. In this capacity he has also been Chairman of the Administrative Services Board, a member of the Government Center Commission, and Chairman of the Public Safety Commission.

Director of the Community Renewal

"The Director of the Community Renewal Administration Division will have the responsibility for the administration of the seven community projects.

"He will have responsibility for over-all supervision and direction of the neighborhood projects in Roxbury-North Dorchester, Charlestown, South End, Parker Hill, South Boston, East Boston, and Jamaica Plain.

"My proposed appointment for this position is Robert F. Rowland. Mr. Rowland has had ten years' experience in urban renewal and redevelopment work. In assuming his new post, Mr. Rowland will leave his present position as a principal partner in the Cambridge consulting firm of Planning and Renewal Associates. In that capacity he has served as redevelopment consultant to the cities of Providence and Pawtucket, Rhode Island; Cambridge, New Bedford, Gloucester, and Holyoke, Massachusetts; Portsmouth, New Hampshire; and Portland, Maine.

Mr. Rowland's Qualifications

"Prior to entering private practice Mr. Rowland served as Deputy Director of the Providence Redevelopment Agency and as Executive Secretary of the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Housing for that city. Mr. Rowland first joined the Providence Agency in 1949. Since that agency was established in 1947 the City of Providence has compiled an impressive and nationally recognized record of redevelopment accomplishment. In its attack on blighted and substandard conditions Providence has completed execution of three redevelopment projects, has secured federal commitments of some $30 million to support its redevelopment program, and has incorporated 25 per cent of the city's total land area into official redevelopment areas.

"Mr. Rowland is thirty-four years of age, graduated from Bassick

High School in Bridgeport, Connecticut, attended the University of Bridgeport and received an A.B. in Sociology from Brown University in 1949. He studied city planning at M.I.T. for two years. Mr. Rowland is a member of the American Institute of Planners, the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials, the Connecticut Urban Renewal Association, and the American Society of Planning Officials.

Staff Appointments

"FRANCIS E. O'BRIEN, who is proposed as Principal Planner at $8,000 a year, is a resident of 74 Farquhar street, Roslindale. He graduated from Boston Latin School, received his A.B. from Boston College in 1952 and a master's degree in City Planning from M.I.T. Mr. O'Brien also studied at Yale. He has most recently been employed by the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee as a Research Associate and prior to that spent four years on the staff of the Boston City Planning Board.

"MARTIN R. ADLER, presently a resident of Brooklyn, New York, received his A.B. degree from Brooklyn College in 1953 and a Master of Public Administration from New York University. He also studied on a Fulbright Grant at the Institut d'Urbanisme Conservatoire National des Arts et Metiers. Mr. Adler has been employed for a little over two years as Project Director Assistant at the City Plan Commission in Providence. He has also been a part-time consultant with Blair Associates, a Providence consulting firm. He is a member of the American Society of Planning Officials, and the American Society for Public Administration.

"CHESTER C. JONES, a resident of 222 Columbia street, Cambridge, graduated from Rindge Technical High School, received an A.B. from Harvard in 1954 and has studied Public Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh. He has been employed for four years as an Assistant Planning Engineer at the Massachusetts Department of Commerce. Mr. Jones is a registered professional engineer, a student affiliate of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials, held a scholarship at Harvard and a fellowship at the University of Pittsburgh.

¶ SAMUEL JOSEPH GILFIX, a resident of 148 Mill street, Newton Center, graduated from Newton High School, received his A.B. from Harvard in 1955 and a master's degree in City Planning from the Harvard School of Design. He has been employed as a planner at the Harvard University Planning Office and in the Area Planning Office of Harvard Medical School.

¶ RAFAEL ANTONIO DEUTSCHMANN, a resident of 37 Grozier road, Cambridge, graduated from the Colegio de Infantes in Guatemala in 1952 and received an A.B. in architecture from M.I.T. in 1959. STREET CRIMES DROP

Detroit police report a drop in street crimes of 18 per cent in three test areas in the city where lighting improvement programs have been carried out. The test areas were among ten selected by the police and the public lighting commission because of high crime rates. Lights five times brighter than those formerly in use were installed. Tree branches were trimmed by the city's foresters. A lighting improvement program was begun in 1959 following several stabbing attacks on Detroit streets.

Authority is therefore requested to dispense with publicly advertising for prices and award a contract, without public advertisement, to DCA Food Industries, Inc., for furnishing doughnut mix to the various city institutions for the period from April 1, 1961, to March 31, 1962, inclusive, at the following price:

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

DEAR SIR:

The houses numbered 74, 76, and 78 Kendall street, Ward 9, Roxbury, have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. The buildings are now open to trespass, are a menace to the neighborhood, and in imminent danger of collapse.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116d thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the structures.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

John A. Berardi.—74 Kendall street, $630; 76 Kendall street, $630; 78 Kendall street, $630; total, $1,890.

L & L Wrecking.—74 Kendall street, $725; 76 Kendall street, $725; 78 Kendall street, $725; total, $2,175.

New York Wrecking.—74 Kendall street, $775; 76 Kendall street, $775; 78 Kendall street, $775; total $2,325.

Lyons Wrecking.—74 Kendall street, $541; 76 Kendall street, $541; 78 Kendall street, $541; total, $1,623.

Lyons Wrecking Company has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

I feel obliged to call to your Honor's attention that this department is without funds at the present time to do this work. In the light of the explicit statements in chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, section 116d and interests of the general public safety, however, I believe it is my obligation to proceed forthwith in the razing of these unsafe and dangerous structures, and, with your Honor's approval, I propose to do so.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

Building Repairs

DEAR SIR:

Due to the razing of 390 Main street, Ward 2, Charlestown, by the Health Department, the sidewalk of 392 Main street has been left without lateral support. Roof flashing is partly missing; fascia and corner boards are missing; timber holes have not been filled in.

permission to enter the premises and repair the sidewalk.

I wish to point out to your Honor that the sidewalk of 392 Main street cannot be allowed to remain in its present condition without endangering that structure and without causing the city to incur some liability for consequent damage.

We have solicited invitation bids, therefore, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Vicari & Salvo, $885.

Hurley Brothers, $1,195.

J. P. Donahoe, $1,463.

Joseph White, $965.

The firm of Vicari & Salvo has submitted the lowest bid. This firm is thoroughly familiar with this work and has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

I feel obliged to call to your Honor's attention that this department is without funds at the present time to do this work. In the light of the explicit statements in chapter 479, Acts of 1938, as amended, section 116d and the interests of the public safety, however, I believe it is my obligation to proceed forthwith in the repair of this structure, and with your Honor's approval, I propose to do so.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

Management Study

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of Boston City Hospital hereby respectfully request your approval to award a contract, without publicly advertising for bids, to the firm of Cresap, McCormick & Paget, Management Consultants, 342 Madison avenue, New York, for professional services in the implementation of the management study they completed for the Hospital Department during 1959. These services will be rendered at a cost not to exceed $25,000.

The scope of the services would include various specific implementation efforts toward adopting the approved recommendations of the basic study in an effective and expeditious manner. Professional assistance would be provided in the interest of effecting savings and developing an improved administrative structure.

Specifically, the services to be rendered would include:

1. Development of position descriptions for all proposed top administrative positions at Boston City Hospital. The descriptions would include duties and responsibilities and detailed qualifications for persons to fill the positions.

2. Recruiting and screening candidates for the top administrative positions. Assistance would be furnished from the Hospital Personnel Division in recruiting but the management consultants would perform all screening. Final selection would rest with the administrator and the trustees.

3. Strengthening the Personnel Division by developing policies, procedure, and staffing for the office.

4. Organizing the proposed Division of Business Services, including aid to the Business Manager in preparing a detailed plan of organization, the selection of candidates for new positions, and assistance in developing new policies and procedures.

5. Strengthening the administration of the divisions by reviewing productivity and by selecting supervisory personnel. Interviews with candidates for department head positions would be conducted with representatives of the hospital's administration in order to select competent department heads who would be able to install detailed recommendations and to supervise their execution. Present employees would be given preference for positions to be filled, provided they have demonstrated competence.

It is proposed to award the contract to Cresap, McCormick & Paget since this organization has extensive knowledge of the hospital and its problems due to several months of close association with the institution during the study which was completed in 1959. In the light of this background it is not apparent how advantage would accrue to the City of Boston from a public solicitation for proposals for the subject professional services.

Respectfully yours,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.
President, Board of Trustees.

SUFFOLK COUNTY.

COURT HOUSE.
Towel Service

DEAR MAYOR COLLINS:

The total amount contemplated for expenditure under the proposed contract is $3,168, the rate being $264 per month.

The deliveries and collections of towels at the Suffolk County Court House have been made with the utmost cooperation and efficiency. The W. C. Holmes Cleaning Company has all the necessary equipment and the necessary experience enabling it to perform this service with the least possible disturbance to the daily functions at the court house.

Very truly yours,
COURT HOUSE COMMISSION,
ARNO I. DREW,
Chairman.

7-POINT RENEWAL ACCELERATION PROGRAM

Mayor John F. Collins speaking recently at the Commodore Hotel, New York City, presented his personal observations and recommendations for faster urban renewal progress.

Joining other successful municipal executives in a discussion sponsored by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Region 1, New York, Mayor Collins made the following comments, concluding with a strong seven-part plan of attack:

Urban renewal can be speeded up and it certainly can stimulate the economy. An effective speed-up must be a team effort involving all agencies of government and private enterprise as well.

We have had that cooperation in Boston, and we are picking up speed on what I believe will be the largest urban renewal program in the United States.

Local decisions are the key to urban renewal. I believe we have cut the delays here to the minimum. Equally important in Boston and elsewhere we have established an integrated setup for the administration of all urban renewal activities.

By a great outpouring of support we have established that Boston does indeed want large-scale urban renewal and wants it fast.

We have decided to work not in one or two areas but in ten neighborhoods at one time. The work is under way on as tight a schedule as you will find anywhere. Planning on the first two is scheduled to be completed by June 30 of this year.

Early acquisition gives a city a great opportunity to speed up renewal. As soon as the General Court approves early acquisition legislation we shall begin the steps toward an early acquisition loan for the Government Center project. This acquisition, relocation and clearance in itself will represent a boon to our area. More important, it will speed the beginning of construction by six months to a year or more, making cleared land available sooner. This means $60 million in public construction will begin that much sooner.

We will plan to take advantage of early acquisition everywhere we can. I urge that the federal law be amended to permit early acquisition in general neighborhood renewal planning areas.

If we were permitted to buy school, playground, and housing sites during the general neighborhood planning process we could save from one to three years in pushing the Boston program ahead.

States have a role to play, too. Financial aid will help hard-pressed cities to take on the size of programs they need instead of just what they can afford with their own limited local resources.

States should also be willing to provide technical help to smaller communities which may experience difficulty in recruiting experienced staff.

Massachusetts is moving to meet both these needs.

Federal assistance is essential in many ways.

First is cutting down processing time. Under Commissioner David Walker much progress was made, and I am confident the new commissioner will make further improvements. The regional office has a key role and here we have certainly benefited by the leadership of the Regional Administrator Lester Eisner.

I think we can all agree that we would like to get our submissions reviewed and approved by the Federal officials in thirty days as a routine practice.

Second is FHA. A careful survey of Boston's program makes clear that any added major speed-up will require a drastic change in FHA policies. The present FHA staging policy is a real delaying factor.

I understand that the new Housing Administrator, Robert Weaver, and the FHA Commissioner designate, Neil Hardy, share our concern and plan to revitalize and speed up the 220 and 221 programs.

City-wide rehabilitation based on FHA Section 220 mortgage insurance can do a great deal to stimulate the economy.

The Senate last year approved amendments to Section 220 of the Housing Act making FHA mortgage insurance available anywhere in a city where a code enforcement program was being carried out.

The mutual savings banks of Boston have pledged $20 million for insured rehabilitation loans. If the Congress will adopt this amendment that $20 million can begin to go to work by summer.

Renewal Program . . .

The Chamber of Commerce and other groups in Boston have been invaluable in putting up seed money to speed projects into the execution stage. We will save at least a full year on rebuilding our water front in this way.

Adding up our Boston experience we believe urban renewal can be speeded by:

1. Strong local leadership and support which will cut delays in local planning and decision making.
 2. A regular and dependable thirty-day period for federal processing.
 3. Full use of early acquisition to speed projects into construction.
 4. Technical amendments in the law to improve rehabilitation and make FHA insurance available city-wide where code enforcement is under way.
 5. Drastic changes in FHA policies toward mortgage insurance in urban renewal areas and in cities generally.
 6. Use of private seed money to speed action planning in areas of potential private investment.
 7. A sense of urgency all the way up and down the line.
- Given all of these we can make our cities hum with urban renewal activity.

Whereas, A meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission is not scheduled to be held before the commencement of such construction; now therefore . . . I hereby promulgate the following rules and regulations to take effect forthwith and to be operative only until the completion of such construction or the expiration of one month from the date hereof, whichever is earlier:

MR. McMORROW'S APPRECIATION

John P. McMorrow, on the occasion of his advancement to the position of Director of Administrative Management, Development Administration, of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, issued this letter:

To Department Heads and City Employees:

For the past fourteen months, it has been my good fortune and pleasure to serve his Honor the Mayor in the capacity of his Director of Administrative Services and his Deputy. As you are aware, I am about to take leave of this office and enter into another field of administration in which the rebuilding of Boston will play an important and active role.

Prior to my departing from the official city cabinet, however, I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the splendid cooperation and assistance rendered me during my short term of office as Director and Deputy Mayor. I am well aware of the fact that had it not been for the cooperative attitude and teamwork exemplified by department heads and city employees alike, my efforts would have been in vain.

This is not a "goodby" message as, in all probability, my new duties will require continuous contacts with city personnel. It is simply an effort, on my part, to say "thank you" for the many courtesies extended to me over the past year. It has been an extreme privilege and an unforgettable experience to have been associated with such fine people on a Class A team.

Sincerely yours,

JOHN P. McMORROW.

THE "NEW LOOK" IN BOSTON'S MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION

The "New Look" was the official title of the fifth panel session of the Fifth Annual Conferama on Municipal Administration held in the Public Library Auditorium on November 17 and 18, 1960.

Moderator for the panel was Frank J. Zeo, Executive Director, Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations, Inc.

The panelists were:

Arthur G. Coffey, Corporation Counsel, City of Boston.

James W. Haley, Public Works Commissioner, City of Boston.

Robert A. Grimes, Chairman, Board of Review, Assessing Department.

John H. O'Neill, Jr., Administrative Assistant to the Mayor.

By Frank J. Zeo

The conferama coordinator has said that the main purpose of conducting these annual conferences is to identify the city employee as part and parcel of city operations and to attract the public's attention to current problems in municipal administration.

These conferences also afford an excellent opportunity for reporting progress to the city, the state, and, indeed, the entire nation—for Boston is making progress in several directions. During the next hour you will learn of this progress as our panelists discuss the subject, "Municipal Administration Under Mayor John F. Collins—The 'New Look.'"

The "new look" is an important step forward to the solution of Boston's problems because it demonstrates that City of Boston officials and City of Boston employees are doing what they can to solve Boston's problems. The "new look" is important because it is the one sure way of regaining the respect and admiration of voters all over the state whose support is essential to Boston's survival as a leading metropolis. It is the only way of gaining greater support of public opinion and of the press, both within and without Boston, and to get necessary understanding and cooperation at the State House. This support and cooperation must be obtained if Boston is to solve some of the tough problems which have confronted it for years.

If these purposes are to be achieved, this conferama group is an excellent assemblage to seek such support. There could be no better force to sell the "new look" than that represented here today. I happen to know firsthand, for example, of the fine work of Paul Burns.

Selling Boston

He is a splendid example of a competent and personable salesman for Boston. On many occasions we have cooperated with him in 1960 in support of Boston legislation designed to alleviate Boston problems. There are many others in this conferama group who are making an outstanding contribution.

One of the most encouraging signs in recent months is the growing number of individuals, organizations, and public officials who are beginning to understand and sympathize with Boston's underlying problems—who recognize that the future of Massachusetts is closely tied with the future of the capitol city.

Boston's basic trouble is easy to understand. There has existed practically since the days of the Revolutionary War an enormous criticism of and antagonism toward the central city. This is not unique to Boston. It is true of New York City, Chicago, and other large cities. From a tax standpoint, a large part of Boston's trouble stems from a tax base which has dropped steadily for many years. Boston has tried its best to alert the State House that its life line is getting weaker. We all recognize it could reach the breaking point unless warnings are heeded.

I think we all can agree that Boston can never expect the full measure of what is due unless it shows a good record of accomplishment. Our panelist this morning will present to you a partial record of the substantial progress and accomplishments since your last meeting.

THE LAW DEPARTMENT

By Arthur G. Coffey

Mayor John F. Collins was faced with what appeared to be an impossible task when he took office last January. There was a rising tax rate as the result of a shrinking tax base, rising costs of municipal government, and the imposition on Boston of increasing deficits and assessments of the MTA and MDC. With the spread of blight and the lack of new construction, the future of Boston looked dismal indeed.

The job of curing the sick City of Boston called for the cooperation and assistance of department heads, all city employees, and the faith and patience of each and every resident of our city.

Several Problems

As Corporation Counsel, I was faced with several immediate problems:

1. Saving the Prudential Center and Urban Redevelopment in the City of Boston in general.
2. Assistance from the State Legislature and our representation at legislative hearings.
3. The Law Department's relationship and service to the various city agencies.
4. Collection of delinquent taxes and other moneys due the city.
5. Reduction of the amount paid out on claims against the city and its employees.
6. Holding our tax base by able representation before the State Appellate Tax Board.

The Prudential Plan

The Prudential project and the urban redevelopment of our city generally was the most immediate and challenging of the many problems facing Mayor Collins. Although he had assured the Prudential officials that he would stand behind the tax agreement that company had with Mayor Hynes, there had been rumors that certain persons would challenge this tax agreement by court action.

The Prudential people requested that legislation be enacted to authorize the city to enter into such a tax agreement. You probably all know the history of this legislation. After the Supreme Judicial Court held the Prudential-Massachusetts Turnpike Authority bill unconstitutional, Mayor Collins asked me, as corporation counsel, to study the Supreme Court decision and to confer with Mr. Edward Logue and then draft what we considered to be a constitutional bill that would authorize the construction of the Prudential Center with the necessary tax agreement. With his usual foresight, Mayor Collins also asked that the bill be so drawn as to authorize urban redevelopment generally throughout the City of Boston. The original draft of the present Prudential legislation was drawn by a member of my staff and, after many conferences with the attorney general, attorneys representing Prudential, counsel representing Governor Furcolo, and House and Senate counsel, a final draft was agreed upon.

This legislation was an amendment of General Laws, chapter 121A, with special provisions relating to the City of Boston. As a result of this legislation, the reorganization of the Boston redevelopment Authority is now in progress, and the future redevelopment of Boston would be difficult, if not impossible, without it.

Legislative Help

If Boston is to survive, it is obvious that it will need help from the State Legislature. With this in mind, I appointed two legislative counsel to present Boston's legislative program—one a former member of the state legislature and a former assistant district attorney, and the other a personable, experienced trial attorney. Their success at the State House this year is evidenced by the passage of the Prudential-Redevelopment bill and the Government Center bill. These are two of the most important pieces of legislation for Boston in its history. Working with these legislative counsel is a member of my staff who is an expert legal draftsman. He drafts the bills and acts as consultant on technical legislative problems.

Legal Staff

One of the fundamental functions of the Law Department, as attorney for the various city departments or agencies, is to serve these officials and departments as efficiently and expertly as possible. In order to promote a closer working relationship between my department and the other departments of the city, I have assigned an assistant to each department or agency and I have instructed each assistant to familiarize himself with the general and special laws, ordinances, departmental rules and regulations, and with all legal opinions, past and present, relating to the department or agency to which he is assigned.

These assistants are now preparing 1961 legislation for the various department heads.

Delinquent Taxes

When Mayor Collins took office last January, one of the most publicized problems facing his administration was the collection of over $7,000,000 in delinquent real estate taxes. To carry out this collection program, I appointed an assistant with many years of experience in tax title work for various cities and towns in Massachusetts.

As of October 1, 1960, our Tax Title Division has collected $1,178,231.54 in cash, as compared with $777,730.81 for the entire year of 1959, and foreclosures of $934,660.60 as of October 1, 1960, as compared with $458,078.54 for the entire year of 1959. The estimated total cash collection and foreclosures for 1960 is over $3,000,000 as compared with $1,235,809.35 for the year 1959. We estimate 1,134 tax foreclosure cases in 1960, as compared with 135 in 1959. This year there will be an estimated 560 cases paid or withdrawn as compared with 130 cases in 1959, with a total of 1,694 cases disposed of in 1960 as compared with 265 in 1959.

This collection of delinquent real estate taxes has been accomplished by the conscientious work of our Tax Title Division plus the rigid enforcement of the policy of "no settlement and no waiver of costs and interest."

An estimated $200,000 will be collected this year in penalty costs and interest alone—this is more than the total cash collections for an average three-month period in 1959.

Another phase of collection work in my department is the collection of general welfare relief and old age assistance rendered to needy people with legal settlements in other cities and towns. To handle this work, I have appointed an assistant who is experienced in welfare settlement work in Boston because he was formerly with the City of Boston Welfare Department. As a result of his endeavors, $156,786.82 was collected by the City of Boston on suits disposed of during the first ten months of this year. This compares with $31,595.25 for the entire year of 1959.

The City Hospital

A survey of the Boston City Hospital revealed that there were large sums of money outstanding for unpaid hospital bills. In early June of this year, my office started an all-out drive to collect these delinquent bills. So far, over $120,000 has been collected as the direct result of this drive—an average of over $7,000 per week. We estimate that next year over $364,000 will be collected.

Certain recommendations have been made by my office for the establishment of a billing office at the Boston City Hospital. Plans for the establishment and expansion of this office at the hospital are now being set up and it is anticipated that next year collections at the hospital will be even greater than I have stated.

Claims

Another activity of the corporation counsel's office is the defense of claims against the City of Boston and its officials and employees. It has been my goal to reduce the amount of money paid out on claims and it is anticipated that these claims will be reduced by approximately $100,000 this year with the average cost of disposing of a claim against the city this year being $715.86. The average payment in 1959 was $1,040.39.

This has been accomplished by the trial of twice as many cases this year as last. These trials include the defense of police officers for false arrest, assault and battery, and the defense of all city employees in the negligent operation of the 1,200 motor vehicles owned by the city.

Abatement Cases

With the dwindling of our tax base, it has become of the utmost importance to hold and protect it by able representation before the State Appellate Tax Board. To do this, I have assigned three of my assistants to handle the five to six thousand applications for abatement representing assessments of over $600,000,000.

Workmen's Compensation

Workmen's Compensation is still another function of the Law Department. This work is handled by two career attorneys, a medical director, and staff who handle about fifteen hundred accident cases each year with over eighteen thousand employees being covered by Workmen's Compensation. Incidentally, this is done at approximately one third the cost of private insurance. The cost to the city is $300,000 as compared with an insurance company's estimate of over $1,000,000.

Drafting of Contracts

The Law Department has a contract division where a veteran assistant is aided by a newly-appointed assistant in drafting contracts for all city departments and agencies, advising city officials on contract negotiation, and passing on the validity of thousands of contracts and bonds annually.

I also have assigned one of my assistants to attend meetings of the Boston City Council and he acts as liaison and legal advisor to the City Council and its various committees.

The Boston School Committee has also assigned to it a lawyer versed in School Committee procedure and special laws applying to it.

The Real Estate and Conveyancing Division of my office services all city departments in conveyancing matters as well as acting as attorney for the very important Committee on Public Lands of the Boston City Council.

Two assistants are assigned to handle civil service hearings and are available to all department heads.

To assist in carrying out all the functions of the Law Department is a talented and experienced staff of investigators.

PUBLIC WORKS REORGANIZED

By James W. Haley

Ten months ago, Mayor Collins, in his inaugural address, carefully appraised the problems of the City of Boston and laid down his plan for their solution. References to "no hiring," "no chauffeurs," and "austerity" were highlighted. A few weeks later, millions of dollars were being "pruned," and in some cases "meat-axed," from the budget estimates left by the previous administration. With this bold beginning, the ever-rising tax rate was halted and turned downward slightly. The entire community was encouraged. The forecasters of doom retreated. Boston was making a comeback.

Now all of this was so. And it was good. But what is the road back for Boston? It is not an easy one.

Patterns of Change

Its buildings are old and its land area is small. The exodus to the suburbs has reduced its population almost 20 per cent. In recent years it has declined as a center of commerce.

For almost a century an upstate-controlled Legislature has been saddling unfair charges against it.

And for almost as long a time shortsighted local officials have established government services on a basis more costly than any comparable city in the country.

The slow awakening to our situation was climaxed in 1959 when a tax rate of over $100 was established. The $100 tax rate, or a $90 rate or an $80 rate coupled with assessed valuations up to 100 per cent, makes Boston "off limits" to most sound investment capital. And without new capital—new investment building—to replace the thousands of buildings demolished, or ready to be demolished, Boston's problem remains unsolved.

The Challenge

Most of you have heard this story before, in one form or another, and have agreed that "something must be done."

More than "something" must be done. "Many" things must be done.

The Legislature must transform its attitude toward the city. The Mayor must continue to lead the local community—government, business and citizens—in the restoration of Boston's economic health.

But no group concerned with this problem has a more vital interest and at the same time the potential for contributing to solving Boston's problem than you assembled here today. You are the management of the City of Boston. You are the administrators.

You plan the programs. You assign and supervise the work. You order the supplies and services. You draw up the contracts. In short—you spend the money, almost $200 million a year.

Most of you know that until this year I, like you, was a career city employee. Starting in a few weeks after graduating from high school in 1928, I served in the various engineering grades continuously, except for the war years, until 1959. I believe I know the city service pretty well. I believe I know that Public Works is more or less a typical city department. Its four major programs—Highway, Water, Sewer, and Sanitation—cost over $20 million a year.

Decreasing Manpower

Between 1950 and 1960 Public Works costs dropped 8 per cent—yes, dropped, at the same time costs of operating all other city departments rose 43 per cent. Likewise, Public Works personnel dropped 32 per cent when all other city departments combined made no decrease at all.

In fact, by comparison on January 1, 1960, Public Works looked good. But the only comparison we interested ourselves in was with what we could do and should do. Our organizational structure and our plant setup were practically unchanged from 30 years ago when we had over 3,200 employees. Our yard locations were still those of the horse-and-team era. We had practically as many foremen and supervisors as we had for 3,200 employees.

More significant, many of our methods and procedures were those of 30 and 40 years ago.

Horse-and-Team Layout

There may be nothing wrong with a method 40 years old. But in this age of astounding change, with 10 times as many scientists now at work as ever lived in the preceding thousands of years, when the speed of travel has increased 300 times against only 20 times in all preceding history, surely we must suspect that methods of the 1920's and 1930's can be improved.

So today we are hard at it in Public Works—trying to improve—trying to give better services at less cost. Yes, we are trying to economize and trying to be more efficient. It's not easy. Any change can turn out to be a mistake instead of an improvement. Employees are often skeptical and sometimes hostile to change. But improvement means change. Improvements we will continue to seek and the changes must be accepted.

Present Staff 1,600

By the end of 1960 Public Works will be down close to 1,600 employees. Chauffeur-driven sedans have gone. Constables have gone. Our mobile patrol has been discontinued. Temporary summer employment was eliminated. Twenty per cent of our City Hall space has been given up. Seven of seventeen yards have been abandoned, and yard services have been reduced from 38 to 19. Our telephone bill in 1961 will be less than half of 1959. Cost of building maintenance, light, heat, power, and watchman service likewise will be greatly reduced. We are junking over 150 obsolete vehicles and replacing with only 75 new ones. There is no economy in trying to operate that which belongs in the graveyard.

In operating policy we have centralized engineering, planning and design, payroll timekeeping and personnel records, requisitioning and supplies. Payrolls have been reduced from 88 to 23. Purchasing on a departmental basis instead of divisional will bring lower costs through bulk buying and reduce paper work substantially. Yes, we are trying in Public Works, and we are confident that our results will be worth-while.

Many of you, I am sure, are at work in your own departments on similar programs. If you're not, try a few out. Take any of the many activities of your unit. Prepare some cost records and then really go to work. You will develop results that are both startling and satisfying, provided you don't stop at the first obstacle—Joe always did it this way—Helen doesn't want to move her desk near the window—maybe the change will be a mistake. Don't be afraid of a new idea.

While help from the Legislature and good leadership from the Mayor are essential, we, too, can play a most important role in restoring Boston as a healthy and vigorous community that will compare favorably with any city in America.

PROGRESS IN ASSESSING

By Robert A. Grimes

The Mayor announced in July that the Board of Review in the first six months of 1960 had cut the tax abatements over 50 per cent, from a figure of approximately $54,305,700 assessed valuations abated in a comparable period of the first six months of 1959, to approximately $23,600,325 assessed valuations abated in the same period in 1960.

We have now recapitulated the figures for the first ten months of 1960 through November 1, 1960, and are able, for the first time, to announce a comparison of the first ten months of 1960 with the same ten months of 1959. The total abated from January 1 through November 1, 1959, in assessed valuations was $63,921,600. The total amount abated in assessed valuations through November 1, 1960, by the present Board of Review was $29,269,900, which means that we have cut the abatements in half. These figures are based upon an average tax rate for three years in each ten-month period.

One of the procedures which the Board of Review has adopted under Mayor Collins' administration is to order that no abatements be granted in the Government Center area, being properties on Portland street, Bowker street, Hawkins street, Alden court, Chardon street, Staniford place, Pitts street, Hale street, Norman street, South Margin street, Green street, (part) Sudbury street, (part) Cambridge street, Staniford street, Merrimac street, Somerset street, Ashburton place, (part) Bowdoin street, (part) Howard street, (part) Allston street, (part) Bulfinch street, and (part) Bulfinch place. A similar order has been issued relative to the streets in the Whitney Development area, namely: (part) Longwood avenue, Conant street, Smith street, St. Alphonsus street, (part) Tremont street, Whitney street, and (part) Huntington avenue. Similar procedure is being followed in other areas being redeveloped.

Crackdown on Abatements

We, of the Board of Review, under Mayor Collins, have also introduced forms for the deputy assessors and assistant assessors to file with the Board of Review, in detail, in writing, whenever they recommend an abatement. An appraisal has also been required in writing from the assistant assessors on cases coming up for review. We have also instituted a new program in the last several months to have a photographer take pictures of all properties on which sizeable abatements have been recommended by our staff, and conferences are held on such cases with the deputy assessor making the recommendation after the pictures have been filed and before action is taken.

Some of the procedures set up by the new Board of Review under Mayor Collins are reiterated in a memorandum to all the deputy assessors and assistant assessors, which I quote in part:

"The Board of Review laid down some ground rules for abatement recommendations last February, which were difficult for you to follow and for us to keep track of, because some settlements have been made by the deputies prior to the arrival of the new Board of Review. All of these cases are now out of the way, as well as some that have been settled since the arrival of the Board which were in conflict with the suggested rules.

"With these facts in mind, effective September 1, 1960, the Board of Review will return all cases, whether withdrawals have been received or not, unless they comply with the following rules on which your cooperation is requested:

"1. (a) On each case there is to be attached, in duplicate (pencilled copies using carbon are good enough) a report on the form entitled 'Abatement Summary.' Please fill out properly. To say, e.g., 'abatement because property going downhill' is not enough. (b) Said form, as well as the recommendation for abatement on the application, must be signed by the assistant assessor in all cases. Any exceptions previously discussed are out, as it makes it too difficult to follow. I would like to mention that it is difficult to tell on some application forms whether the deputy assessor or the assistant assessor means denied or granted; frequently, both are crossed out. I would like each one to sign whether he approves or disapproves. There should be a statement by the deputy showing the Equalization Survey's recommended figure for the property.

"2. In most cases, the Board of Review is going to compile all the jackets, separate them into five sections of the city, and go over them in groups with the deputy assessor of each district in biweekly meetings before approving any settlements. If the proposed settlement does not meet with the approval of the Board of Review, after examination, the settlements will not be made.

"3. Abatement Summary forms must be filed with the chairman on cases settled at the Appellate Tax Board when the deputy returns from the Appellate Tax Board. The Board of Review should not be getting its first advice of the settlement from the attorney for the other side a month later when he is looking for his abatement slip. Daily reports and appraisal reports of cases settled at the Appellate Tax Board with the jackets attached are required to keep the Board abreast of things. They will then be returned to Mrs. June O'Callaghan, secretary to the deputy assessors, for filing to await withdrawals."

Abatement Trials

Another step taken by myself as chairman of the Board of Review under Mayor Collins is that in all cases involving properties assessed for more than a quarter of a million dollars, which are tried at the Appellate Tax Board, shall be tried under the formal procedure, rather than the informal procedure as was the custom in the past. The difference is that for all practical purposes there is no appeal to the Supreme Court under informal procedure trials. As of the first six months of 1960, we had filed claims for formal hearings on forty-four new cases.

Another procedure established under Mayor Collins has been for some of the full-time assistant assessors, after they finish their street work and their summer vacations, to do studies on all of the larger properties coming up for tax abatement review in the fall and winter. Very valuable assistance was thereby afforded by them in this connection.

With Mayor Collins' approval, I have drafted and had put into final form by the Law Department for filing, a bill in the Legislature, an amendment to chapter 59 of the General Laws, stating that no abatement for overvaluation shall be granted unless the application includes, under the penalties of perjury, detailed information as to the income and expenses and other important matters concerning the subject real estate. I have forwarded the said proposed bill to the newly-elected Representative Stephen A. Davenport, of Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, who formerly represented the City Law Department at the Appellate Tax Board in these matters for ten years. Mr. Davenport has agreed to file the bill. Mayor Collins does not see why any responsible citizen, owning real estate, would be unwilling to go along with this requirement. We are going to establish a departmental rule, to take effect when the Legislature passes this act, that if an abatement application has been filed without a similar statement under the pains and penalties of perjury, it shall not be acted upon by the Board of Review until a statement under oath is given by the owner or responsible person representing him.

Experts Engaged

With the approval of the City Council, which had the vision to see the necessity of doing so, the Mayor approved an increase in the department's budget for experts to fight tax abatement cases. The case which has received the most publicity was the trial of the South Station case, which lasted on and off for about six weeks and cost approximately $10,000 for experts to present the city's point of view and to battle the New Haven Railroad lawyers every inch of the way. With Mayor Collins' sanction, I obtained the services of an outstanding lawyer, Paul Mark Ryan, Esq., 75 Federal street, Boston, who was appointed special assistant corporation counsel, without salary, to handle this case from beginning to end, as a contribution from a member of the bar to Mayor Collins' fight for Boston. Mr. Ryan examined and put into the record, which, by the way, came to over 2,400 pages, every single item of income and expense of the South Station and expert testimony as to every inch of the property. He is to be publicly commended, regardless of the outcome, for having done an outstanding job.

We also obtained the services on a similar basis of P. Harold Ready, who was appointed special assistant corporation counsel, without salary, a noted lawyer in Northern Middlesex County, who has tried hundreds of cases and sat as master and auditor on hundreds of cases, and, in serving as an assistant district attorney in Middlesex County, tried a number of murder cases and the Concord Reformatory riot case of a year ago before Judge Frank Donohue, which trial lasted for several weeks. Mr. Ready served for ten years as the corporation counsel of the City of Lowell, and for twenty-five years as the town counsel of Billerica and several other towns in that area and had tried many Appellate Tax Board cases for those communities. Mr. Ready handled a number of cases for us, without fee, as a special assistant corporation counsel appointed by Mayor Collins on the same basis as Mr. Ryan. Both Mr. Ready and Mr. Ryan signed written affidavits under oath that they would not handle any tax abatement cases with the City of Boston while I am chairman of the Board of Review.

Another procedure that has been established during this administration is to welcome taxpayers who come up for pretrial before the Board of Review, without counsel. In such cases, the Board of Review does not have counsel present. In the cases where the taxpayer has counsel, the Board of Review has adopted the policy of having its counsel present in the pretrial hearings to debate the issues with the taxpayer's counsel.

Hardship Considered

Another policy established under this administration is in connection with applications for an abatement based upon hardship under the appropriate statutory provisions. In the past, hardship applications have been approved without checking with the Welfare Department to see if they are being given welfare money to pay the taxes and also have been approved without a medical certificate when the applicant is complaining of sickness. In the future, there will have to be a medical certificate on the applicant and on the other members of the family, who the applicant states are unable to support the house. Also, applicants will be checked to see whether they own any modern cars, as well as bank accounts. All these items are to be covered before the head social worker handling the case recommends tax relief.

It is interesting to note that according to a report of January 26, 1960, which I requested from John P. Doherty, executive secretary of the Board of Review, shortly after I became chairman, the following abatements were made: in the year 1955—speaking now in valuation dollars rather than in tax dollars—$121,523,300; in the year 1956, $125,852,600; in the year 1957, $175,722,300; in the year 1958, $95,618,100, and in the year 1959, $97,992,300. It is obvious from these figures that the Board of Review which was set up in 1958 under former Congressman Thomas A. Flaherty made a reduction of over 80 per cent in tax abatements in the year 1958 and 1959 over the abatements that had been granted in 1957, and a reduction of about 28 per cent over the years 1955 and 1956.

A Prediction

Let me close by making a prediction that the total tax adjustments made under Mayor Collins in 1960, based upon the performance in the first ten months of 1960 and an estimate of the remaining two months of 1960, will approximate less than $48,000,000 in assessed valuations, or a reduction of more than 50 per cent over what was done in 1958 and 1959, and I hope we may even improve upon that estimate. It is fairly certain that we will not go above that estimate.

Even with this accomplishment, adjusting of valuations is still a difficult problem for the City of Boston without an alternative source of revenue. When an attempt is made to value commercial and industrial properties at 100 per cent of their value, and it is being done on a volume basis, it is difficult to get an assessment that everyone will agree is 100 per cent of value, and not 80 per cent of value or 120 per cent of value.

Backlog

The Legislature, on March 25, 1960, denied the City of Boston the right to use the $3.8 million balance from its 1957 funding loan for tax abatements. As a result, more than half of the overlay appropriation for 1959 abatements has been granted in the amount of $35 million in assessed valuations by the previous Board of Review before the present Board of Review and Mayor Collins took office; this leaves the city in a position that tax abatements on 1959 cases, which have not yet come up for trial or review, and which will be coming up within the next two years, will, in some considerable measure, be reflected in the tax rate because of the defeat in the Legislature on March 25, 1960, of Auditor Joseph P. Lally's bill to use the $3.8 million balance from the 1957 funding loan to pay overlay deficits for 1957 and 1958, as well as 1959. The present Board of Review has had these facts very much in mind in cutting the tax abatements by more than 50 per cent in cooperation with Mayor Collins' fight for Boston. Much of this success is due to the cooperation of the employees of the Assessing Department, the encouragement of Mayor Collins, and the cooperation of some of the taxpayers.

By John H. O'Neill, Jr.

I am pleased to have been invited to this conference because I wish you to know that I am sincere in the hope that my remarks, in some small way, will indicate what we have done, and what we are trying to do in the interest of all of the people of the city.

First of all, as Administrative Assistant to his Honor the Mayor,

I'd like to tell you that we in the Mayor's office are just as human and understanding as you people in no matter what part of the municipal picture. Sometimes, we city employees are painted as people who cut corners. But, I believe, and I know, from my brief experience in city government, that the vast segment of our employees are dedicated, devoted, and conscientious people who could compete and surpass employees in positions in private and industrial employ. The Mayor is aware of the problem of the city employee. Our experience is that public commendation by mail and otherwise of municipal employee's efforts is constantly increasing.

Opportunity, Progress and Action

There's a "new look" in Old Boston. Most municipal experts agree that Boston has moved from a lethargic state to one of opportunity, progress, and action. His Honor the Mayor and his department heads, capably assisted by municipal employees, are the recipients of much favorable comment in the press throughout the nation.

Not only are we doing things—we are letting the nation know that Boston has rolled up its sleeves and is fast becoming one of the great cities in which to live and work. It was only a year ago that a national magazine condemned this city as suffering from "civic schizophrenia." However, last month this same magazine reversed its thinking and editorially predicted—(and I quote)—"Boston is at last on its way to the greatness it once knew."

Certainly, the display of faith as evidenced by this remark, plus the certainty of the future which responsible business organizations have displayed by capital investments of material nature, indicate that we are moving in progressive fashion not known to this community since the days of our forefathers.

Only Big City To Cut Tax Rate

The present administration must, of necessity, be commended for its part in this "new look."

What has the administration under Mayor Collins accomplished?

We were the only major city in the United States to cut our tax rate. A $16 tax hike was predicted by many when the Mayor took office. Through the efforts of Mayor Collins and his administration, of which you are a part, we were able to decrease the tax rate by 50 cents on each thousand dollars of valuation—and, incidentally, the first decrease in many years, as you know.

"Build A Better City"

At the same time, while the Mayor was instituting economies, municipal services and efficiency in administration were increasing by the use of businesslike methods, which, perhaps, at the time did not seem practical, but which have proved through the cooperation of business and municipal employees—good—workable—in the best interest of employee and employer—and will result in benefits to all.

Clean-up campaigns, inaugurated and implemented on a continuing basis by Mayor Collins, have paid dividends in the response of the citizens of our community with pride in what they possess and a desire on their part to improve their own neighborhoods.

Mayor Collins declared, when running for the office of Mayor, that he would "Build a Better City." I believe that any reasonable person cannot deny that progress is being made on that pledge. Prudential, the Government Center, West End Development, Whitney Street, plus private developments of over $550 million, both on the drawing boards and in progress, indicate progressive action.

Through the cooperation and enterprise of city employees, our old City Hall and annex have taken on the "new look." The city's historic shrines are now receiving much-needed attention. Urban renewal in the amount of $90 million will begin in the very near future indicating the perseverance of your municipal administration for betterment in cooperation with the federal government.

Hub Should Set Fashion

"Planning With People—For People" is the theme which the Mayor and his administration is following. Your help and cooperation are needed. We welcome them and we want them.

Problems will confront us all which will challenge our ability to solve. Mass transportation, adequate housing for people in all brackets, employment, and better services at lower cost—these are but a few of them. But solve them we will.

With the cooperation, thinking, and progressive action of people, like yourselves, in conjunction with economic, intelligent, and forward administration on our part, we will be a city with not only the "new look" but the city which sets the standard for other municipalities to follow.

Moderator's Closing Remarks

Our four panelists have given you a picture of the "new look" in Boston administration.

The common theme which the panelists have illustrated is that Boston is helping Boston. In the area in which it has the power to act, Boston is advancing.

Mr. O'Neill emphasized that the Mayor is building a better city, that capital investments of a material nature are evidence of progress and of faith in Boston. Meanwhile, Old Boston has been given a fresh look.

He pointed out that Boston was the only major city to cut its tax rate and did this despite a predicted $16 tax hike. Efficiency has been improved in the face of an economy program. And as part of the "new look," sustained clean-up campaigns have been inaugurated.

Mr. Coffey described his progress in several important areas, notably with the problems of the Prudential Center and Urban Redevelopment, with collecting delinquent taxes and other bills due the city and in protecting the tax base. Recognizing the importance of the Legislature to Boston's future, he proudly referred to the good work of his two legislative counsels—and rightly so.

Mr. Grimes pointed out that the Board of Review is making progress in protecting Boston's tax life line—that the amount abated in assessed valuations in just 10 months of 1960 was only half the comparable figure for 1959. He revealed abatement procedures have been tightened up. He revealed that two outstanding attorneys, Paul Mark Ryan and P. Harold Ready are working hard in Boston's interest without compensation.

Mr. Haley stressed the Mayor's austerity program and his success in holding the line on the tax rate rise. He pointed out the really remarkable progress his department is making in trimming its sails.

Our panelists have given us ample evidence that there is a "new look" in Boston administration—that Boston is helping Boston.

But it is obvious that Boston must receive outside help and that this help must come from the Legislature.

It lies beyond the limited powers of Boston to reduce the heavy tax burden upon its real estate by any substantial amount.

The city likewise is powerless to redistribute the MTA deficit on a fairer basis, or to obtain a fair share of state financial assistance, or to solve the problem of coordinating terminal and transportation facilities.

The solution to these and a number of other problems adversely affecting Boston and other municipalities must be provided by the Legislature.

While we have made progress in many areas, very little has been done at the State House in such important areas as Home Rule, Departmental Reorganization, the Tax and Distribution System, Relief to Real Estate, and in Transportation. There is no single element in the Massachusetts community to blame. We all must share this blame: the state government, the cities and towns, and the citizenry.

In approaching these legislative problems we come to the inescapable conclusion that Massachusetts must discard its horse and buggy timetable for progress. In terms of unfair MTA assessments, unfair MDC assessments, and relief to real estate, Boston is the victim of this horse and buggy timetable for progress. Important changes requiring legislation have come too slowly in Massachusetts. We live in an era of tremendous changes. We must adopt a new accelerated timetable for progress, which befits the jet age in which we live. We must move more problems forward to constructive solutions—and do it faster.

We can all help by making our efforts more productive and by facing up to issues which have gone unsolved year after year but the heavy share of the burden and responsibility for accelerating the timetable for progress rests with the Massachusetts Legislature.

We should therefore concentrate our efforts upon informing the citizens of the Commonwealth and the Legislature of Boston's demonstrated desire to help herself and of the economic need of the entire state for a revitalized, healthy Boston.

Mindful of the old proverb, "God Helps Those That Help Themselves" now that Boston is helping Boston, perhaps the time will soon arrive when further outside help will be forthcoming from Beacon Hill and Washington, D. C.

GARAGE PROFITS PAY OFF DEBT

San Francisco's underground Union Square garage, first facility of its kind beneath a public park, is expected to be returned to the city in the spring when the firm which leased it 20 years ago pays off the original debt.

The city treasury expects to receive at least $100,000 yearly from operation of the underground garage. Up until this time, the city has received $5,000 annually from the nonprofit Union Square Garage Corporation. The city paid the cost of restoring the park surface.

With the corporation returning the facility, the city will collect $60,000 a year from the garage operator, and 50 per cent of income.

MUNICIPAL SQUARES

Fine municipal squares like those in Stockholm, Sweden, and Oslo, Norway, Detroit, New Orleans, and San Francisco give tremendous lifts to cities and encourage the renewal of large areas surrounding them. Philadelphia's Mayor Richardson Dilworth told a citizens' budget committee.

The city's new Penn Square, he said, will be a great incentive to renewal of the section surrounding it and will pay for itself in the increased taxes from the downtown area. Philadelphia's plans call for a new $16,300,000 municipal service building, restoration of the city hall, and development of an open landscaped area.

TIRE CHALK ERASER GETS POLICE SUMMONS

In Minneapolis, a woman who neither drives nor owns a car was found guilty of overtime parking because she had erased a policeman's chalk mark from the tire of a parked car to prevent the owner from being ticketed.

The woman, police charged, had called the owner of the automobile, parked near the office where she is employed, and had offered to erase the mark if the car owner paid her one dollar. The owner agreed, but informed the police. Both were charged with overtime parking.

INNER BELT TO PRESERVE FENWAY ASSETS

Preservation of the natural beauty of the Fenway area in the vicinity of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts will be one of the prime objectives of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works in the planning of the Inner Belt Highway, which is also expected to relieve the Central Artery, located in downtown Boston, of the present heavy load of traffic, much of which is seeking to circumvent city surface travel.

8-Lane Segment

Plans for a $34 million, eight-lane segment of the expressway, to be designated as Route 1-695, have been submitted for approval of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads; it will begin at a traffic interchange connecting with the Southeast Expressway near the Boston City Hospital and run westward through Roxbury to merge with two additional sections, one of which will sweep through Cambridge and Somerville to join an expressway of the same type of construction which will start at City square, Charlestown. The Inner Belt will thus rejoin the Boston Expressway system at the artery, near the Mystic River Bridge.

Federal Funds

The Federal Government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of this new construction and the Commonwealth the balance, under provisions of the program of President John F. Kennedy, calling for a speedup of the interstate highway system and aid to unemployment.

The Test of Patrick

By Bob Aldrich*

In troubled times as these the test of Patrick,

His constant thrust against the scourge of darkness,

The scourge which made a vacuum of God's treasure,

And robbed the soul of all its priceless grandeur:

In troubled times as these the flame is lighted,

And with that light a man need fill his hours,

To turn toward God and find within His Wisdom

The path which courses from increasing shadow,

From world of clay to world of the celestial:

No times are these for man to idle on! Saint Patrick made no compromise with truth,

Nor did he seek appeasement with the snake!

The devil's fang he met with courage, strength,

And banished it forever from the land. The challenge we must meet as Patrick did,

With faith and fortitude and freedom's might;

And he who passed through Ireland's fragrant earth

Will shine as that compelling light of faith

In troubled times as these when shadows fall

And lengthen over righteous paths of peace!

Expressway end of the Inner Belt will be 12,000 feet long and will extend to Beacon street, near St. Mary's street. New surface roads to accommodate the heavy local traffic will be built in the vicinity of Simmons College, Boston Latin School, Boston English High School, Emmanuel College, Harvard Medical School, Children's Hospital, Boston Lying-in Hospital, and other institutions.

Sunken Road

The Inner Belt will proceed in the direction of its junction with the Cambridge segment without demolition of many of the area's churches, schools, and museums by sinking its roadbed as it enters the Fenway area. This 1600-foot section of the road will be covered with a concrete top to permit later landscaping and to further enhance the natural beauty of the area; also to be spared will be the famed Gardner Museum and Fens Stadium, an integral part of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department.

EXPENDITURE CONTROL—BETTER COLLECTION PROCEDURES

"Controlling Expenditures—Improving Collection Procedures" was the title given the sixth and last panel of the 1960 Conferama on Municipal Administration held November 17 and 18 at the Library Auditorium in Copley square.

Moderator for the panel was Clinton W. Bennett, C.P.A., of Cooley & Marvin, Management Consultants, Boston.

The panelists were:

Robert G. Curran, Administrative Assistant, Hospital Department.

John F. Fitzpatrick, Deputy City Auditor, Auditing Department.

John T. Leonard, Supervisor of Budgets, Administrative Services Department.

Mario Misci, Assistant Corporation Counsel, City of Boston.

The final panel report includes the remarks of the Coordinator of the Conferama, Lawrence W. Costello.

By Clinton W. Bennett

I am particularly pleased to note the inclusion in the program this morning of the topic "Controlling Expenditures—Improving Collection Procedures." This indicates an awareness on the part of the current administration of the City of Boston of the importance of sound financial and accounting procedures in the entire city operation. I have had a reasonable amount of experience in governmental activities at local, state, and national levels and perhaps the one point that stands out in my memory more than any other, as I recall those situations, is the too often failure on the part of those in responsible governmental positions to understand and appreciate the fundamental importance of sound financial and accounting operating policies.

Government is our biggest business in these United States of America in these mid-century years. And the trend seems to be towards bigger government because we the people seem to be constantly demanding more from government.

This is the sixth and last installment of the complete report of the Fifth Annual Conference on Municipal Administration in 1960.

Some of the promises for greatly expanded services that were made in the recent election campaigns without any apparent indication of how they would be paid for reminded me of what might be called an occupational disease suffered by many American business executives. This disease can be defined as "volumitis" and the victim tries to do enough business at a loss to make a profit. It is quite a trick and usually eventually catches up with the practitioner much to his sorrow.

Government Is a Business

There is no difference between government and business in the need for sound financial and accounting control. The first essential is to budget expenditures within anticipated income and to control the actual expenditures against these budgeted amounts. It makes no difference whether we are thinking of the City of Boston, the government of the United States, one of America's great corporations, or the corner grocery store. The fundamental principles of sound financial planning and control are basically the same in each instance. The principal difference is with respect to the ultimate results of failure to follow these basic principles. In business the company that fails to live within its income eventually prices itself out of the market and goes broke. The results are automatic and usually rapid. While the evil day may be longer deferred in the case of a municipality which fails to live within its income or to practice sound financial and accounting control, it eventually prices itself out of the market by way of excessive tax rates which not only drive residents and businesses out of the community but also discourage job-making businesses from coming in to the community.

Progress Noted

Fortunately substantial progress is being made in the way of improving accounting and financial control procedures in government. One organization which is doing much good work in this direction is the Municipal Finance Officers' Association. But much must be done in the way of educating the public in general to the fact that sound financial and accounting control is just as necessary in government as it is in business or in our personal daily lives. Feeling so strongly upon this subject I again commend the administration of Mayor Collins for the efforts being made in this important direction.

HOSPITAL FISCAL CONTROL

By Robert G. Curran

I am very happy to have been asked to appear on this panel today and tell you something about our views at the City Hospital as to how we can "Reduce Expenditures and Improve Collections."

I shall confine my remarks to the Main Hospital because I have limited knowledge of and association with either the Long Island Hospital or the Sanatorium Division. You have heard Mr. McGilivray and Dr. Sherman discuss their institutions in previous municipal conferences.

For the year 1960 the operating budget for the City Hospital was $14,601,382. Incidentally this amount is about a million dollars less than was allowed for the previous year of 1959. Don't let anyone tell you that we haven't felt the effects of the "Austerity Program" at City Hospital. We have felt it not only from a personnel standpoint but even more so from the standpoint of maintenance of plant and equipment.

Of this $15½ million which was spent last year, we were able to collect and return to the city the sum of $3,825,216. This money represents the total income of the hospital from all sources.

This then left a net operating cost to the city of $11,657,000, which is what it actually cost to operate your City Hospital during the year 1959.

Our objective is to decrease this gap between income and expenses. To reduce this operating loss, for it is a loss whether it is called a net operating cost or a net operating loss, is our goal.

How is this to be accomplished, particularly in this day of ever-increasing hospital costs? Obviously the gap can be decreased in only two ways. By reducing the operating expenses of the hospital and by increasing our income.

Rising Costs

I doubt seriously that we can operate the hospital at an annual budget of much less than we were allowed during 1959 and 1960. Hospital costs continue to rise. Personnel costs are higher in these days than they used to be when hospitals paid substandard wages. Our personnel costs represent approximately 78.72 per cent of our annual budget.

We have been following the prescribed "No Hire—No Fire" policy of the new administration. There is however a safe minimum below which we should not allow the staffing level of the hospital to drop.

The hospital is "many hands—many skills." It is estimated by the American Hospital Association that between 15 and 20 people in various hospital employee categories are directly concerned with each patient who is admitted. And between 25 and 30 additional people in other job classifications are indirectly associated with each hospital admission. So that in my opinion a "reduction in force," although such reduction may well represent a permanent savings in payroll dollars, is not the entire answer to the question of how to reduce operating expenditures.

Control of Staffing

We have been accused of being overstaffed and we are taking steps to correct the personnel budgets in departments which studies have shown to have more than the necessary number of employees. As of November 1 there were 297 fewer employees on the payroll of the Boston City Hospital than there were on the roll of January 1 of this year. So we have made considerable reductions in our expenditure in this very important area of our operations.

A significant reduction has been brought about in our budgeted expense for providing special nurse coverage. New hospital policies and rules now in effect are controlling the hiring of private duty nurses at hospital expense. This will result in an approximate savings to the city of $30,000 during the balance of this year. Yet, no patient who is unable to pay for a special nurse will be deprived of this care if such special care is absolutely necessary.

Our plans for the near future call for incorporation into the hospital of several "intensive care units." Our most critically ill patients will all be concentrated in these areas. Nursing care will be provided by our regular nursing staff assigned to these special units of the hospital. We look forward eventually to the elimination of special nurse funds from future City Hospital budgets.

Human Element Foremost

Automation is not nearly as easily accomplished in a hospital as it might be in private industry. Our areas for personnel savings are more limited. The great majority of daily work in a hospital cannot be done by any machines other than human machines. Very simply these tasks must be done by people, and people mean jobs. One very definite limiting factor in our particular situation at City Hospital is an older-type physical plant with many connected buildings of varying bed capacities. A physical plant of this kind does not offer too many ways in which to automate with more equipment and fewer personnel.

As an example of this let me say that we have in the hospital a total of 22 elevators, excluding dumbwaiters and the elevators in the Nurses' Residence and the House Officers' Building. Not a single one of these 22 elevators is equipped for modern push-button operation not requiring the services of an operator.

Phase II of our electrical conversion plan includes plans to automate a large number of these elevators. This will result in a considerable saving in personnel costs. We will need only a fraction of the number of elevator operators which we now must of necessity carry in order to provide the necessary elevator services in our large plant.

Efficiency in Laboratory

We have purchased expensive laboratory equipment after having proven that with the use of such equipment one laboratory technician can do tests which previously required three or four girls. And laboratory technicians in addition to being another hard-to-come-by group of hospital employees are also in a higher wage bracket than many other hospital employees. Here is a case where automation can effect personnel reductions.

Our X-ray developing equipment in addition to being the latest thing in speed and quality of developing (the X-ray doctor has a finished picture dry and ready for his interpretation in less than six minutes) requires the services of fewer dark-room employees in the X-Ray Department.

These are only a few examples of how we have been able to decrease personnel costs through the use of modern equipment. We hope to accomplish further savings in the future when sufficient funds are available to carry through our plant development program.

Seven-Day Operation

We must achieve reductions in numbers of personnel in departments where comparative studies show these departments to be overstaffed. This we have done and will continue to do. But the fact remains that ours is a 7-day, 168-hour-per-week business, open for business on weekends and holidays, and we must be adequately staffed at all times to meet all kinds of unexpected emergencies and disasters.

The remaining 21½ per cent of our total budget after personnel costs covers the operating costs of the hospital. In this nonpersonnel portion of our budget we are always looking for areas in which we can reduce our operating expenditures. Adherence to a sound, properly prepared budget can do much toward this end. The hospital budget is, in our opinion, an honest projection of our estimated needs for the fiscal year. When it is finally passed by the Mayor and the Council it serves as our guide for the 12-month period.

Other Cost Cuts

Our supply budget now runs between $3½ and 4 million a year. By sound contracting policies within the City Purchasing Department and close watching of requisitions for supplies in the hospital it is possible to live within the budget.

We have cut our annual postage bill in half since installing our postage meter in 1959. Controls on outgoing direct dial telephone calls have reduced our communication expenditure.

When the hospital steam supply is furnished entirely by the new South Bay incinerator we will have an annual savings of over $200,000. This represents the cost of the almost 40 million gallons of oil used per year by the Boston City Hospital.

A major reduction in expenditure will be realized with the final closing to patients of the old South Department buildings. The South Department kitchen was closed last year and most of the employees were absorbed into the Main Hospital Dietary Department.

Tuberculosis patients were transferred to the sanatorium and are no longer held at the South Department pending admission to the sanatorium. The Psychiatric Service and their patients were moved over to quarters in the Main Hospital and their ward was closed. A ward in the Children's Building is being altered to provide facilities for isolation care of children with contagious diseases. The pediatric patients will be the last group to be moved out of the South Department.

Physical Changes

The house officers' living quarters in the South Department will be consolidated into three buildings rather than being spread out in six buildings as at present. We will continue to provide maintenance and housekeeping services in these residence buildings. But the expensive business of housing, feeding, and providing sufficient staff to take care of patients in the South Department will be permanently discontinued. It is conservatively estimated that the annual savings to the hospital of closing the South Department to patient admissions will be in the order of approximately $300,000.

The City Hospital is criticized at times because of the large amount of research and laboratory work which is done here. Let me say for the record that without this research and laboratory work you would have a second-rate hospital, at best. We would not be able to attract and hold sufficient house officers to staff our medical, surgical and specialty services, and to run our tremendous Out-Patient Department clinics. Postgraduate medical education is a competitive field today. The house officers who apply for positions and are accepted at the Boston City Hospital come here with the knowledge that the teaching program here is second to none.

A hospital combines the three necessary factors of patient care, teaching, and research, all inter-related, each dependent upon the others, and provides the end product of service—service to the sick people who come or are sent to the hospital and who expect the best in medical care. This I am sure we are providing to the patients at the City Hospital.

I want to say also at this time that the three medical schools which are associated with the City Hospital are responsible for a significant reduction in expense to the city. Expense which would otherwise have to be borne by the city. Why is this true? Because the three medical schools in 1960 received a total of $1,118,346 in grants. This money represents a real savings to the city. This grant money, usually federal funds, pays numerous salaries and buys much costly medical and laboratory equipment.

I think in particular of an electron microscope costing close to $30,000.

This apparatus, plus the additional $17,000 expense of equipment and alterations in the area set apart for the electron microscope laboratory, is being paid for entirely out of federal government research funds. The electron microscope will be used by our staff doctors in the Mallory Institute. This and many other expensive pieces of equipment might otherwise not be available at our great City Hospital were it not for government money being granted to the medical schools and their clinical research people who are on our staff. It goes without saying that we could not purchase many $30,000 pieces of equipment out of an already overstrained equipment budget.

Federal Aid

Other approved federal grants amounting to several hundred thousand dollars will help to pay construction and equipment costs in several remodeling projects soon to be underway.

In addition to the money received in research grants, the medical schools paid salaries amounting to $677,000. These salaries are paid to their clinical and research people on our staff who are directly associated with the care of patients at the Boston City Hospital. In total the medical schools, through their research and teaching programs conducted at the City Hospital are administering funds amounting to $1,800,000 per year. This amount is expected to exceed $2,000,000 in the coming year.

Bill Collections

In the area of increased collections we know that we have been improving the picture of the hospital. Actually collections have shown a steady increase over the past eight years up to last years total of $3,825,000. Mr. Sheehan told you last year that our addressograph procedures were about to start. We have just completed our first full year of addressograph operation and indications are that our collections will be close to and perhaps over the $4 million mark by the end of this year.

We have put a group of newly-designed combination requisition and charge tickets into use. Mr. Sheehan's office is now processing close to 3,000 of these per day. Previously many of these charges were lost to the hospital. The charge simply did not get to the Billing Office. The addressograph system, plus the use of the new charge tickets has helped to improve this past situation. We continually stress to the nurses and doctors the importance of the proper use of these charge tickets. We want an accurate accounting of all charges for services rendered to patients. We need the income from the services which we are providing. This does not mean that the elderly patient on the ward who is on Old Age Assistance will have to pay a $1,500 hospital bill when she is discharged. But it does mean that we are becoming better able to show to Old Age, Blue Cross, and other third party agencies what it has cost the hospital to provide care for their clients. By so doing we will be able to work toward increased per diem reimbursements from responsible third party agencies.

Hospital Rates

For the past two years we have been conducting a study of our rates at the City Hospital. The last general increase was made in December of 1956. As of now we feel we have sufficient grounds to justify a request to the City Council for an increase in hospital rates sometime in 1961. In a large municipal hospital such as this we realize that our charges can never equal our costs. However, the charges can certainly be brought up more realistically to a point where they are closer to our costs. And by so doing we benefit by receiving a higher rate of reimbursement from those agencies which pay us on the basis of our costs or charges, whichever are lower.

It is expected that approximately $90,000 in accounts receivable will be collected on overdue accounts in the last six months of 1960. This collection is on accounts which are being handled by the Law Department in cooperation with the Hospital Department. This money is due to the city for services rendered to patients who attested to their ability to pay when they were admitted to City Hospital for treatment.

I.B.M. Equipment

Our I.B.M. data processing equipment has been received and the installation will be completed within the next few weeks. Current plans are to have the I.B.M. system in full operation by January 1. The use of the machines is expected to improve and speed up our billing procedure. We will be able to establish an accurate control of all patient charges, provide for accurate and uniform pricing of all charges, and to prepare by machine the patient bills showing detail charges and third party credits. Other hospital applications of the I.B.M. equipment will be in the area of statistics, analyses of charges by various hospital departments and services, inventory control, medical records, and personnel records.

It is our opinion that all of these things which I have discussed in this presentation indicate that we at the Boston City Hospital are making a continual effort to reduce expenditures and to increase our collections.

CONTROL OF EXPENDITURES

By John F. Fitzpatrick

The encumbrance system in operation at the City of Boston Auditing Department is the starting point in the control of city expenditures.

All purchase, service, and non-service orders are encumbered for the amount requested against the proper budget items. In the process of encumbering these orders, some departments will show a debit balance against their appropriations. The orders that are responsible for the overencumbering of the items are immediately withheld and placed in a suspense account. The head of the department involved is then notified to the effect that because of insufficient funds in his budget, the orders cannot be paid. In such instances, until funds are provided, no action is taken on the withheld orders.

The continual check of balances is a safeguard against overspending. The Purchasing Division, in issuing orders, is bound by law to call for contracts on all orders issued by them totaling $2,000, or more. When such an order is written, the executed contract is recorded at the Auditing Department. All payments associated with this contract are recorded on the contract card. Thus, the total amount of payments acts as a check against overpaying on the contract.

In addition to the above-type contract, there are the departmental contracts. These contracts are encumbered for the full amount. As soon as the first estimate of payment is received, an extensive audit is performed; and the payment applied against the encumbrance reduces the contract, and reflects the unexpended balance. In connection with contract payments, great care is taken to be certain that no further payment can be made after the expiration date of the contract. The final payment is liquidated against the balance, and it then becomes paid in full.

Standard Invoice Form

With the creation of the standard invoice form, an additional control is applied in connection with the payment of encumbered orders. This is a function of the Examining Division of the Auditing Department. The standard invoice mailed to the Auditing Department by the vendor contains the order number and the budget item to which the invoice is to be charged. The invoice is then compared with the order and the order with the receiving notice. The receiving notice is retained by the department involved until the material is delivered or the services rendered, at which time it is then forwarded to the Auditing Department with the approval of the department head authorizing the payment together with the amount he approves. The next step is checking the computations, additions and discounting, the quantity of goods, the use of such goods, the unit price, weights, delivery slips, and whether it is within the amount for which the order was encumbered. Invoices for services must be fully itemized as to labor and material and transportation charges. If the transportation charges are not incorporated on the order they are deleted from the invoice. Further, if the invoice is for $2,000 or over, it must be supported by a contract. Wages stipulated on the invoice are not accepted unless they are within the prevailing rate paid in commercial enterprises. Price books are referred to in order to ascertain the prevailing unit prices for various trade equipment and supplies. The examiner, having satisfied himself that payment is in order, records the payment on the order. If the payment is a partial one, the amount of the payment is liquidated against the total encumbrance. Future payments are handled in the same manner until the final payment is made. At this point the order is liquidated for the balance of the encumbrance and the order is fully paid. In the course of this examination of the invoices, the material or services furnished or rendered must be properly charged to the budget item of the department budget. It may also appear that the purchase, although properly authorized, is an unusual one; for example, a purchase in very large quantity, or the use of a great amount of labor. Such cases are referred to the department head for an explanation. Until such time as a satisfactory explanation has been received, the invoice and order are withheld from payment. In many instances, the vendors submit their invoices to a cash discount of 1 or 2 per cent. The city is willing to take advantage of this discount only if it is 50 cents or more. It has been proven that to accept discounts in amounts of less than 50 cents costs the city more than the total amount of such small discounts.

A final item in the examination of invoices is the charge for cylinders and containers. Thousands of dollars are paid by the city for the purchase of goods that are contained in various types of cylinders and containers. All of these containers carry a charge of from $1.50 to $5 each. As a precautionary step against loss of cylinders, a record is kept showing the amount charged against the city together with refunds made on returned cylinders. At different periods the department involved is requested to state the number of containers on hand and when the last credit was received for those returned.

Petty Cash Accounts

The Collector-Treasurer at the present time has receipts in the amount of $42,000, representing advances to various departments for the purpose of setting up and establishing Petty Cash Accounts in those departments. Such accounts are established only upon the request by the department to the City Auditor. The request states the need for such an account and if approved by the Auditor for the stipulated amount, the account is set up. Most Petty Cash Accounts are set up for small emergency payments. Disbursements from this account are forwarded to the Auditing Department on the standard invoice nonorder form. The invoice is encumbered for the amount charged against the various budget items. These accounts are carefully examined and reviewed for articles purchased and the amount paid for such article. Should there appear an item of an unwarranted nature, payment would not be in order. Here again, the questionable item is referred to the department head for an adequate explanation. If the Auditor is not satisfied, the item is removed from the invoice.

Payroll Classification

The Classification and Compensation Plan for payrolls has been a great control in itself in regard to payroll expenditures. Salaries are established according to grades and each grade carries a different salary. Before any change in rating or salary can be effected, proper authorization to do so must be in the form of a letter. These letters are approved by the Director of Administrative Services for appointments, Director of the Budget for Transfers of Appropriations, Director of Personnel for salary and rating, and the State Department of Civil Service. The salaries of personnel are provided in the budget in the 100 and the 110 items, Item 120 being for overtime. As each weekly, semimonthly, and monthly payroll is audited, it is charged off against these items on the payroll requisition. Shortly after the close of the month, every department receives a statement showing the condition of its balances. If any item for payrolls is running low, the departments involved are notified to that effect. Should a payroll be submitted without sufficient funds to cover it, it would be withheld until sufficient funds are obtained to meet it as well as for those for the balance of the year. Incidentally, any additional funds must be provided for from within the department's own appropriation. The summary statement issued after the close of the month serves to keep department heads informed of their balances. If funds are running short, such condition is immediately called to the attention of the department. All such shortages must be adjusted before the next payroll period arrives. Overtime pay requires considerable vigilance, as the conditions for authorizing overtime are never quite predictable. However, unless there are sufficient funds in the 120 item, no overtime payrolls can be paid.

Postaudit Staff

In the various functions of the Auditing Department, I have stressed controls operating before payment. The Postaudit staff of the Auditing Department, under the direction of the City Auditor, performs audits of all departments and submits its report of the audit with recommendations and comments to the Auditor. This function, in addition to being very essential, enables the Auditor to see what additional controls are necessary for the future.

Finally, the statute laws, the city charter, and ordinances place mandatory controls upon the city in the manner of expenditures. One such provision is that no department head can exceed his appropriation at any time. The working controls of the Auditing Department are set up to prevent any such overexpenditure of a department's appropriation.

I feel that with the controls exercised in the City Auditor's office for the disbursing of city funds, together with the standard accounting procedures instituted and in operation, the Auditing Department carries out a dedicated task and duty through its ever-watchfulness of the manner in which city funds are being spent.

MAKE UP OF THE CITY BUDGET

By John T. Leonard

The City of Boston from the beginning of its corporate existence in 1822 made use of what is known as the "lump sum budget," which meant that appropriations were voted in total for each department or main division of a department. The advantages of this system appeared to be that it allowed heads of departments and the mayor the widest discretion in the expenditure of the appropriations; that it made a short and simple budget; and that, so far as the City of Boston was concerned, no one had suggested the advisability of a change. On June 7, 1915, the Boston City Council passed an order which was approved by the then Mayor James M. Curley, appointing a commission to investigate and report upon "the expediency of adopting a segregated form of budget for the departments for which the city makes appropriations from taxes or revenues." As a result of this, the new segregated budget first appeared in form during the fiscal year 1916. Although many refinements have been made on this type of budget, we still use the line item or segregated form within our current budget. Our coding has changed over the years as many of you "senior" listeners will recall. Remember: A-1, Permanent Employees; B-4, Transportation of Persons; C-4, Motor Vehicles; D-2, Food and Ice; E-1, Building Materials, and the H item?

Classified Budget Began in 1935

A classification of budget appropriations by objects of expenditure in pamphlet form was prepared by the City Auditor Charles J. Fox in 1935 in order to standardize the procedure for all departments. Up to this time, the 1,800 plus items which represented commodities and services purchased by and performed for the city were largely given orally in codes and as a result, different interpretations as to their proper charge would occur in the several departments. Because of modern accounting machine installations, this standard classification of expenditures has been modernized and kept up to date with existing equipment being used in the Auditing Department.

The "Hoover Commission" in 1949, in Washington, recommended that the whole budgetary concept of the federal government should be refashioned by the adoption of a "performance budget" based upon functions, activities, and projects. The performance or program budget analyzes the work of municipal and governmental departments and agencies according to their major functions, activities, or projects. It thus concentrates upon the general character and relative importance of the work to be done, or the service to be rendered, rather than upon the things to be acquired by the departments or agencies, such as personal services, contractual services, supplies, materials, equipment, and so forth. These latter things are only a means to the end. The all important consideration in budgeting is the work or service to be accomplished.

Budget Form Revised in 1954

In 1954 the City of Boston undertook to change over to a program type of budget. An administrative reorganization in which the number of departments was reduced from 34 to 19, along with the installation of the first personnel classification and compensation plan in the city's history and finally the setting up of the Administrative Services Department all played an important part in expediting the new budget change-over. Today, our budget analysts maintain a constant liaison between their assigned departments and the Director of Administrative Services. They are available at all times to assist departments in any way. Budget control is exercised over all departments constantly by the budget staff in seeing that purchases and services have available funds, that they are proper charges, and were requested in the original budget estimates.

In the future, when our new city hall and government center are a reality, we hope to introduce electronic data processing into our accounting and budgetary systems. A feasibility study is now being made regarding this. Electronic data processing is the ability with high speed computers of storing information in so-called "memory-cells," on cores, discs, tapes, and so on. It would be possible, with this new media, if the need justified it, to furnish each department with a daily statement of balances in department budgetary codes within one hour. Even though the machine might be engaged in an entirely different operation, such as payroll processing, because of its random access features, we would have simultaneously, the ability to obtain the up-to-the-minute balance in any budgetary account.

Computers Hope of Future

The United States Air Force in Denver, Colorado, recently set up the papers for 535,000 reserve personnel on 10 reels of magnetic tape. The papers (four to each man) would originally have stretched six miles end to end. These are updated daily. Under the old manual system previously employed it took 22 minutes to extract a bit of information from an officer's record. Assuming a thousand of these requests daily the total job would consume 367 man hours. While engaged in other subjects or functions, the computer can at the same time, do the entire job in 17 minutes. This sounds fantastic, but remember the paper tape reader used in connection with the system operates at speeds of 1,000 characters per second. In the annual assessment of officers for promotion, the computer selects and prepares the list of eligibles for consideration by grade breakdown; and, if favorably passed upon by the review board, enters the promotion on each officer's magnetic tape record file. In addition to these record-keeping tasks, the system prepares labels for mailing 330,000 copies monthly of the "Air Reservist" magazine and 20,000 copies quarterly of the "Medical Training" bulletin. The computer also handles queries from such agencies as the Veterans Administration on a same-day basis, heretofore an impossible job.

There are many "bugs" to be ironed out before we will step into this new, modern phase. The primary factor is cost. It is expensive: costs running up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. There are several types of electronic data processing equipment on the market today. Conversion and implementation will take time, but it will be a step forward. Possibly a centralized room would be the ideal solution for locating this equipment in the new city hall. Among some of the items, I feel, which can be accommodated are: budgetary appropriation accounting, payrolls, taxes, licenses and permits, check reconciliations, etc. Electronic data processing is certainly not limited to the financial departments alone. With the use of tapes the capacity of storage of all kinds of data becomes endless. Such tasks as maintenance of property records and real estate ownership records for uses by Assessing and Collecting Departments; changes and trends in the population for use by our Redevelopment Authority Planning Division; criminal records for the Police Department, and vital statistics for the Health, Hospital, and Registry Departments, are just a few of the record-keeping functions that could be easily performed by electronic data processing.

I believe this will be the answer to a more stringent control over expenditures. It probably will appear expensive in the initial stages but, as time goes on, the expense involved will be amortized by the savings effected and the efficiency attained.

In addition to the saving in time and personnel, the saving in card filing space and also in the use of punched cards, is tremendous. Bear in mind that under the new system, the information that used to be on cards, or a series of cards, will be stored on a disc of tape.

Each year the city is faced with the dilemma of increasing demands for expanded services and yet shrinking areas of obtaining revenue. I feel in the near future, we will reach the turning point toward a broader tax base, more efficiency in government operation, and ultimately maximum benefits should accrue to our city, its employees, and our citizens.

I thank you!

COLLECTION METHODS

By Mario Misci

The ultimate aim and purpose of any discussion dealing with improving collection methods must necessarily be twofold. First, to prevent excessive accumulation of uncollected taxes, to the end that the municipality will have maximum cash available, thus reducing the need for borrowing; and, second, to avoid losses which are often sustained by reason of lapse of time. Since my work is largely in the field of real estate taxes and tax titles, I shall confine myself to this phase of the subject.

It can safely be said that practically every city and town has some accumulation of unpaid taxes and some tax titles, so our primary consideration should be the seriousness of the situation by comparison with other municipalities. As of January, 1960, the average ratio of uncollected taxes in tax title to total real estate tax levy in Massachusetts cities was under 1 per cent; and in towns the average was even lower. In the City of Boston, with a total real estate tax levy of approximately $145,000,000 the tax titles amounted to about $7,000,000, or approximately 5 per cent of its tax levy.

Tax Delinquency Causes

The excessive real estate tax delinquency in Boston results, to a large extent, from the well-known ills with which the city is afflicted, such as the high tax rate, with its adverse effect on market values—and blighted areas, in which mortgage money and fire insurance are unavailable. It is in the blighted areas that the greatest amount of tax delinquency arises and spreads rapidly. I have an abiding conviction that the challenges presented by these problems have been recognized and met with a determination to improve the conditions; and with improvement along these lines, tax delinquency will be substantially lessened.

One might well say that real estate tax delinquency should not, per se, be alarming because tax titles are in the nature of secured accounts receivable, and the eventual redemption of them with interest and costs added will make the city whole, so to speak. The difficulty, however, is that many are not redeemed because by the time the city catches up with the owner, the total arrearage in the taxes exceeds the market value of the property. In order to understand how such situations develop, some procedural explanation is necessary. If, for example, real estate taxes for 1960 are unpaid on a parcel of property, the collector will take a tax title in 1962. He has until October 1, 1962, to take it. The city must then wait two years before it can proceed to foreclose it, consequently there are four years' taxes accumulated, and a fifth imminent, before court action is in order. Delay on the part of the city in taking action, court delays, and tactical delays by owners, can result in additional years' taxes being added on. It is imperative, therefore, that the remedies afforded the city by statute for collection of unpaid taxes be speedily invoked in order to prevent situations where total arrearage in taxes exceeds the market value of a parcel of real estate.

City In All-Out Drive

Since January, 1960, the city has been on an all-out drive to reduce the present delinquency in real estate taxes and to prevent excessive delinquency in the future. Success in our present efforts will result in greater measure from speedy and vigorous prosecution of the present remedies and methods, rather than from any improved methods of collection.

Disposition of pending cases is proceeding at about four times the rate of last year, and new cases are being entered in court at the earliest time permitted by statute. In addition to this, a method of foreclosure never heretofore employed by the City of Boston has been adopted with respect to parcels of land of low value. This procedure is speedy, and the cost to the city is about one fifth of the usual foreclosure cost. It is hoped to expand this method of foreclosure to include all vacant land with a value of $1,000 or less.

REMARKS OF COORDINATOR

By Lawrence W. Costello

I would like to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the several city officials and many employees in various city departments who contribute so much time and effort annually to the success of these "Conferamas."

To Dr. Lord, John Connelly, Frank Moloney, Tom Manning, and George Scully of the Library Department, who are responsible for our attractive surroundings, including the excellent exhibits displayed around the Hall; to Bill Gibbs and Marco Sullo of the Printing Section for their program design which, I believe you will agree, is as good or better than any such document produced by private industry; to John O'Neill, Administrative Assistant to the Mayor, for his cooperation in supplying the coffee break refreshments.

Thanks Expressed

To John Kane, to John Scully, and Miss Donnelly in my own office I am grateful for their sincere and conscientious efforts; to those employees in the Planning Department and the Retirement Board who contributed their services on several occasions, I am also grateful.

To the moderators and the panelists who have devoted both valuable time and special effort, in each instance, to their presentations, more especially those individuals who have no direct connection or association with our city government, including Neil P. Fallon of the U. S. government office of Civil and Defense Mobilization; Charles A. Coolidge, President of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; the well-known Jesuit Priest, Father Seavey Joyce of Boston College; Thomas McLernon, General Manager of the MTA; Bob Davidson of the Port Authority; Bruce Campbell of the Massachusetts Safety Council; Frank Zeo, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers Associations; Clinton W. Bennett, CPA; to all these generous and civic-minded gentlemen, I am doubly grateful. And last, but not least, his Honor the Mayor and the Director of Administrative Services, both of whom have given us their wholehearted support and their encouragement.

Although we have had some interesting and informative presentations in the past, nevertheless, I believe that you will agree that this year's program will be difficult to top in the future. The development of these programs is largely in the hands of you, the participants, with the Administrative Services Department providing the coordinating function. We have high hopes for beneficial results from these annual "Conferamas" and welcome your suggestions, ideas, and comments, which, I assure you, are of great assistance to us in the planning for future "Conferamas." And, if you will keep in touch with us during the interim between these annual meetings, it will be most helpful to us in bringing to your attention some of the problems or subjects in which you might have a particular interest.

Hub Takes On "New Look"

With Boston taking on a "new look," with the prospects of a new City Hall, a new Auditorium, the West End and South End developments, the Prudential development, the new State office buildings, the new Federal building, the Whitney Street development and many others, we have much to look forward to in the immediate years ahead and, with your continued cooperation and assistance, we shall not only fulfill our aim to make Boston a better place in which to live and work but shall return Boston to the select circle of the more progressive and prosperous cities of the world—a distinction she has enjoyed for many long years in the past.

CHIEF DRISCOLL

Flags on all firehouses in Boston were lowered to half-staff on Tuesday, March 7, as a final salute to retired Chief of the Fire Department, Leo C. Driscoll, who died at his home at 58 Whitten street, Dorchester, on Saturday, March 4, 1961.

Chief Driscoll entered the city fire fighting force on May 28, 1927, and was assigned to a harbor fireboat, being promoted to Lieutenant in July, 1937, and to Captain in January, 1942. He advanced to District Chief in May, 1944; Deputy Fire Chief in August, 1950, and to Assistant Fire Chief in Charge of Personnel and Training in April, 1955. At the time of his retirement, February 1, 1960, as Chief of Department, he had been the top-ranked uniformed officer of the Boston fire fighters since September 5, 1956.

Chief Driscoll was a veteran of both World War I and World War II and a nationally recognized authority on large city and marine fires.

Accordingly, the Finance Commission wishes to express its position in relation to House Bill 1760 which is currently before your Committee. This bill provides for the taxation of lands of the Massachusetts Port Authority which have been leased or occupied for business purposes. The Finance Commission wishes to go on record in support of this bill.

There has always been merit in the contention that when property which enjoys a tax-exempt status is leased or occupied for business purposes it should be regarded as surrendering its right to tax exemption and thereupon become taxable.

Now, there may be not only moral argument to support this view but legal precedent as well. In a recent decision handed down by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court (The Atlantic Refining Company, Commonwealth, intervener, vs. Assessors of Newton) the Court affirmed the "decision of the Appellate Tax Board that the board of assessors of the City of Newton had validly assessed to Atlantic the 1955 real estate tax on a gasoline station, restaurant building, and the associated site, on a limited access highway, Route 128, held by Atlantic as lessee from the Commonwealth."

Much of Boston's limited land area has already been pre-empted by the Commonwealth and public agencies and authorities and placed on a tax-exempt basis. The activities undertaken by these tax-exempt uses serve an area which extends far beyond the confines of the City. This situation can not be altered very readily.

Under the terms of House 1760 various lands of the Massachusetts Port Authority, leased or occupied for business purposes, would become taxable by the municipality in which they are located. The list would include various airport lands, lands lying under the Mystic River Bridge, and other leased properties.

The recent Supreme Court decision may be in point in seeking to make such leased properties taxable. However, if it is not, then the needed direct approach is provided by this bill.

The Finance Commission, therefore, respectfully requests that your Committee act favorably on House Bill 1760.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY J. YOUNG,
Chairman,

ROGER J. ABIZAID, M.D.,
MAXWELL B. GROSSMAN,
JOSEPH P. McNAMARA,

The Finance Commission.

Automotive Vehicles

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Invitation to bid on proposals for furnishing automotive vehicles (five sedans) to the Fire Department was advertised in the City Record. Subsequently, bids received were publicly opened and read in this office on February 24, 1961.

Bowers Motor Sales, Inc., was the lowest bidder; however, their bid was irregular in that both copies of their bid were deposited in this office. It is therefore requested that permission be granted me to reject all bids received on the public opening and award a contract, without public advertisement, to Bowers Motor Sales, Inc., on the basis of the price submitted by this company at the public opening. It is my opinion that the best interests of the city will be served by awarding the contract as requested.

Approximate total amount of contract will be: List price, $10,055.95, less trade-in allowance, $1,125—$8,930.95—net.

Respectfully yours,

MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT.

Buildings Removed

DEAR SIR:

Under date of October 31, 1960, I informed your Honor that the houses numbered 106, 108, 110, 112, 114, 116, 118, 120, and 122 Camden street, Ward 9, were in an unsafe and dangerous condition and that they had been condemned by me. I further stated that despite notices from this department the owners had neglected or refused to abate the dangerous conditions.

On November 9, 1960, your Honor approved the award of a contract to the Lyons Wrecking Company for the removal of these nine buildings. Invitation bids had been solicited from five responsible wrecking companies, and the Lyons Company was the lowest in the sum of $5,391 or $599 per building.

Work on the contract has been in progress. It now appears that when the party wall between No. 104 and No. 106 was exposed in the process of the work, that the party wall itself, and the front and rear walls of No. 104 are in such poor condition that that building cannot be saved. The same condition exists toward the other end of the block. The party walls, front and rear walls of Nos. 124, 126, and 128 are in a dangerous condition and it has become impossible to save these buildings.

The Lyons Wrecking Company is now at the site, with all necessary equipment. It is neither practical nor efficient to solicit bids for this additional work. There are serious practical difficulties in the way of allowing two or more different contractors to work in a constricted area. Accordingly I have asked the Lyons Wrecking Company for estimates on the removal of these four buildings and they have agreed to remove Nos. 104, 124, 126 and 128 for the same unit price as was bid for the remaining buildings in the block, or $599 each. The price appears to be fair and reasonable.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval of adding the demolition of the four additional buildings at Nos. 104, 124, 126, 128 Camden street to the existing contract with the Lyons Wrecking Company at a unit price of $599 each, total increase on contract price $2,396, without advertising, as required in the City Charter. I also call to your Honor's attention that the department is without funds to pay these charges, but I feel that the situation does not admit of delay.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

DEAR SIR:

Under date of October 31, 1960, I informed your Honor that the houses numbered Nos. 106, 108, 110, 112 Marcella street, Ward 11, were in an unsafe and dangerous condition and that they had been condemned by me. I further stated that despite notices from this department the owners had neglected or refused to abate the dangerous conditions.

On November 9, 1960, your Honor approved the award of a contract to the E. Polcari & Son Building Wrecking Company for the removal of these four buildings. Invitation bids had been solicited from five responsible wrecking companies, and the Polcari Company was the lowest in the sum of $3,690.

Work on the contract has been in progress. It now appears that the party wall between No. 112 and No. 114, exposed in the process of work, is in such poor condition that the building cannot be saved.

The Polcari Company is now at the site with all necessary equipment. It is neither practical nor efficient to solicit bids for this additional work. There are serious practical difficulties in the way of allowing two or more different contractors to work in a constricted area. Accordingly I have asked the Polcari Company for an estimate on the removal of this building and they have agreed to remove it for $875. The price appears to be fair and reasonable.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval of adding the demolition of the additional building at 114 Marcella street to the existing contract with the Polcari Wrecking Company at a price of $875, without advertising, as required in the City Charter. I also call to your Honor's attention that the department is without funds to pay these charges, but I feel that the situation does not admit of delay.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Central Burglary Alarm Service

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On March 31, 1961, the annual contract with the American District Telegraph Company for protection service at the Washington School Building (Department of School Buildings Headquarters), 26 Norman street, Boston, will expire. The present contract renewable annually has been in effect for two years.

The company has notified the department that due to increased operating costs it is necessary to increase the annual contract five per cent (5%), in order to continue the service which is expected of them. They have quoted, therefore, a renewal figure of $1,867.25, with the understanding that this figure would remain the same for the next two years.

In view of the fact that the equipment of the American District Telegraph Company is already wired in place at this building and there are many thousands of dollars worth of school equipment and furniture which require protection service and such services as have been furnished by the American District Telegraph Company for many years, it is not felt any gainful purpose would result in publicly advertising.

Therefore, I request that you authorize me to negotiate a contract, without advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 60 State street, Boston, Mass., for central burglary alarm service at the Washington School Building, 26 Norman street, Boston, Mass., for the period April 1, 1961, to March 31, 1962, in the amount of $1,867.25.

Respectfully yours,

CHARLES A. CALLANAN,
Superintendent of Construction.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Snow Removal

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On November 8, 1960, bids were opened in the Public Works Department on contracts for snow removal work in various districts of the City of Boston.

No bids were received in District 10, Roxbury, and inasmuch as time is of the essence, I have negotiated with several contractors. Land, Inc., 9 Main street, Peabody, has agreed to accept a contract at a unit price of 90 cents per cubic yard which, in my opinion, is a fair price.

Accordingly, it is recommended that a contract for removing snow and furnishing labor and equipment for the purpose of supplementing the department forces and equipment in connection with the work of keeping highways and streets open following snowstorms be awarded in District 10 to Land, Inc., 9 Main street, Peabody, Mass., without advertising, at the unit price of 90 cents per cubic yard.

Respectfully yours,

JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR INITIATES PLAN TO AID CITY'S IDLE YOUTH

A nonprofit charitable foundation, "to promote the education and training of worthy young men and women in the trades, business, and commercial pursuits," is being established by Mayor John F. Collins and several leading citizens, it was announced on March 22 by the Mayor's office.

The foundation, the first of its kind in the country, would be a major step in the city's campaign to aid its idle youth and do something to curb school dropouts and at the same time help boys and girls to learn a useful occupation.

According to the U. S. Department of Labor only 5 per cent of the jobs available now are unskilled and by 1968 only 2.5 per cent will be unskilled and yet 40 to 50 per cent of the youngsters in the country drop out of school before graduating, and without any skill.

Mayor Collins in announcing the plans said: "After considerable study and thought, we have decided to have several outstanding citizens, along with Mr. James A. Travers, Director of the Youth Activities Bureau, and myself, incorporated as a Charitable Trust known as Youth Educational Assistance, Inc."

Effort Called "Yea"

"Through YEA we hope to raise enough money to send selected youths, both boys and girls, to commercial trade schools—an entirely new approach to the problem of school dropouts.

"Every day we hear of new scholarship plans, or appeals, for students wanting to go to college, but I have never heard of any scholarship assistance for a boy or girl school dropout or even high school graduate to learn a useful trade such as professional cook, electrician, plumber, radio technician, and so on.

"Our evening trade school has a limited capacity, limited additionally by restrictions placed on the federal money used to finance it. Boston has been recorded with the U. S. Senate asking that federal aid to trade schools be liberalized so the student won't be required to be currently employed in the trade he wants to study."

The Need is Great

"We believe there are hundreds if not thousands of idle boys and girls, good boys and girls for the most part, who desire and deserve an opportunity to attend a non-academic school to learn a trade and become useful citizens, only they are unable to afford it.

"We will give first consideration to those boys and girls the Youth Bureau's workers come into contact with, arrange for vocational testing and evaluation and then if they prove to be sincerely motivated and deserving of financial assistance we will place them in one of our commercial trade schools. Those referred to us by established agencies or individuals in youth work will also be given consideration."

Total of 114 Claims Against City Is Disapproved

In recent months the Law Department has disapproved a total of one hundred and fourteen claims against the city, Corporation Counsel Arthur G. Coffey announced on March 14.

Of these claims seventy-three were filed against the Public Works Department arising from alleged personal injuries or other loss sustained through defects in city streets and sidewalks.

Disapproved claims against other departments were as follows:

Building Department, one; Election Department, one; Fire Department twelve, Health Department, one; Licensing Board, two; Parks and Recreation Department, four; Penal Institutions Department, two; Police Department, seven; School Buildings Department, one; School Department, five, and Traffic Department, two.

The Incorporators

In addition to the Mayor, the other incorporators will be:

John P. Gately, of Jamaica Plain, Boston insurance executive.

Dr. Ray Johns, of Newton, General Secretary of the Boston YMCA and Chairman of the Youth Activities Bureau Advisory Committee.

Dr. Agnes C. Lavery, of Brighton, retired Boston school principal, member of Advisory Committee on Service to Youth, and a member of the Youth Activities Bureau Advisory Committee.

Attorney Henry M. Leen, of Dorchester, prominent Catholic layman and Chairman of Committee for Civic Unity.

James A. Travers, of Roxbury, Director of City of Boston Youth Activities Bureau.

Attorney William H. Wolf, of Newton, Chairman, Detached Worker Committee Jewish Community Center, and a member of the Youth Activities Bureau Advisory Committee.

It is expected that Mayor Collins will be chairman and Mr. Travers will be secretary-treasurer of YEA.

An Advisory Committee, consisting of leaders from the fields of education, labor, and business, will be appointed as soon as YEA is formally established.

NEW YORK TO EXPAND SHAKESPEARE THEATER

New York City is planning to expand its annual outdoor Shakespeare festival program to include ballet, concerts, and opera.

A $225,000 permanent outdoor stage and arena is planned by the city for Central Park. A $20,000 sound system will be installed to eliminate echoes. There will be 2,300 seats rising in bleacher-style before the Elizabethan type stage.

ISLAND RETREAT

In Houston, Texas, a real estate firm sought to lease from the city an eight-acre island in Lake Houston for 50 years for $1 a year. The firm plans to build a causeway to the island from the lake shore along which a subdivision is being developed. On the island is to be a clubhouse and swimming pool. The city would maintain two acres on the island as a park.

TRAFFIC RULINGS

The Traffic Commissioner has promulgated the following rulings:

Whereas, If during construction of the Lieut. William F. Callahan, Jr., Tunnel, vehicles were to be allowed in North street and Sun Court street, Boston Proper, and stopping, standing or parking of vehicles were to be allowed in said streets, conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative, such construction would be substantially impeded; and

Whereas, The Boston Traffic Commission has taken no action on the matter because notice of the precise method of the prosecution of the work of such construction was not received in the Boston Traffic Department in time for a traffic engineering study of the matter to be presented to the last meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission; and

Whereas, Such construction is to commence March 20, 1961; and

Whereas, A meeting of the Boston Traffic Commission is not scheduled to be held before the commencement of such construction; now therefore

Pursuant to the power vested in me as Traffic Commissioner of the City of Boston by St. 1929, c. 263, s. 2B (as inserted by St. 1957, c. 253, s. 5), I hereby promulgate the following rules and regulations to take effect forthwith and to be operative only until the completion of such construction or the expiration of one month from the date hereof, whichever is earlier:

For the period aforesaid, the following rules are effective:

North Street, Boston Proper.

From Lewis street to North square.

Sun Court Street, Boston Proper.

From Moon street to North street.

Stopping, standing or parking of vehicles is prohibited in the following streets when and where official signs are in place:

North Street, Boston Proper.

From Lewis street to North square.

Sun Court Street, Boston Proper.

From Moon street to North street.

Whereas, An emergency exists for that such an amount of snow has accumulated on the streets, ways, highways, roads and parkways under the control of the city that there is a serious public hazard substantially impairing transportation, the movement of food and fuel supplies, medical care, fire, health and police protection and other vital facilities of the city; and

Whereas, If during the continuance of such emergency vehicles were permitted to stop, stand or park conformably to the rules and regulations of the Boston Traffic Commission otherwise operative the hazard aforesaid would be substantially increased; and

JANUARY WELFARE COST $467,802 LESS THAN DECEMBER DUE TO ACCELERATED PAYMENTS

Following is the January statistical report of the Welfare Department:

¶ Departmental expenditures for January amounted to $3,000,478. This is a decrease of $467,802 from the previous month. The reason for the smaller expenditure was that vendor payments for medical care were accelerated during December. Direct payments to clients remained fairly constant. Regarding the caseload, there were 972 applications approved and 1,061 cases closed, a drop of 89. The total caseload as of the end of the month was 25,181.

¶ Old Age Assistance: With the transfer of medical cases to Medical Assistance for the Aged, expenditures for Old Age Assistance were $1,043,776. Almost 90 per cent of the grants were in the form of direct payments to clients in their own home. There was a slight drop in the caseload primarily due to the death of the recipient.

¶ Medical Assistance for the Aged: This new category of public assistance also showed a decrease in the caseload. The average cost per case for January was $210.76. For the most part, the clients in this category are in nursing homes, chronic hospitals, and public medical institutions. There were 2,823 clients who received grants amounting to $594,968.

¶ Aid to Dependent Children: Although there were 4,953 cases receiving assistance during the month, the total number of individuals aided came to 17,113. The average cost per case for the month was $159.89. There were 106 approvals and 115 closings, reducing the end of the month caseload to 4,883.

¶ Disability Assistance: The cost for this program was $413,816 distributed among 3,192 persons for an average of $129.64 for January. There were 27 transfers from General Relief and 28 transfers to Medical Assistance for the Aged and Old Age Assistance. Of the 138 applications processed, 77 were approved and 61 rejected or withdrawn.

¶ General Relief: This category was the only one showing an increase in caseload. There was a total of 655 applications serviced; 598 approved and 57 disapproved. Of every 10 applications approved, 9 were due to unemployment. The openings were counterbalanced by 576 closings resulting in an increase of only 22 cases. There were, however, 257 applications pending at the end of January as compared to 219 on the first day of the month.

FANEUIL HALL TO GET FACE LIFT BY PARK DEPARTMENT CREW OF ARTISANS

Artisans and mechanics of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department, on March 22, started cleaning and sandblasting of the grimy brick of the ground floor exterior of historic Faneuil Hall, Boston's most nationally famous building. It was this same group that embellished the fronts of City Hall and the Annex last summer.

The brick cleaning and the removal of the unused fixtures that have been affixed to the walls over the years by the operators of the meat stalls at the ground floor of the building are preparatory to the painting of the marquee that surrounds the first floor and all of the exterior trim and entrance. The cost of the painting will be borne by a Chamber of Commerce Committee that is raising a fund among its members for this purpose.

Business Firms to Foot Bill

Just as soon as the exterior of the ground floor is cleaned and painted, says Patrick B. McGinnis, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Committee, as well as chairman of the Mayor's Faneuil Hall Commission, additional money will be raised through the Chamber members to pay for repainting the trim above the ground floor as well as the steeple.

Cooperating with the Parks and Recreation Department in upgrading the appearance of the venerable structure is the Public Buildings Division of the Real Property Department.

Encouraging the city also in the rehabilitation of the exterior of the building is the Boston Faneuil Trail Committee, headed by Edward Berenson. It is the hope of the latter that the work on the building will be completed in time for the visit to Faneuil Hall of the thousands of tourists that are expected here this spring and summer from all sections of the nation.

FREEDOMLAND

What is heralded as the world's largest entertainment center has been opened just a half hour from Times Square in New York. In an area of 205 acres, in this United States-shaped park, are concentrated many of the scenes and events of the nation's background, realistic and packed with action. Many natural wonders have been transplanted to Freedomland—scale-sized forests, Rocky Mountains, western plains, and miniature Great Lakes.

THE TEXAS WAY

San Antonio, Texas, is training 3,500 city employees in public relations. Thirty-minute classes are held every other week, on city time, with every employee required to attend. The personnel director and the public information director prepare class material with sessions split evenly between information and public relations subjects. Each department head is a co-ordinator and is responsible for the training within his department.

Classes were moved ahead recently when a power service charge was put into effect. Entire sessions were devoted to informing city employees of the new charge.

In weeks when there are no classes, co-ordinators and officers survey the plan. In the spring, officials plan to hire a professional team to determine the effectiveness of the program.

BUSINESSMEN RALLY TO MAKE UP BOSTON ARTS FESTIVAL DEFICIT

Boston business leaders, on March 28, made quick response to an eleventh hour appeal of the tenth annual Boston Arts Festival to make up a $36,000 deficit in its 1961 budget.

At a dutch treat luncheon in the Parker House, Mayor John F. Collins made a strong plea for final subscriptions to make up the $200,000 required to stage the far-famed exhibit in Boston Public Garden. The festival this year runs from June 9 to June 25.

Of the $164,000 thus far pledged, $68,000 was promised by private citizens; $40,000 is the estimated revenue from people who will make contributions while attending the festival; $17,000 will come from the recording industries and musicians union; $15,000 from the City of Boston; $14,000 from the exhibition's catalogue, and $10,000 from special gifts.

At the luncheon, Mayor Collins stated as follows:

¶ You know a city by the cultural company it keeps and Boston keeps good company. The Museum, the Symphony are in the top ranks in the country.

¶ What is encouraging about Boston is that it is not content to rest on these considerable cultural laurels. Ten years ago we started a Boston Arts Festival. It has been envied, emulated, and copied by cities all over the country.

¶ Even after ten years, no other city can say that once a year, in the very heart of the city, it provides an opportunity for every man, with no cost but an admission ticket of personal curiosity, to see, hear, and enjoy the arts of our time.

¶ This is the kind of project no city can pay to do. It must earn it from the dedicated and selfless citizens in its midst.

¶ We can be proud of the Festival as a community effort, because it brings into a common harness, all elements of the community. All elements contribute, and all elements obtain a large dividend from the investment of their time, talent, energies, or money.

¶ Certainly, the city profits. The core city, as businessmen have advocated for years, must produce excitement and facilities beyond the means of the satellite communities that surround it. The Festival certainly does this.

¶ It brings thousands of people into the downtown area to shop and use the city's services.

Promotes Tourism

¶ It promotes tourism—the state's third largest industry.

¶ I don't have to remind you how important tourist dollars are. They contribute to our taxes, buy goods and services, and we don't have to provide schools or hospitals for them, or other costly services.

¶ The Festival, through its reputation and publicity, reminds tourists of us, and brings them here earlier.

¶ By its very nature, the Festival promotes the livability of Boston, and attracts the kind of individual we need to man and staff the specialized industries that contribute so much to our economic livelihood.

¶ Year by year, the Festival grows stronger, bigger, and better. I look upon it as a major contribution to our Boston of today.

Money Well Spent

¶ It is a wise investment for the city. We have a habit of stretching the dollar. The Festival people are superlative Yankees by this standard. They work on a 50 cent dollar. By which I mean they make a 50 cent piece do a dollar's work.

¶ In nine years, the Festival has brought the arts of our civilization to over 3½ million people, and spent $800,000 to do it. With no endowment, reserves, or regular income, the Festival organizers have achieved this with a cumulative deficit of less than 3 per cent. This year, with your help, they will reduce their cash debt to the point where it equals their slowly and carefully acquired capital assets.

¶ This is all no mean achievement. It is to the credit of Boston. I hope you will enjoy the Festival's dividends this summer in the Public Garden from June 9 to 25. I hope you will, like the city, feel moved to invest in it, and keep the dividend rate as high as it has always been.

10,000 SMALL SCHOOLS IN NATION

In Crooked Finger, Oregon, residents voted 22 to 20 against consolidating with a larger neighboring school district. Pupils will continue to answer the call of a bell rung in the old-fashioned tower of the neat white 70-year-old one-room school.

Nearly 10,000 one-room schools still are in use in the nation, according to the Wall Street Journal. In Oregon it was found that in 80 elementary school districts, the average annual cost of operating a small school was $481 per pupil compared with an overall average cost of $416.

Two Convalescent Home Sites Win Approval

The Health and Building Commissioners, on March 27, issued the following notice of decision:

¶ In accordance with the provisions of chapter 488, Acts of 1924, as amended, the Health Commissioner of Boston and the Building Commissioner of Boston, after public hearing, held on Tuesday, March 21, 1961, in the Building Department Hearing Room, 1002B City Hall Annex, Boston, Mass., have made the following determinations with respect to the cases listed below:

¶ Donald Dickerman, for the Easton Development Corporation. Application for permission to erect a new convalescent home in premises, 405 River street, Ward 18, Mattapan.

The commissioners have determined that the establishment of a convalescent home in the subject premises will not be detrimental or injurious to the residential character of the neighborhood, and said application, consequently, is approved.

¶ The Frank Wood Home for Convalescents. Application for permission to erect an addition to an existing convalescent home in premises, 1135 Morton street, Ward 17, Dorchester.

The commissioners have determined that the erection of an addition to the existing convalescent home in the subject premises will not be detrimental or injurious to the residential character of the neighborhood, and said application, consequently, is approved.

¶ Chapter 193, Acts of 1959, further amending chapter 488, Acts of 1924, as amended, provides that any person aggrieved by a decision of the said commissioners may, within thirty days of notice thereof, appeal to the Board of Appeal of the City of Boston.

HEARING SCHEDULED FOR GOVT. CENTER LAND TAKING

The Boston Redevelopment Authority, on March 29, approved the following memorandum submitted by Edward J. Logue, Development Administrator, with respect to the government center project early acquisition:

¶ The first step in undertaking an early acquisition program under state and federal law is the holding of a hearing by the Redevelopment Authority in order that evidence may be received and a finding made that the area is eligible for early acquisition activities. Under the law the Authority must give not less than twenty-eight days' notice of such a hearing.

¶ Attached is a proposed notice of hearing which, upon authorization by the Authority, could be placed in the City Record on April 1.

¶ I would suggest to the Authority that the hearing be held Monday, April 24 at 7 P.M., at Room 436, State House.

¶ At that hearing the Authority staff will present evidence to support the findings required under law. In addition, I would propose that the Authority make available a residential relocation report not less than ten days prior to the hearing and have available by the same time a business relocation policy statement for the information and guidance of firms which will be replaced in the project area.

¶ I plan to submit a draft residential relocation plan and a draft business relocation policy statement in advance of the April 12 meeting of the Authority.

¶ Mr. Robert McGovern, the Real Estate officer, informs me that he has in hand approximately one half the appraisals and expects to have all, or nearly all, by April 15. As soon as a sufficiency of appraisals are in and have been reviewed by the Real Estate officer, we will be in a position to complete the application for temporary loan.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

January 24.

General Order No. 861.

Patrolman William E. Clarke of Division 4 is hereby commended for meritorious police duty and is granted three days' additional vacation.

About 3.10 A.M., Tuesday, January 10, 1961, Patrolman Clarke, while examining doors in the rear of the buildings on Washington street, near West Brookline street, heard the sound of breaking glass from the direction of West Dedham and Washington streets. He immediately proceeded to Washington street and observed only one person in the area, a man on foot crossing West Dedham street and walking in the intown direction.

Patrolman Clarke followed this man who stopped a few feet beyond West Dedham street. The officer, obscuring himself from the man's view by stepping into a doorway, saw this man look about in all directions and then retrace his steps toward the officer. The man finally entered the doorway of Neelo's Restaurant, 1475 Washington street, where he was seized by the officer. Then the officer saw that the plate glass window in the entrance of the restaurant was broken and questioned the subject who denied any knowledge of it. However, the tenant above the premises called down that he had seen this man break the window, whereupon he admitted he had just broken same to enter the restaurant to steal money. Patrolman Clarke placed him, Charles Nickerson, 32 years, married, of 14 East Brookline street, Boston, into custody as a suspicious person, breaking and entering in the nighttime.

As the result of further questioning at the station, Nickerson confessed to breaking and entering other locations, usually using the modus operandi of breaking the glass of the front door or entrance window and then retreating to a vantage point to ascertain if he was observed or the police notified. If there was no response, he would then return, enter the premises and steal money and merchandise. Nickerson was taken in a sector car around the division and pointed out the following locations as premises he had entered:

A-1 Auto Body Company, 9 East Springfield street, November 4, 1960.

Del's Sandwich Shop, 50 East Newton street, November 12, 1960.

Carol's Luncheonette, 205 Harrison avenue, January 7, 1961.

Dairy Queen, 1640 Washington street, January 9, 1961.

Tony's Spa, 712 Harrison avenue, January 10, 1961.

Nickerson stated he had broken into several other locations, but due to his drunken condition at the time of the breaks, he was not able to recognize and identify them.

In Boston Municipal Court on January 11, 1961, Charles Nickerson was charged with the above crimes and probable cause was found. He was held in $10,000 bail for the grand jury.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness, devotion to duty and intelligent manner in which Patrolman William E. Clarke brought about the arrest of this criminal, thus removing from this city for a time at least an individual who would have continued to break into and steal from establishments during the early hours of the morning.

General Order No. 866.

Sergeant Joseph G. McGill, Patrolmen Henry Chapski and Robert Fitzgerald, Division 16, are hereby commended for the performance of meritorious police duty and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

At about eight o'clock on the evening of Sunday, January 15, 1961, Sergeant McGill and Patrolmen Chapski and Fitzgerald responded to the report of a burglary at 827 Boylston street, city, where they were informed by the occupant of apartment No. 1 that while he was out from 5 P.M. to 7.45 P.M. that date, his apartment was entered by forcing a rear window leading from a fire escape. He stated that jewelry valued at $1,587 had been stolen from the premises.

While obtaining the facts of this crime, the officers heard a woman making loud outcries from the adjacent building, to which location they immediately proceeded, through the front entrance. Here, on instructions from the sergeant, Patrolman Fitzgerald took a position at the rear of the building while Sergeant McGill and Patrolman Chapski searched the building to determine where the cries were coming from. On the third floor they located the victim, who informed the sergeant that she had been robbed at the point of a knife of over $7 in U. S. currency and then raped by a man who had fled the apartment through a window onto the fire escape.

Sergeant McGill and Patrolman Chapski went onto the fire escape and observed a fleeing form descending. They pursued this suspect to the ground floor where, with Patrolman Fitzgerald, they took him into custody.

At Station 16, the prisoner first used an alias but later was identified as Joseph J. Balter, age eighteen years, of 67 Bailey road, Scituate, Mass. On his person was found the jewelry taken in the break at 827 Boylston street and the money taken from the victim next door, who identified him as the person who had robbed and raped her. Balter has a record dating from 1957 of larceny, breaking and entering and attempted breaking and entering and has been on parole since December 3, 1960, parole to expire October 2, 1964.

In Central Municipal Court on January 17, 1961, complaints were granted against Joseph J. Balter for breaking and entering a dwelling in the nighttime, armed robbery and rape. All charges were continued to February 1, 1961, and bail was set at $30,000 double surety.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the devotion to duty of Sergeant McGill and Patrolmen Chapski and Fitzgerald as evidenced by the manner in which the above case was investigated and the suspect promptly apprehended after the commission of these serious crimes.

SNOWSTORMS SWEETEN AIR

New York's air-pollution rate dropped sharply during Mayor Wagner's ban on nonessential vehicles in the city because of the heavy snowstorm last month, the press reports.

Arthur J. Benline, commissioner of the city's air pollution control board, said recently that during the ban the highest reading for carbon monoxide at a laboratory was one third of the maximum reading for January. This was so, he said, even though temperature inversions on five of the six days of the ban normally would have resulted in extremely high pollution.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT. Guard Service

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request the approval of your Honor for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to A. F. Publicover & Co., Inc., 25 Pemberton square, Boston, Mass., for the furnishing of guard and patrol service at the Central Library building for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962. The rate will be the same as last year and the cost of this service for the period of this contract will not be in excess of $12,900.

It is the opinion of the trustees that the nature of this work is such as not to lend itself to public bidding. A. F. Publicover & Co., Inc., was selected after a thorough examination of five companies in the guard and patrol protection business. At the present time this company is providing the required guard and patrol protection service in the Central Library building. The trustees have therefore:

"Voted, That Milton E. Lord, Director and Librarian of the Public Library of the City of Boston, be, and hereby is, directed to request the permission of the Mayor to award to A. F. Publicover & Co., Inc., 25 Pemberton square, Boston, Mass., the contract, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement in the City Record, for furnishing guard and patrol protection at the Central Library building in Copley square, Boston, for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, at a per diem rate of thirty-five dollars ($35), for the reason that the services being of a professional nature do not lend themselves to such advertisement; and further

"Voted, That Milton E. Lord, Director of the Public Library of the City of Boston, be, and hereby is, authorized and directed in the name and behalf of the Trustees of the Public Library of the City of Boston to execute said contract in quadruplicate."

Inasmuch as the total cost for this service will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is requested permission of your Honor to enter into this contract without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Inspection Service

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of a service agreement, without public advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 60 State street, Boston, for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, for furnishing inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Central Library building. In 1951 the equipment for the system was installed by the General Alarm Corporation. On September 1, 1955, the assets and service obligations of the General Alarm Corporation were taken over by the American District Telegraph Company. Inasmuch as the servicing of this equipment can be obtained only from the American District Telegraph Company, the trustees have therefore

"Voted, That there be entered into with the American District Telegraph Company, 60 State street, Boston, a service agreement for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, for furnishing of inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Central Library building, the total fee for such service not to exceed one thousand four hundred and ninety-two dollars and five cents ($1,492.05)."

Although a written contract for this service is not necessary inasmuch as the total cost will be under two thousand dollars ($2,000), it is believed desirable in this case to have a written contract because of the nature of the work involved.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Rental of Premises

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The trustees respectfully request that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with Toffe G. Kando for the rental of the premises located at 275 Washington street, Dorchester. These premises have served as quarters for the Mt. Bowdoin Branch Library since 1929. The lease will be for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962. There will be no change in the rate of rent, which will be in the sum of three thousand six hundred dollars ($3,600). It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with the Woodside Realty Corporation for the rental of the premises located at 18 Barnes avenue, East Boston. These premises have served as quarters for the Orient Heights Branch Library since 1929. The lease will be for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962. There will be no change in the basic rate of rent. The rental will be four thousand dollars ($4,000) plus "additional rent" of eight hundred seventy-eight dollars ($878). It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

For the purpose of this lease the "additional rent" referred to is defined as that sum of money by which the real estate tax on the premises assessed for the year 1961 exceeds the 1949 real estate tax. It is further agreed that until such time as the real estate tax rate for the year 1961 is finally determined, the sum of eight hundred seventy-eight dollars ($878) shall represent the "additional rent." Further, if the 1961 real estate tax as finally determined should be less than the 1949 real estate tax, no "additional rent" shall be payable and the lessor covenants and agrees to pay the lessee the difference.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Storage of Books

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of an agreement with the New England Deposit Library for the storage of books and other library materials for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962.

The New England Deposit Library building is located at 135 Western avenue, Allston. The institution was created by action of the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under the terms of chapter 240 of the Statutes of 1941. The act names the Boston Public Library as a "Participating Institution" together with the Massachusetts State Library, the Boston Athenaeum, Boston College, Boston University, Simmons College, the Massachusetts Historical Society, and other libraries, for the purpose of providing storage space for books and other library materials for which there is only occasional use and for which storage space is not available in intensively used library buildings. The "Participating Institutions" share cooperatively in the low-cost housing arrangements provided by the New England Deposit Library in accordance with a schedule of rates standard for all "Participating Institutions."

The trustees have set a limit of $9,145.50 on the amount to be expended for storage space for the period of the agreement. The trustees have therefore

"Voted, That there be entered into with the New England Deposit Library, 135 Western avenue, Allston, an agreement for the rental during the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, of storage space therein for books and other library materials belonging to the Boston Public Library, in accordance with the rates for storage space formally adopted by the governing board of said New England Deposit Library."

Inasmuch as the total cost of the storage space will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this agreement without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Rental of Premises

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with Leonard Kahn for the rental of premises located at 161 Harvard avenue, Allston. These premises have served as quarters for the Allston Branch Library since 1939. The lease will be for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962. There will be no change in the rate of rent, which will be in the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000). It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Classified Reports

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of a service agreement, without public advertising, with the Service Bureau Corporation, 50 Franklin street, Boston, for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, for the preparation of classified reports from punched record cards furnished by the library in connection with the expenditures for books and other library material. During the period of the agreement the cost of the service will be approximately $2,300.

It is believed that no useful purpose would be served by obtaining competitive bids. Not only would a disruption of the record keeping system of the Library's Book Purchasing Department result from the transfer of the work to another concern, but an investigation of the rates charged by other companies rendering similar services indicated that no saving would result from such transfer. The trustees have therefore "Voted, That there be entered into with the Service Bureau Corporation, 50 Franklin street, Boston, a service agreement for the period April 1, 1961, through March 31, 1962, for the preparation of classified reports from punched record cards in connection with the expenditures for books and other library material, the total fee thus charged to be subject to terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said agreement."

Inasmuch as the total cost for this service will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this agreement without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY
OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,
MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

ACTING FIRE COMMISSIONER

The Mayor has approved the following:

DEAR SIR:

Your Honor's permission is hereby requested to have Assistant Fire Chief William A. Terrenzi sign the payrolls of the Fire Department for the four-week period beginning March 21, 1961.

The reason for this request is that many times it is necessary for the Fire Commissioner and the Chief of Department to be absent from the Headquarters Office on department business; and, as the payrolls should be signed immediately upon completion in order to prevent a delay in paying the employees, the foregoing procedure is necessary.

Respectfully yours,

H. A. SCAGNOLI,
Fire Commissioner.

NATIONAL COMPETITION FOR CITY HALL DESIGN

The most creative architectural minds in the nation will be put to work for Boston in a nationwide competition in the design for the new $20 million city hall to be located in the Government Center.

Mayor John F. Collins, before a gathering of civic, professional, and business leaders in the Hawthorne Room of the Parker House, announced, on April 4, that the competition will draw upon an extraordinary treasury and variety of talent, much greater than any single architect could offer. He said that the competition should excite sustained interest and curiosity and at the same time produce widespread favorable publicity for the City of Boston.

The competition, Mayor Collins said, is open to all established architects residing in any of the fifty states. It will be a two-stage competition. At the end of the first stage, eight semifinalists will be chosen. These finalists will then offer more detailed submissions which will be judged by a group of seven officials, four of whom will be architects and three prominent Boston laymen.

Necessary information regarding the competition will be prepared during April and May by Professor L. B. Anderson, professor of architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who is the Government Center Commission's professional architectural advisor.

The Mayor said that with Professor Anderson's help the conditions of the competition will be drawn and be ready by the first week in June. Semifinalists will be chosen in August and the official architect for the project will be selected late in December.

It is contemplated that the competition will provide $5,000 compensation for each of the seven semifinalists and $10,000 to the winner. The over-all cost of the competition will be in the neighborhood of $75,000, the Mayor said.

The Boston Society of Architects, Edwin T. Steffian, president, went on record in favor of the national competition by a margin of twenty to one.

Chairman Robert M. Morgan of the Government Center Commission said the competition was recommended to "attract the ablest architectural talent of our country to procure a design in which we and future generations may take great and justifiable pride."

Harold D. Hodgkinson, representing the Committee on Civic Progress, declared:

"This unique program is certain to provide the proper blending of architectural design to insure the best redevelopment of Scollay square. Greater municipal economy and better public service can be achieved through the modern facilities of a new city hall."

Charles A. Coolidge, president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, said that the business community looks forward to the new city hall and its attendant influence on the downtown area.

"The blending of modern and historic architecture," he added, "will make the central city commercially more attractive and will provide facilities for efficient and economical city government."

William H. Dolben, Jr., president of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, said:

"This shows that Boston is making every attempt to do something about self-improvement and is pursuing the initiative in sparking the rebirth of the core of the Commonwealth."

"An appealing city hall can be a symbol of attraction for revenue-producing building in the Center and constructive actions by the city and state are the key to the remaking of Boston and the answer to its imperative need for tax changes."

Maynard L. Harris, chairman of the board of the Boston Municipal Research Bureau, termed the competition "a clean-cut technique for tapping the nation's outstanding architectural talent to handle the design for the new city hall."

Davis E. Moeser, president of the Retail Trade Board, told the Mayor: "We are with you and your administration in the way you have approached this problem."

ORAL POLIO VACCINE METHOD TO HAVE BOSTON TRYOUT

Dr. F. Robert Freckleton, on April 6, stated as follows:

¶ During the week of April 24, the Boston and the Brookline Health Departments will be the first communities in Massachusetts to begin a controlled field study project using oral polio vaccine. This will be done on a very limited basis. The vaccine to be used is the strain developed by Dr. Albert Sabin and is being produced and supplied by Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc. The purpose of the project is to study in further detail the effectiveness of oral polio vaccine as a means of producing polio immunity. The lots of vaccine to be used have been produced in accordance with requirements of the National Institutes of Health. The entire program will be under the control of skilled and qualified technical advisors and consultants.

¶ The oral vaccine is a live virus which has been modified for the purpose of producing immunity without producing clinical illness. In this respect, many authorities expect that a vaccine of this type will be even more effective than the dead virus vaccine now in use.

Volunteer Basis

¶ The oral vaccine will be given on a voluntary basis at a limited number of clinics to about 3,000 Boston residents and 1,000 Brookline residents between the ages of 7 months and 40 years. In Boston, clinics will be held by appointment at the East Boston, the Harvard Street, the Savin Street, and the Whittier Street Health Units and the Columbia Point and the Bromley Park Housing Projects. In Brookline, clinics will be held by appointment at the Stephen G. Train Public Health Center, 11 Pierce Street, Brookline.

The Procedure

¶ The liquid vaccine will be given in three doses, Types I, II, and III, by mouth one month apart. Laboratory tests will be necessary when the vaccine is given. Those wishing to receive oral polio vaccine will be asked to consent to the taking of blood samples and rectal swabs. Study of these samples will tell whether or not a person is immune to the different polio viruses. Those receiving the vaccine will be told how much protection they have against Types I, II, and III of the polio viruses. Further details on clinic times, locations, and appointment arrangements will be announced shortly.

The Advisory Committee

¶ A Technical Advisory Committee has been established for the project. Members of this committee are as follows:

¶ Dr. Geoffrey Edsall, Superintendent of the Institute of Laboratories, Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

¶ Dr. Nicholas J. Fiumara, Director of the Division of Communicable Disease, Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

¶ Dr. William Schmidt, Head of the Department of Maternal and Child Health, Harvard School of Public Health.

¶ Dr. Ralph E. Wheeler, Head of the Department of Microbiology and Virology, Tufts University

Salk Vaccine Continues

¶ Boston and Brookline residents participating in this study will be among the first in New England to receive oral polio vaccine. It is only through research studies such as this that the oral vaccine eventually will become available to everyone. "Until that time, the only protection against polio is the Salk vaccine series of three injections plus a booster," stressed Dr. F. Robert Freckleton, Boston's Health Commissioner, and Dr. Leon J. Taubenhau, Director of Public Health, Brookline Health Department.

SALT DAMAGE

An Akron patrolman's death from a bullet fired by a burglary suspect resulted in the city's paying $25 to a resident for damage to his garden. The police had spread salt over a garden spot to melt snow so that a search might be made for the bullets used in the killing. The salt, it was said, had destroyed the usefulness of the garden.

EVERY HOUSEHOLDER IN THE CITY MUST NOW ROLL OUT HIS OWN BARRELS

With the commencement of the new refuse collection contract service on April 1 all residents of the city will be required to set out their barrels for collection. The special and costly barrel-rolling service formerly provided to one third of the city is thus eliminated.

Temporary inconvenience was anticipated by Public Works Commissioner James W. Haley, in the areas affected. However, once the adjustment is made, trash removal services in the areas affected will be precisely the same as those prevailing throughout the rest of the city, he said.

"In view of the city's fiscal condition," Mr. Haley said, "it is unfair and unfeasible to require all of the city's taxpayers to pay for special services provided to only one third of the city."

Litter Control Effort

In commenting on the new trash removal contracts Commissioner Haley stated that special effort would be made to control the litter resulting from careless trash pickup on the part of the contractors and from the use of improper and illegal trash receptacles on the part of some unthinking people.

To aid in maintaining a cleaner city, the commissioner said, regulations concerning the use of illegal receptacles will be strictly enforced.

Only proper receptacles and securely tied bundles will be taken.

Over-filled barrels, improper receptacles, loosely tied bundles, and loose paper bags are illegal and create dirty streets. They cannot be handled without leaving substantial residue and litter. Therefore, the trash contractors will be instructed not to take them, and those responsible for putting them out will be prosecuted under the provisions of the anti-litter law.

Garbage Collections Separate

"I want to emphasize," said the commissioner, "that the illegal use of 55-gallon drums as trash receptacles will not be allowed." He indicated that wherever changes have been made in refuse collection days notices have been distributed in the communities affected.

Residents must now put their barrels out before 7 A.M. on collection days to insure that their trash will be collected. Barrels put out too late cannot be collected until the following regular collection day.

Garbage will continue to be collected as in the past and must not be put out with the rubbish.

"I am convinced," said the commissioner, "that with firm policing of our trash contractors, with close cooperation from the citizens of Boston, we can and will have more effective trash removal leading to a cleaner and healthier city."

April Schedule of Polio Clinics Announced

Dr. F. Robert Freckleton, Boston's Health Commissioner, has announced the April schedule of polio clinics sponsored by the Boston Polio Inoculation Committee. He again urged that Boston residents get their polio shots before the polio season begins. The full polio inoculation series consists of three shots plus an annual booster. All Boston residents—adults and children, regardless of age—should get their polio shots now.

As at the previous polio clinics, those able to make a donation of $1 may do so, but polio shots will be given to Boston residents whether or not a donation is made.

The schedule for April polio clinics is as follows:

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

February 1.

General Order No. 869.

The following notice has been received from Massachusetts Blue Cross-Blue Shield, advising that effective April 1, 1961, their rates are being increased. Applications will also be accepted at this time for new members or for changes in coverage.

BLUE CROSS-BLUE SHIELD REOPENING.
CITY OF BOSTON EMPLOYEES.
WEEKLY PAYROLL.

The annual reopening period for city employees to enroll in Blue Cross-Blue Shield will be from February 6 to February 10. This will be your only opportunity for a full year to enroll as a new member or to increase your coverage. The effective date of new memberships and changes will be April 1, 1961.

The rates which are charged employees of the city are largely determined by the amount of premium received as it compares with total claims paid. Because of an improvement in your group's experience, we are pleased to announce a reduction of 3 per cent in your Blue Cross rates. However, because of steadily rising use and periodic expansion of benefits, an increase in Blue Shield rates is necessary for City of Boston employees and all other Massachusetts Blue Shield groups. This is the first increase in basic Blue Shield rates since 1952. Then, as now, the cause was periodic expansion of benefits and steadily rising use of benefits by Blue Shield members. To determine what your new deductions will be starting March, please refer to the accompanying new rate analysis.

Whereas Blue Cross-Blue Shield subscription charges are due in advance, the rate adjustment will first be reflected in the March payroll deductions.

Employees who are interested in joining Blue Cross-Blue Shield and those who wish to make adjustments in their coverage should obtain the proper card.

New members must complete a white application card.

Those wishing to make a change in coverage must complete a yellow adjustment card.

Any city employees who has required hospital and physician's care in recent years realize how important it is to be adequately protected.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR THE FIRST PHASE OF BOSTON'S HOUSING-FOR-ELDERLY PROGRAM

Mayor John F. Collins, on April 6, presided at the ground breaking ceremony which marked the initial phase of Boston's state-aided housing for the elderly program. The structures will be located near Franklin Field, on Westview street, at the east end of the existing housing development.

This development was recently approved by the City Council.

Attending the ceremony were members of the City Council, state and city officials, members of the Boston Housing Authority, and representatives of various civic and social agencies.

Row House Type

Housing Authority Chairman Edward D. Hassan described the new development as the row house type, two stories high, wood frame, brick veneer, containing 80 dwelling units in seven buildings.

There will be a separate community building with a large room for use of the tenants, a laundry, and serving kitchen.

Each unit will consist of a kitchen, dinette, living room, and bedroom of twin bed size, and special facilities for elderly tenants, such as alarm systems and convenient grab bars in the bathroom.

Occupancy in Early 1962

Whitney, Atwood & Norcross Associates are the architects. Buildings will cover approximately 12 per cent of the land with the remaining 88 per cent devoted to parking area, sitting area, lawns and planting, providing open space to give good light and air circulation.

The Jefferson Construction Company is the general contractor.

First occupancy is scheduled for early in 1962.

This development is one of seven for the elderly presently ready for actual construction within the next three months. The group when completed will contain 480 apartments designed in two-story and seven-story buildings.

Payroll deductions for Blue Cross-Blue Shield will be made weekly beginning the first week in March on a four-week-per-month basis. These deductions will reflect the increase due April 1.

All employees who wish to become members or who wish to adjust their coverage at this time will fill out prescribed cards. These cards will be delivered to the Chief Clerk's office as soon as possible, but not later than Wednesday, February 8, 1961. A supply of authorization cards is forwarded with this order. It will not be necessary to fill out a card to accept this increase in rates.

Commanding officers are directed to bring this notice to the attention of all personnel attached to their respective divisions and units.

February 3.

General Order No. 870.

Detectives Third Grade Francis Crawford and Walter E. Schultz and Patrolmen Robert L. Chenette and Robert L. Cunningham of the Special Service Squad, Bureau of Criminal Investigation, are hereby commended for the performance of meritorious police duty and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

At 3:45 A.M., January 8, 1961, Detectives Crawford and Schultz, with Patrolmen Cunningham and Chenette, arrested in front of 5 Carleton street, city, one Clark J. Thompson, 26 years, married, 185 Cabot street, Roxbury, and one John W. Richard, 29 years, married, 6 Garrison street, city, on suspicion of larceny of a motor vehicle, while in the process of transferring plates from a 1957 Lloyd sedan to a 1955 Chevrolet sedan, reported stolen on Division 16 the previous evening. The actions of the two subjects seemed to indicate that they intended to retain the stolen vehicle for some unlawful purpose. They were brought to Headquarters and a check with the Bureau of Records revealed they both had long criminal records. Refusing to answer any questions, they were taken to City Prison to await the morning line-up and prosecution in Central Municipal Court.

They were arraigned before Judge Glynn later that morning on charges of using a motor vehicle without authority; larceny of registration plates; and unlawfully attaching registration plates to a motor vehicle. Both pleaded not guilty and their cases were continued to January 17, 1961, with Thompson held in $2,000, and Richard in $500 bail. On January 17, Thompson was convicted on all counts and committed to the House of Correction for a term of three months on the first two, to run concurrently, the third count placed on file. Richard failed to appear and was ordered held in default.

On January 22, 1961, at about 3 A.M., acting on information that Richard might be visiting a brother at 6 Garrison street, the officers searched the premises there and found in the closet an electric typewriter. Having in mind that a similar typewriter had been reported stolen on Division 3 on December 31, 1960, the officers went to Headquarters and checked the records. Check disclosed that on that date the building at 79 Sudbury street had been entered by breaking the glass in the front door, and several business establishments therein robbed of money, merchandise, office equipment, and personal property. Included in the thefts were an IBM electric typewriter and a Royal typewriter taken from the first floor establishment, whose manager later identified the one found at the Garrison street address as their property. Recovered also was the Royal typewriter at an address where it had been hidden, for safekeeping, by John W. Richard.

Returning to 6 Garrison street, the officers questioned Richard's brother, who stated that the typewriter had been brought to his home about three weeks previously and that he did not know his brother's present whereabouts. Questioning of friends and other relatives of John Richard revealed that he had been seen in the vicinity of Columbus avenue in the company of a man operating a Chevrolet sedan bearing a Virginia number plate. The area was thoroughly searched by the officers who finally located the lost car and operator at a gas station. The operator identified himself as a resident of Richmond, Virginia, was shown a picture of Richard and told the officers that he had met Richard in New York, had driven him to Boston and had left him at a lodging house somewhere in the Back Bay area. Accompanied by this man, the officers started an extensive search of the area, finally located the house where Richard was staying, and subsequently arrested him. After lengthy questioning at Headquarters, he admitted his part in the breaks, involving as accomplices the previously named Clark J. Thompson and two other men called "Leon" and "Andy" whose last names and addresses he stated he did not know.

Pursuing their investigation, Detectives Crawford and Schultz and Patrolmen Chenette and Cunningham learned that the man known as "Andy" was an itinerant musician, true name Andrew D. Robinson, 21 years, single, of 24 Callender street, Cambridge, Mass., and that he was presently playing in a cafe in Springfield, Mass. Requesting Springfield police to arrest and hold him, our officers obtained warrants charging him with conspiracy and breaking and entering in the nighttime, took him into custody in Springfield and returned him to Boston. Robinson readily admitted his part in the conspiracy and commission of the breaking and entering at Sudbury street and named as his accomplices John Richard, Clark Thompson, and the man known as "Leon" who is still being investigated.

On January 26, 1961, complaints were granted against Robinson on conspiracy and two counts of breaking and entering and bail was set at $5,000, with his case continued to February 3, 1961.

Meanwhile, John Richard was arraigned in Central Municipal Court on two counts of breaking and entering and one count of conspiracy and a default. Bail was set at $5,000.

At the same time additional complaints were granted against Clark Thompson, namely, two counts of breaking and entering and one count of conspiracy. Warrants were lodged against him at Deer Island House of Correction.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the devotion to duty evidenced by Detectives Crawford and Schultz and Patrolmen Chenette and Cunningham in this case. Their alertness in observing the two subjects on the early morning of January 8 engaged in transfer of motor vehicle registration plates, whom they promptly arrested, and the perseverance of these officers in their subsequent investigation and arrest exemplifies the highest type of police work.

February 3.

General Order No. 871.

Detectives First Grade Joseph G. Cunningham, James W. Moar, John V. Nee, Francis D. Powers, and Edward J. Walsh of the Special Service Squad, Bureau of Criminal Investigation, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

On December 16, 1960, at about 2 A.M., the above detectives set a stake out in the vicinity of 26 Pilsudski way, South Boston, residence of wife and children of one John J. Ward, 36 years, and known safe burglar, who was wanted on two default warrants issued by the Suffolk Superior Court. At about 3 A.M., the lights in Ward's apartment, No. 538, were extinguished, as the officers entered the building and went up to the door. After a delay, they were admitted, a search of the apartment was made and the subject, John J. Ward, was found under a bed clinging to a bed spring. He was arrested, brought to Police Headquarters, and on his person was found a key to a room in the Motel Monticello, Framingham, Mass.

Detectives Moar, Nee, and Powers, at 530 that morning, proceeded to the motel where it was learned that John Ward had registered under an alias of "William Holley," 8 Gore street, Roxbury, and was accompanied by another man named John Holley of the same address. A search of the room they occupied at the motel revealed many rolls of silver marked "Fitchburg and Leominster," "Worcester County National Bank, REB," loose change amounting to approximately $90, three bottles of liquor, a payroll ledger with various names, 15 rounds of .38 caliber ammunition, two broken high-speed drills and a jimmy bar.

Information was received at the motel that John Ward, alias William Holley, and one John Holley arrived in a 1956 Ford sedan, Mass. Reg. 436652, listed to one Doris Walsh of 261 South street, Fitchburg, Mass., on December 14, 1960, and paid for their room in advance to Friday, December 16, 1960.

Further investigation revealed that on December 15, 1960, Ward hired a 1960 Pontiac sedan, Mass. Reg. F-21391, from the South Wrecker Service, 30 Sanger street, Framingham, which was found on December 16, 1960, at about 8.30 A.M., on Mercer street, South Boston, by Detectives Nee and Powers. A search of the car disclosed two suitcases, 12 rounds of .38 caliber ammunition, 10 rounds of .22 caliber ammunition, and $325 in bills of various denominations.

Upon notification, Lieutenant Warren Wade and Sergeant Daey of the Fitchburg Police Department came to Boston Police Headquarters later that morning and identified rolls of silver stolen in a safe job from Coca-Cola Bottling Company, 201 Lunenburg street, Fitchburg, and matched two pieces of high-speed drills with the drills found in the motel. The liquor was identified as stolen from D. A. Boyle's Market, 290 Water street, Fitchburg, and the payroll ledgers identified as coming from a safe job at the Gruener Hardware Store, 31 Main street, Fitchburg. These breaks took place on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, December 13 and 14, 1960, in the city of Fitchburg.

The prisoner, John Ward, when confronted with this evidence, admitted his participation in the breaks but would not name his accomplice. He was arraigned in Suffolk Superior Court on Monday, December 19, 1960, before Judge Eugene Hudson and sentenced to not less than 8 nor more than 10 years in the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Walpole, for his participation in the burglary and safe job at the Bellevue Co-operative Bank, West Roxbury, the case in which the aforesaid warrants had been issued.

On Sunday, December 18, 1960, John F. Holley, 39 years, married, of 8 Gore street, Roxbury, was arrested at his home by Detectives Cunningham, Moar, and Walsh and brought to Police Headquarters. After thorough investigation, Holley admitted he was with Ward in the city of Fitchburg on December 13 and 14, 1960, and committed the breaks with him. He further stated that John Ward had been living in the home of Doris Walsh, 261 South street, Fitchburg, where Ward had obtained six sticks of dynamite from her brother, Paul Walsh, that had been taken by him from a construction job and were used by Ward to blow open two safes.

John Holley was turned over to Lieutenant Wade of the Fitchburg Police Department after his appearance in the line-up on Monday, December 19, and Tuesday, December 20, 1960.

John Holley and Paul Walsh were arraigned in Fitchburg District Court where their cases were continued to Monday, January 9, 1961, with bail set at $20,000 for each defendant.

On January 23, 1961, in Worcester Superior Court, John J. Ward was sentenced to the Massachusetts Correctional Institution at Walpole for 7 to 10 years, concurrent with the sentence imposed by Judge Hudson in Superior Court on December 19, 1960.

Holley and Paul Walsh, at the same sitting of the Court in Worcester, were sentenced to the Massachusetts Correctional Institution in Walpole. Their sentences were suspended and they were placed on probation.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the exceptional devotion to duty displayed by these officers who, by their persistent and thorough investigation, without regard to hours, accomplished the arrest of desperate criminals, thus bringing about the clearance of numerous burglaries in this and other communities. This type of police work reflects credit upon the entire Boston Police Department.

Patrolman Hugh E. Dolan, Division 2, honorably discharged veteran, having arrived at the age of sixty-six years, having been in service of the City of Boston for thirty-four years, and having requested retirement under provisions of section 58, chapter 32, General Laws (Ter. Edit.), as amended, it is hereby Ordered, His Honor the Mayor having approved the same, Patrolman Hugh E. Dolan will be retired from active duty in the Police Department, effective Tuesday, February 21, 1961, at 5.45 o'clock P.M.

February 17.

General Order No. 874.

Sergeant George V. Scanlon and Patrolmen Gregory Mazares and Patrick J. Spillane, Division 4, are hereby commended for the performance of meritorious police service and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

About 9 P.M., on Friday, February 10, 1961, Sergeant Scanlon and Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane, assigned to plain-clothes duty and cruising in an unmarked department car heard the dispatcher broadcast the description of two men wanted for the armed robbery of the Supreme Market, Broadway, South Boston. The officers proceeded at once to the bridge on Broadway, taking a position where they could observe all vehicles entering from the direction of South Boston, in the event this might be used as an escape route by the suspects in a plan to mingle with the theater and night club crowd when they reached the intown area.

After waiting for a period of about twenty minutes and not observing any vehicle or its occupants matching the descriptions broadcast, the officers then started a systematic inspection of the various cafes and taverns in the area. At about 10.30 P.M., when approaching the Melody Bar at Washington street and Broadway to make inspection, they observed, just leaving that establishment, two men answering the description of those wanted on Division 6. With the knowledge that they were armed, the officers kept them under surveillance until they reached Broadway and Tremont street, a well lighted area where any movement made by the suspects could be more easily detected. Here the officers approached the two and made search for the weapon. None was found and it was later learned that the gun used in the holdup had been discarded by them earlier on Division 6. Found on each suspect was a roll of bills and they were at once placed under arrest on suspicion of armed robbery. At Station 4 the prisoners were identified as one Richard Manning, 28 years, married, 242 West Third street, South Boston, and one William Lawrence, 33 years, 503 Broadway, South Boston. Manning had in his possession $475.30 in U. S. currency, and Lawrence $506.70.

Officers of Division 6 were notified and brought the victim to Station 4. From a line-up, including four plain-clothes officers, he identified Richard Manning and William Lawrence as the two who had held him up earlier at gun point, while in the Supreme Market, Broadway, South Boston.

The prisoners and money were delivered to Division 6 officers.

On investigation and questioning of Richard Manning and William Lawrence and viewing of the two by victims of other holdups on Division 6, it was revealed that both were implicated in the following two armed robberies on that division: Merit Gas Station, Old Colony avenue and D street, on February 8, 1961, at about 2.30 A.M., attendant there robbed at gun point of $137; Foley Package Goods Store, 285 Dorchester street, on February 8, 1961, at about 9.45 P.M., the clerk robbed at gun point of $80 in U. S. currency, and two checks.

On arraignment in South Boston Court, Manning and Lawrence were held for the Grand Jury.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the efficient manner in which Sergeant Scanlon and Patrolmen Mazares and Spillane conducted the above investigation. Their alertness and observation resulted in the speedy apprehension of two felons and the early solution of three armed robberies.

March 3.

General Order No. 880.

Patrolman Walter J. Fahey, Traffic Division, is hereby commended for the performance of meritorious police duty.

At about 11.55 A.M., Tuesday, February 28, 1961, Patrolman Fahey, while on duty at the intersection of Washington and Avery streets, Boston, was informed by an unidentified citizen that a young girl was sitting on a parapet at the edge of the roof of the seven-story building at 515 Washington street, her feet dangling over the side, apparently about to jump. The officer went to the scene immediately and observed the girl in the position indicated.

In order not to alarm her, Patrolman Fahey entered the building unobserved and proceeded to the seventh floor by elevator, instructing the operator to allow no one onto the roof, lest the girl become excited and jump. He then went to the roof by the rear stairway and observed the girl about twenty yards away, her back toward the officer. He walked slowly toward her until she became aware of his presence, when she threatened to jump if he continued. Patrolman Fahey then engaged her in conversation for several minutes, eliciting from her the reasons for her present plight, explaining the futility of her intended rash action, meanwhile approaching her slowly until, when the officer was some 8 yards from her, she repeated her threat to jump and raised herself as if to do so.

At this moment her attention was attracted by the superintendent of the building at 511 Washington street, who was positioned on the front fire escape of that building. Observing that the girl's attention was momentarily distracted, Patrolman Fahey made a lunge for her, caught her about the waist and removed her to a place of safety. He then brought her to the street floor of the building, where she was turned over to officers of Division 2 and removed to that Station.

The girl, identified as Carol D. Minucci, 15 years, of 13 Beckler avenue, South Boston, was interviewed by Rev. Kenneth B. Murphy, of Rescue, Inc., examined by Dr. Matthew Lappin, and committed to the Metropolitan State Hospital for observation.

The commissioner is pleased to recognize the prompt and intelligent action of Patrolman Fahey in the above emergency, taken without regard for his own safety.
